

Doctor

Tried but Could Not Relieve Me

Of Headache, Dizziness, Twitching.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Did Relieve and Cure.

"The doctor tried but couldn't relieve me" is a phrase commonly met with in the letters we receive from grateful patients. The reason is plain. The doctor tries to cure the symptom and neglects the disease. In all cases of chronic headache, nervousness, weakness, general debility, dizzy spells, loss of appetite, inability to sleep, lack of energy, loss of flesh, lack of interest, morbid tendencies, hysteria, the disease is a nervous disorder and some means must be taken to strengthen and restore the nervous system. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is performing wonders every day and will cure you as it has thousands of others. Read how quickly it acted in the following case:

"A few years ago I was greatly troubled with nervousness and indigestion. While at work a dizzy spell would come over me and I would be forced to stop and rest. I suffered terribly from headaches and my nervousness was so marked as to cause almost constant twitching of the muscles. My doctor tried but could not relieve me. I finally began the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and continued until I have used four bottles, although I have not had a dizzy spell since taking the first dose. I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and shall take pleasure in recommending it whenever I can."—FRANK F. BENTLEY, Middlebury, Vt.

The Adopts Protection and Increases Her Foreign Trade.

Japan has been trying protection and seems to like it. That country is making great advancement in the ways of civilization, and naturally wants to stand among progressive people. To do so it must develop its own resources, and this can be done only through proper encouragement. Japan a few years ago discovered that it was buying abroad a large number of articles which its foremost statesmen and economists were satisfied it could produce at home. For instance, in 1898 Japan imported $1,474,168 worth of watches. It concluded to try the effect of higher tariff rates on many products, believing the result would be to stimulate home development. The result has justified its judgment. In 1902 its imports of watches, for instance, were but $116,670. It had increased the duty on watches from 5 per cent, the former rate, to 30 per cent. Effect—the Japanese began to manufacture watches and the importations of those articles fell off.

But while this has been the case the general result of the higher tariff has been to increase, not to diminish, Japan's foreign trade generally. In this respect, its experience has been strikingly similar to that of the United States, which under "high protection" has seen its manufactures attain unprecedented proportions, surpassing those of any other nation, while its exports and imports have reached prodigious figures. The absurd free trade contention that protection shuts the doors of other nations against a protected country has been so often disproved of late by the stories from Germany and Japan and the remarkable commercial advance of the United States that it would seem to be pretty near time to retire that worn-out assertion.

Japan is increasing both its exports and its imports, just as the United States is doing, and the greatest increase in each case has been made since higher protection has been secured. Here are a few figures which are significant as indicating the drift: For the first four months of the present year the imports of Japan were about $14,000,000 in excess of those of the same period last year, and the exports were $3,000,000 greater. For the same four months the imports of the United States exceeded those of the like period last year by $47,000,000, while the exports for the four months of 1903 were $54,000,000 more than in 1902. Japan is following the protection trail, and it finds in the United States a very encouraging example.—Two Times

F. A. DERTHICK.

Master Ohio State Grange and a Student Under Garfield.

F. A. Dertthick, the subject of this sketch, is master of the state grange of Ohio and was elected a member of the national grange executive committee at its last meeting. He is a graduate of Hiram college of Ohio and was a pupil of President James A. Garfield. He is a trustee of the college, and his elegant home is situated on Dertthick hill, overlooking the college buildings. His wife and five children are graduates of the same institution. Mr. Dertthick is one of the prosperous farmers of the Buckeye State who find time between planting and harvesting and harvesting and planting to devote considerable time to the agitation of those reforms which the grange believes will work to the betterment of the farmers as a class. He resides at Mentor. He has a reputation as an orator and a writer, as well as a student of scientific farming. He has been connected for a number of years with the state agricultural department in the capacity of lecturer at farmers' institutes and in this manner has attained a wide reputation in his own state as a leader in advanced ideas on technical farming. He has also studied the social and educational problems of the rural communities. He is one of the strong members of the state and national grange.

TENT WORMS.
A Legal Warfare to Be Waged on These Pests by the Grange.
Dutchess county (N. Y.) Patrons are going to deal with the tent worms legally. All the granges in that county are to be asked to indorse the following act, which will be presented to the next state legislature for its approval and enactment into law:
An act for the destruction of tent worms and their nests or tents within the county of Dutchess.
Commissioners of highways in each town within the county of Dutchess shall at such time or times in each year as may be necessary destroy tent worms with their nests or tents in the trees on the public highways in their respective towns, and they may purchase all torches, implements or materials necessary and proper for such purpose, the cost of which, with the compensation of the highway commissioners at the rate of $2 per day each for the time spent on said work, shall be a town charge. The owner or occupant of all lands within the county of Dutchess at such time or times in each year as may be necessary and when the presence of such tent worms in the trees upon his land become apparent shall destroy the same with their nests or tents.

A Center of Communication.
The Patrons of the Order in Pennsylvania have a sort of clearing house for surplus produce, which is in charge of Mr. S. B. Day of Washington, Pa. He styles it a "center of communication."
Patrons in any part of the state can write to the manager of the central bureau and give him the quantity of surplus products which they have for sale in their section. The central bureau, being in communication with all sections of the state, is enabled to inform such parties where there may be a shortage of like articles and place them in communication with parties desiring the things which they have to sell. In other words, this bureau puts the producers and the consumers in communication with each other and they then transact their own business with one another.

There are numerous ways in which such a central bureau can be of service to Patrons of the Order and it seems to be a most excellent idea.

Grange Literature.
The printed page is doing good work for the grange these days. Not only are the newspapers devoting much more space than formerly to the grange, but the state grange organizations, through the masters, lecturers and secretaries, are preparing and disseminating grange information by circulars, pamphlets and bulletins more widely than ever. This is well. The Order will feel the beneficial effects thereof in increased membership and in a better understanding of its principles and of what it is accomplishing for the farmers of the country. So far as our observation extends, the Michigan state grange leads its sister organizations in the effective use of grange literature.

National Lecturer's Topics.
The topics announced by National Lecturer Bacheider for September to December, inclusive, are the following:
September.—What farm crops are the most profitable in this locality?
October.—What influence has home life upon the young in the formation of character?
November.—What influence has the grange in the formation of character?
December.—What should be the relation of the grange and church?

Ceres, Pomona and Flora can find ample employment in promoting aesthetic notions about the adornment of our lawns and outbuildings. A community filled with beautiful homes has a high financial rating, to say nothing of the aesthetic.

Short Talks On Advertising By Charles Austin Bates.

No. 23.

The down-town terminus of a Third Avenue elevated road is exactly opposite the entrance to an East River bridge. As one comes down the stairway from the elevated, or comes out of the bridge entrance, he is met by a number of newsboys, each one crying his papers, and at the same time holding out his hand in the hope of receiving the paper with which you are through. These papers are either sold again or are returned to the newspaper offices as unsold copies.

The boy who asks oftenest and keeps most persistently in the foreground sells the most papers.

There is as much difference in the methods of these newsboys as there is in those of business men who advertise. Some of the boys push to the front and seem to catch the eye of almost everybody. There is another kind of boy, who stands a little in the background, but who still reaches out his hand. Out on the edge are some of the smaller, weaker and less energetic boys, and beyond them are some who take no interest in the proceedings at all, who receive few papers and sell few. The boy who asks oftenest and keeps most persistently in the foreground is the boy who sells the most papers.

The advertiser who keeps his business prominently before people and asks persistently and often for their trade is the one who will get the most business. The man who is nearly as energetic will get the business that is left, and the one who stands around on the edge, with his hands in his pockets, may very reasonably and justly expect to get "what the boy shot at."

Advertising, reduced to its lowest terms, is merely asking people for their trade. That's all there is of it. A business man wants trade in some particular line. If it is a "good line, and if he understands it and runs his business properly, it is only a question of asking enough people and asking them often. In the dull season, when only comparatively few people are buying anything, the advertising effort should be increased as the number of possible buyers decreases. It is easier to sell $10 worth of goods among a thousand people than it is to sell that much among one hundred people. If there are only one hundred to work on, work them hard.
