Pennsylvania Republicans to Make An Aggressive Canvass.

STATE CAMPAIGN OPEN

PRELIMINARY WORK IS DONE

Party Organization, Which Is the Greatest in the Country, is Preparing to Roll Up An Immense Majority.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 1 .- With the be ginning of this week the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania can fairly be said to be already under way. While the formal opening of the state com-mittee's headquarters in this city will not take place for a few days, there has been a vast amount of preliminary work done since the candidates were placed in the field. The chairmen of the several county committees are in a position to get down to practical campaigning at once.

Senator Boies Penrose, who succeeded Senator Quay as chairman of the Republican state committee, is expected home from the wilds of British Columbia in a few days, and Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the state committee for many years, will be here on Monday next. Colonel Andrews has been at work practically all summer, with temporary headquarters in Meadville, where he has had a corps of clerks, stenographers and typewriters engaged on correspondence covering every county, borough and vot-ing precinct in the commonwealth. Poll books have been distributed, lists of county committees and vigilantes throughout the state have been compiled, and everything has been gotten into shape to begin operations at the headquarters here without delay.

A GREAT ORGANIZATION. The organization of the Republican party in Peansylvania is a marvelous institution. There is nothing like it in the country. No political organization in the world, it is believed, can compare with it. It has a wonderful system and it is always in touch with the voters. The name and address of every voter in the commonwealth, with precise infor-mation regarding his politics and environment, can be found at the head quarters of the Republican state committee, and at the outset of each campaign these lists are revised and brought up to date for use both prior to and at the election.

Like the successful newspaper advertisers, the managers of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania attribute their success to "keeping everlastingly at it."

They do not let their interest in the county organizations lag after a cam-paign has been fought, but they go to work at once to prepare for the next contest. The rank and file of the taxes has been duly impressed upon the committeemen WILL BE AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN. The plans for the state campaign have not been fully determined upon, but it is known that the canvass, while it will be a short one, will be made upon the most aggressive lines and that a determined effort will be made to poll a large Republican vote in every county in the state. Meetings will be held whenever requested by the chairmen of the county committees, and every assistance will be given by the Republican state com-mittee to the local organizations to notice to the local organizations to rouse enthusiasm among the voters and in other ways to insure the best possible results for the ticket. The candidates named by the Re-publican state convention are all men of unimpeachable character. They have all been before the people, and their records are above reproach. The nominees for the superior court, Judge John J. Henderson, of Crawford county, and Judge Thomas A. Morrison, of McKean county, have both served on the bench, and each has won an enviable reputation among the members of the bar and the judiciary of the commonwealth.

Senator William P. Snyder, of Chester county, the nominee for auditor general, and William L. Mathues, of Delaware county, the candidate for Delaware county, the candidate for state treasurer, are both aggressive and sturdy representatives of the stalwart Republicanism of Pennsylvania, and they have merited by their public services and their devotion to the interests of the people the honors con-ferred upon them by their party. They have been in the searchlight of public opinion for years, and not a single dis-honorable or discreditable act can be traced to either of them. In the communities in which they are best known it is predicted they will each be given unprecedented ma-jorities at the coming election.

appreciate this, and they join heartily in the efforts to have their respective county organi-zations constantly in touch with their voters and ready at all times to re-spond to requests from the chairman of the state committee for information desired for the welfare of the party.

Republicans in other sections of the Union have come to look upon Penn-sylvania as the best organized state in the country. The fact that the Republican majorities are invariably greater than those given in any other state can be traced to the system which keeps the county organizations in constant and direct touch with the state committee.

It is proposed in the present cam-lit is proposed in the present cam-paign that there shall be nothing left undone to make the result of the elec-tion in November eminently satisfac-tory to the party leaders, both in the state and the nation. Republican committeemen through-out the state have been at work look-ing up Republican voters and getting them registered so as to qualify them to vote at the election, which falls this year on November 3. After getting their voters registered, the Republican workers will see to it that they are qualified to vote. Saturday, October 3, will be the last day for the payment of taxes to qual-lfy voters for the November election. In the vast amount of literature which has already been sent out by Secre-tary Andrews, the importance of registering and having the voters pay their
