To Border Line of Life and Death.

Neuralgia of Heart, Weak Stomach.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Her.

Neuralgia of the heart causes sudden death. It is an acute affection of the cardiac nerve, just as neuralgia is of the nerves of the face, usually, and sciatica is of the nerve trunk of the thigh. One of its most frequent symptoms is derangement of the stomach and liver. Strengthen the heart's action and enrich the blood with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, tone up the nerves with Restorative Nerve and you will soon be cured.

"Nervous exhaustion and liver trouble so affected my wife's health that she was greatly run down; neuralgia of the heart set in and for a long time she was very close to the border line of life and death. She was attended by two good physicians, who did all they could for her, but in spite of everything she grew worse right along. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nerve and New Heart Cure, and the doctor's explanation of the effects of nervous trouble upon the heart seemed so logical that I decided to give the remedies a trial. We now know that the stomach and liver troubles were part of the heart weakness. She improved wonderfully at once. Her appetite picked up, she slept well at night and the pain around her heart rapidly disappeared. Thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure in a few weeks she was able to be up and attend to her household duties, and in a few months every sign of nervous and heart trouble had vanished."

Won't Have "Calamity" Issue.
General business calamity is the only thing that will afford the Democrats a chance to win, according to the word of one of the most experienced and clear headed of the country's Democrats, ex-Senator Vest, and neither that statesman nor anybody else whose opinion on the subject is worth anything sees calamity in the immediate future. It is clear to business men throughout the country that the financial adversity is not in sight which would be necessary to give any chance of success to the Democrats. Neither is the harmony in sight without which that party cannot make even as strong a canvass as it did in 1900.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Free in Theory; Bad in Practice.
Free trade is best defined in the language of the Richmond Times in 1864. Referring to state rights, that paper remarked that "in theory they are beautiful and true, but defective in practice." Some people learn by studying a question to a logical conclusion, and there are others who will not learn an economic lesson when it is demonstrated practically by free soup stands.—Sheffield (Ala.) Reap.

Mr. Cleveland's Consolation.
In speaking of Henry Ward Beecher Mr. Cleveland says that "when he felt the cruel stings of man's ingratitude and malice he serenely looked toward his Heavenly Father's face and kept within the comforting light of a pure conscience." If Mr. Cleveland applies the same principles to his political relations, he has at least a pious consolation.

The Heat of Lava.
The lava streams from the eruption of Vesuvius in 1858 were so hot twelve years later that steam issued from their cracks and crevices. Those that flowed from Etna in 1787 were found to be steaming hot just below the crust as late as 1840. The volcano Jorullo, in Mexico, poured forth in 1759 lava that eighty-seven years later gave off columns of steaming vapor. In 1780 it was found that a stick thrust into the crevices instantly ignited, although no discomfort was experienced in walking on the hardened crust.

History Reveals Itself.
In every republic that ever existed it was the aim of the rich to crush the middle class and make an aristocracy of wealth to enslave the lower classes of humanity. Water, food and fuel belong to the people, and the men that rob them of either are traitors to humanity.—Rev. P. K. Kain, Reformed, Philadelphia.

THE FARM LABOR QUESTION

How Can the Grange Help in Solving the Farm Labor Problem?

The scarcity of farm help both indoors and outdoors the past harvest season has forced farm people to think seriously as to what will be the outcome. Wages of farm laborers have increased nearly one-third in the last decade, while the supply of farm help has diminished in about the same ratio. The farmer has been trying to tide over this pressure by working a little harder himself. The good wife and children have "helped out" in many an emergency, but the long continued strain proves to us that we cannot endure this high pressure very much longer. A suggestion of a solution to this problem is given by Hon. F. W. Redfern, which is worthy of consideration. He says:

"The scarcity of really good men, men who understand farm operations, is coming to be severely felt. Farmers are anxiously inquiring, 'What are we going to do for help on the farm?' Some one says, 'Use more machinery.' Yes, but that is only a partial solution of the work question, for men must be had to work the machinery. The problem of getting them still confronts us. A solution must be had, however. It must come through a change in cropping, a curtailment of production or a resort to the importation of labor from countries having an excess. The present demand for marketable products precludes very much change in cropping, at least of such a character as would allow with doing away with hired help on the ordinary farm. Curtailment of production cannot be thought of, because that would bring distress. The people must be fed. The remedy would seem then to be in importation of farm laborers. The question then is, How can this be brought about? Simply enough. A general appeal might be made by our agriculturists to the chief of the department of agriculture at Washington, asking that the United States consuls abroad be instructed to make inquiry as to the location of farm laborers who would be willing to migrate to the United States and report their findings to Washington.

"An information bureau could be established and arrangements made with the authorities in Washington as to the number of laborers desired and in what localities needed. All that would be needed could no doubt be induced to come. A dearth of laborers for the mine or workshop is readily filled by importation of miners and mechanics from the overthrown districts of Europe. Why not try the experiment on our farms and thereby solve the question of farm labor?"

The question now comes, Is this a matter where the national grange could urge upon congress to take some action that will allow farmers more latitude in regard to the employment of foreign laborers?—Michigan Quarterly Bulletin.

GRANGE NEWS.

Local Papers Recognize the Demand For It.

We note with encouragement the way in which the press of New York state, and even other states, is throwing open its columns to grange news. More grange departments have been started by newspapers within the past six months than ever before. Papers which ten years ago had no space for grange news are now giving from one to four columns a week to it. They have simply recognized a demand for this kind of reading on the part of the public. An ideal grange department in a local paper should contain all the real news pertaining to the order. But it should be more than a purely news department. It should furnish food for thought along lines of grange work. It should contain such reading matter as could be used with profit by the lecturer in the meetings, and it should at all times aim to furnish such articles as will broaden and educate. It should also be the aim of the editor of a grange department to keep abreast of the best sentiment and thought of the day in this chosen field.—Overseer George A. Fuller.

The Subordinate Grange.
If a grange fails to be interesting or attractive no sense of duty will long prompt members to attend. The membership of the grange is composed of a class of persons whose lives are given to labor and who usually are surfeited with brain wearying cares and business at home and who value the grange for the recreation and pleasant times it affords them as much as for the pecuniary benefits and intellectual development it brings. It has been the mistake of many well meaning officers to stuff their members with intellectual nutrition without sweetening, flavoring or salting and then blame the subjects because their appetite palls.—S. E. Strode.

An Illustration of Co-operation.
What may be done in co-operation is best shown by what is being done. The members of Volney grange, No. 165, Oswego county, N. Y., during the year ending June 1, 1903, bought eighteen cars of feed weighing 345 tons, four cars of coal and 10,000 pounds of sugar, besides large quantities of other groceries.

Christ the Solution.
Christ is the solution of all social difficulties, and he should be preached as such. His religion is made up of two elements—faith and a rule of moral and spiritual life.—Rev. Dr. Babbitt, Episcopalian, Brooklyn.

GRADUAL DECLINE

This is the fate of sufferers from Kidney trouble, as the disease is so insidious that often people have serious Kidney trouble without knowing the real cause of their illness, as diseased kidneys allow the impurities to stay in the system and attack the other organs. This accounts for the many different symptoms of Kidney Disease.

You begin to feel better at once when taking

Short Talks On Advertising

By Charles Austin Bates.

No. 13.

Economy often defeats its own ends. Sometimes economy is extravagant. Sometimes not spending is more expensive than spending.

So in advertising. That is an economical expense. I call it an expense to avoid argument. In reality it is an investment.

In a ten-dollar advertisement the last two dollars pay better than the other eight. Maybe an eight-dollar ad. wouldn't pay when a ten-dollar ad. would. Maybe that extra space is just what the ad. needs to lift it out of oblivion—to make it prominent—to make it pay.

Don't buy more space than you need, but don't buy too little, either. Better buy too much than too little. Better put an eight-dollar ad. in a ten-dollar space than to put a ten-dollar ad. in an eight-dollar space. One way you are out only two dollars; the other way you are out eight dollars.

Save money on your advertising if you can, of course, but save it in the right way. Cut off the little leaks—the programs, the bills of fare, the directories, the wall charts, the pages in "souvenirs." Cut them all off, and your trade will never feel the difference.

Cut off the inconsequential papers if you have to, but always keep your ad. in your best papers, big enough to do you justice. It is better to convince a few people than to talk to many.

You will always find that the best papers give you more for your money than any other media.

Don't think one paper high-priced because the rate is a dollar an inch, and another one low-priced because it is ten cents an inch. Usually the more you pay for advertising the cheaper it is.

There are exceptions, of course. They prove the rule.
