The days of damage by the flobert rifle, in cities and boroughs of this State are nearing an end, for after the 15th of October it will be unlawful for any person to discharge one of these, or, in fact, any gun that impels with force a metal pellet of any kind. The last Legislature passed the act and it was signed by the Governor, and is as follows: Six months after of April 15th 1903, it will be unlawful for any person to discharge in any city or borough of this Commonwealth a flobert rifle, air gun, spring gun, or any implement which impels with force a metal pellet of any kind. The penalty is five dollars for the first offense and fifteen dollars and ten days imprisonment for the second offense.

It was on the road coming from Dushore to Laporte Tuesday that Philo Kiesenger learned the humor of Irish wit. It was such that gave him a dangerous laughing fit. He came into town laughing; laughed all the time he was here and was still laughing when he left town.
Philo had purchased a horse at Towanda and was bringing it home hitched to a buckboard that was given to him by the man who sold him the horse. As Philo says, "a funny Irishman" was riding with him to the county seat and as they were engaged in talking of the good wagon thrown in with the deal, Philo decided to try the speed of his new horse. A few sharp cuts of the whip laid over the back of the animal sent the buckboard around the turns like and uncontrollable automobile. Only at times did the wheels touch the ground. The excited Irishman no longer able to keep the seat and clinging to the dashboard, looked inquiringly at Philo from his grotesque position on the bottom of the buckboard and exclaimed: "Faith and did the man give ye the whip too."

SOUNDS THE KEYNOTE

Pennsylvania By Her Election Returns Shapes Party Policies.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN OUTLOOK

Overwhelming Republican Majorities Desired This Fall to Insure a Continuance of Roosevelt, Protection and Prosperity.

[Special Correspondence.]
Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Manufacturers, business men and many hundreds of thousands of employes of mercantile and industrial establishments throughout Pennsylvania seem to be impressed with the important bearing the result of the approaching election in the state will have in shaping the policy to be advocated by the Republican party in the next national convention.

Already the election of delegates to the next Republican national convention is under way, and Pennsylvania has led off by naming the first Roosevelt delegates chosen in the United States.

While in the middle west there has been a revival of the agitation for so-called "tariff reform," which is nothing more nor less than a demand for Democratic free trade, Republicans of great manufacturing states like Pennsylvania are alert to the necessity of meeting this issue with prompt and emphatic declarations against any such movement.

Through the agency of the Republican state committee, the chairman of the Republican county committees have been warned to get in touch with the members of their respective committees and instruct them to advise every voter as to the bearing the election this fall will have on the next presidential election.

As a matter of fact, the utterances of the Republicans of Pennsylvania, as reflected through the ballot box, have great weight in the deliberations of the delegates to the Republican national convention, and therefore it is essential that there shall be an overwhelming Republican majority rolled up in Pennsylvania this fall.

Such a majority will be considered as Pennsylvania's voice in behalf of a continuance of the present era of prosperity and an emphatic protest against any and all attempts at tariff tinkering; in other words, such a verdict will be accepted to mean that Pennsylvania is in favor of letting well enough alone; a policy which, if pursued, will prevent business disturbances and the consequent inauguration of a period of depression which usually prevails during presidential years.

First of Exporting Countries.

The fact that the exports of the United States in the fiscal year just ended are greater than those in any preceding year except 1900 lends special interest to a statement presented by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics which shows the relative growth of the export trade of the principal countries of the world for a term of years and compares that of the United States with other countries. The table in question shows the total value of exports of domestic products from the principal countries of the world in 1870, 1880, 1890 and the latest available year.
A study of this table of exports from the principal exporting countries of the world shows that the United States, which occupied fourth place in the list of exporting countries in 1870, now shows a larger total in the first column which represents the latest available year than any other country.—Bulletin of the Iron and Steel Association.
