Neuralgia of the Heart For Years.

Pain Went From Heart to Head.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured.

"About three years ago my sister was so badly affected with heart trouble and neuralgia of the heart that we did not expect her to live. Although we had a first-class physician she grew worse under his treatment. She had a swollen dropsical look and had frequent spells of neuralgia pain at her heart when she would render the most heart-rending moans and shrieks. At times the pain would go from her heart to her head when a lump would appear on her temple half as large as an egg. One night she got up in bed and ran into the back yard crying with pain; she was not conscious of it, however, and was brought back to the house by neighbors. I bought for her a bottle each of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure which helped her greatly. She afterward used some five or six bottles and has never had a spell since. I had used your medicine with great benefit myself. I know that Nervine and Heart Cure not only saved my sister's life but also saved me from insanity and death. I was so nervous I could not bear the slightest noise or movement around me and I suffered from palpitation and pain in the heart. I had choking sensations, dizzy and faint spells, smothering spells when I could scarcely get my breath; I was so nervous I was treated like a child and at one time it was thought I was losing my mind. Nervine saved me from insanity."—KATIE ACKES, Clover Creek, Pa.

Christ the Solution.
Christ is the solution of all social difficulties, and he should be preached as such. His religion is made up of two elements—faith and a rule of moral and spiritual life.—Rev. Dr. Babbitt, Episcopalian, Brooklyn.

Truths.
Here are the truths under which we conquer: Protection to American capital and labor through the American economic system, arrest of all combinations whose aim or enterprise is to defeat the beneficent purpose either of the tariff law or of the Sherman law.—Boston Journal.

Dilemma.
Senator Gorman qualifies his remarks by adding that he is in favor of "conservative tariff reform." He will find it difficult to steer between protection and free trade in a way that will win the confidence of the advocates of either policy.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Cleveland's Boom.
The Grover Cleveland presidential boom has caught its third or fourth wind and is once more frisking and scampering before the public. Its kitchen antics would really indicate the possession of the traditional nine lives.—Terre Haute Tribune.

When the Democrats have finished holding their state convention Mr. Bryan will find himself in midcourse and alone on the 16 to 1 plank.—Trenton Gazette.

There's much uncertainty as to whom the Democracy will nominate for president, but none at all as to whom Billy Bryan thinks the Democracy ought to nominate.—Providence News.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is a strengthening food and tonic, remarkable in its flesh-forming properties. It contains Cod-Liver Oil emulsified or partially digested, combined with the well-known and highly prized Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, so that their potency is materially increased.

What Will It Do?

It will arrest loss of flesh and restore to a normal condition the infant, the child and the adult. It will enrich the blood of the anemic; will stop the cough, heal the irritation of the throat and lungs, and cure incipient consumption. We make this statement because the experience of twenty-five years has proven it in tens of thousands of cases. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion, 50c and $1.00, all druggists. The Folly of Trying Our Goods For Cuba's Sole Benefit.

It has always been the contention of this government—and it rests upon sound reason—that the "most favored nation" clause in commercial treaties does not preclude reciprocity treaties. We may grant concessions on imports from France in consideration of French concessions on our exports without ending Germany to the same concessions from us, that country not having made the compensating concessions or our goods.

But the amendment made by the senate in the Cuban reciprocity treaty at the instance of the beet sugar interests raises a very different question. The amendment prohibits for five years any diminution in the sugar duties, which would prevent the ratification of any other reciprocity treaty reducing sugar duties. The amendment is entirely improper. Cuba did not ask us to bind our hands, and it is absurd that we should give Cuba more than she asks. It would be improper to bind ourselves in that fashion if she did ask it. Besides being inherently improper, it threatens a serious controversy with Great Britain, which will naturally seek to get for the sugar of her West Indies the same concession Cuba will get. She has no right to it except upon like terms, but it is altogether probable that under the "most favored nation" clause she would be entitled to it if she should pay the equivalent price for it.

A reciprocity treaty was negotiated with Jamaica by the McKinley administration, and it was left to die in the pigeonholes of a senate committee. Now it is proposed that we shall not only make a reciprocity treaty with Cuba, but shall make that treaty exclusive. The department of state will be put to some trouble to justify that if other sugar producing countries shall ask for like agreements.—Philadelphia Record.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Under the Dingley Tariff We Get Better Blankets and Less Shoddy.
Our free trade friends upon the Philadelphia Record are worried about a report that the production of woollen blankets has been decreasing. Thus the Record says:

"The able and comprehensive census bulletin on woollen manufactures says on page 31 of the manufacture of woollen blankets in the United States, in 1899 the quantity reported was 20,793,644 square yards, valued at $7,153,900; in 1900 it was 18,155,505 square yards, valued at $5,200,959. Does not this reveal a most remarkable industrial phenomenon for the consideration of the American people in a large decline of the production of blankets in face of an increase of 13,000,000 in the population of the United States? Is this due to the benign influence of the sacred Dingley tariff in prohibiting the importation of wool for blankets into a market in which the domestic supply of wool is wholly inadequate for consumption?"

If the facts are as reported, a search for an explanation of them may be interesting. We may rule out at once the theory that the American people in a period of really unexampled prosperity cannot afford to buy as many blankets as they could when they were not prosperous. The true explanation, of course, is that with a high tariff which has reduced our imports of shoddy almost to nothing American manufacturers are making blankets of such good stuff that they last longer and therefore are called for in smaller quantities. Here, then, is still another blessing, heedlessly passed over by the Record, that the Dingley tariff has brought to the fortunate American people.—Textile Record.

The Duty Of Coal.

After me, the deluge, is the motto of the free trader. If an opportunity to make a fortune for a few in the importing business can be manufactured, the millions who will be thrown out of work may limp back to prosperity any way they like or can.

All of this cry about the tariff is made by interested parties and demagogues—one in hopes of making money, the other because he is "agin the government," and a political change may make a place and profit for him. The duty has been removed from coal, but no more coal will come from abroad than came before. It would be the same with beef if the duty were removed. No one would know the difference between free beef and duty paid beef.

The Newfoundland Treaty.

This new plan follows closely the lines of the Bond-Blaine negotiation of seven years ago. Its weakness is that it apparently injures the deep sea fishing interests of Maine and Massachusetts. They will make a vigorous protest, and they have large influence throughout the country and at Washington. Little by little we have sacrificed our maritime industries until only a shadow of our former ocean strength is left away from our own seacoasts. At the same time it will be acknowledged that the free importation of fish from Newfoundland does not begin to be so grave a menace to our New England fisheries as such competition from the larger, bounty fed fisheries of the Dominion of Canada.—Boston Journal.

Short Talks On Advertising By Charles Austin Bates.

No. 14.

Advertisements won't work miracles. They won't sell ice in Greenland nor snowshoes at the equator. An advertisement will sell overcoats in July if they are cheap enough, but a reasonable ad of reasonable stuff is always best.

Dull season advertising must be considered in two ways, as advertising and as insurance—insurance of business—insurance against loss of trade.

Such insurance should be placed on the same business principles that dictate the placing of fire and life insurance. Pick out the strongest companies—the best papers.

Business insurance—advertising—is better than the other kinds. They repay the losses caused by misfortune. Advertising prevents the misfortune.

It may be possible to do advertising from which you will never see any results. It is certain that you will never get results from the advertising that you do not do. If all the money that is wasted in worthless media were concentrated in the best paper, it would carry a good advertisement straight through the dull season.

Advertising finds a parallel in farming. At some seasons the harvest follows the planting very quickly, at others the result is slower.

Plant advertising seed in December and the crop comes at once. Plant in July and it may be September before the full, rich harvest comes, but it will come. And if you plant a little "garden sass" along with it, you'll get something to eat right straight through July and August, too.

Don't try to sell heavy things—things involving great outlay. Seek out the little catchy, useful things. Get a wedge of satisfaction started into the house with a three-cent fan, and the big end of it will carry in some silk dresses later on.
