75 TS. PER YEAR

SHOCKED BY LIGHTNING. Eagles More Takes a Shower Bath. The Chaulauqua Office was Double Mark For Bolts. Herman Knipe Shocked.

The severest thunder storm of the eason visited the top of Eagles Mere mountain Monday afternoon. Rain fell in torrents for nearly half an hour, accompanied by heavy hail, the hailstones being as large as chest nuts. The downpour was the result of two heavy rainstorms meeting and the wrath of both decended in terrible manner upon the picturesque summer resort. Lightning struck repeatedly, causing clap after clap of leafening thunder and tly rightening the people.

The office at the Chautauqua was hit twice by bolts almost immediately succeeding each other. Two small steeple points that extend from the roof were knocked completely off. Walter Fellows, a stulent, and Herman Knipe, manager of the E. M. R. R. were sitting in the office at the time. Both were severely shocked.

Thursday she was taken violently ill and the injured finger began swelling alarmingly fast. Medical aid seemed to avail nothing and the patient little sufferer lay in agony until death relieved her Saturday afternoon. Funeral service was held at Nordmont on Monday. ## Unconscious Patriotism.

Bryan is just wild to get Judge Parker to say something so that he can talk back at him. The Nebraska man is going to do just as much next year to elect another Republican candidate as if he were again the nominee of his party. He should have due credit for his patriotism, though it is uncon-scious.—Philadelphia Press.
