EAGLES MERE.

"Mr. President," said the member of the Post Office Club from the first ward, "we must give more of our time to thoughts of progressiveness. This idea of sitting down and doing nothin' is simply wearing out some mighty good patchin' work the Mother's meetin' folks put on for us. Don't yell and squinch brothers when I tell you we've got to have a town park. Of course there will be the usual talk about taxes by some rich Barnacles. It always breaks lose whenever any progressive step is suggested. But, brothers, nothin' in this world stands still, and its pretty certain we can't sit still wearing smooth the pretty patches, and expect to keep our delightful resort abreast with popular resorts. Some will say that the primeval forest is all the park we need. The forest is all right and a delight that many resorts cannot provide, but we want a park in the center of the village and supplied with the conveniences and amusements which other resorts furnish their patrons. The progressive hotel and business men have invested many dollars in advertising this resort to the world, and as gamblers say, are entitled to a 'run for their money'. The great public is invited here to spend its money, and they want places of entertainment and recreation, and they will have these either here or elsewhere. Why not do all we can to keep them here? And while fixing up a park why not put the Town House in it? Sure got to have a town house too! This town has been progressive in spite of certain elements, but it must not stop pushing or it will quickly be, come a resort only for wild fowls-cattish, eels and possibly a moss back or two. Even the barnacles would not stay long. They'd git up and git. Come brothers grease up your joints and push along. We are the very fellows who must do it. Of course the Land Co. fellers and the League people are all right, good fellows and all that, but if there is any pushing done that is effective we are the fellows who must do it and if you like we will give them the credit, but we must do the pushing and then after we get things to goin', its nobody's bloomin' business if we do sit down and wear a shine on a patch or two.

Its too bad we cannot have the street lamps ordered by council placed before summer, as it would be a great source of satisfaction to the citizens of the East end who go for their mail to the West end, and to the citizens of the West end who go to the East end to enjoy their religious privileges, and as Uncle Abe often remarked; "a wee bit of Schnapps."

We can't state it as a fact, but it is reasonably certain that the Land Co. will build a fine walk connecting the railroad walk with the Ryan walk. Much praise must be given the Company for contemplating such an extensive undertaking.

The Fire Company is getting two new Chemical Fire Extinguishers and a quantity of linen hose.

LOPEZ NEWS ITEMS.

The smallest black bears of which we have any record were captured near South Brook, January 25, by Merrit Frear, who while working in the woods with some foreigners cut down a large hemlock tree that was hollow and in the stump was the mother bear and two cubs. The old bear made her escape but the cubs which weighed only fifteen ounces each, were captured. Mrs. R. B. Herd is caring for one of them and Mrs. Gilfoyle was caring for the other one that has since died. It is said that when the bears were discovered, the foreigners ran away nearly as fast as the old bear did.

Another accident occurred in Jennings Bros. woods last Saturday by which a foreigner had his leg broken below the knee. He was taken to the Sayre Hospital.

TWO KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK.

A bad wreck occurred on the Eagles Mere railroad, a mile above Sonestown, about 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, in which George T. Simmons, Jr., and Charles Darling lost their lives.

The train was a mixed one, composed of flat cars with one passenger coach attached to the rear end. At a point near the old outlet dam where the road has a slight curve, the engine suddenly left the track and plunged down a fifty foot embankment, turning a complete somersault in the decent and landing right side up in the bed of the stream. As it turned the engineer and fireman who had not had time to jump, were thrown out and rolled down the bank, landing alongside the battered mass in the stream. Simmons's neck had been broken in the fall, and death had been instantaneous. Darling though terribly injured, managed to get out of the water and when help reached him was painfully crawling up the bank. His jaw was dislocated and his ribs on one side were torn entirely loose from the back bone. He was taken back to Sonestown to the Hotel Magargel and everything possible done to save his life, but he died a few hours later.

The passenger coach did not leave the track, and besides Simmons and Darling no one was injured. The cause of the wreck is not known unless it was that the rock of the train caused the engine to rear and thus swing the front trucks around.

One of the flat cars rolled down the embankment and another left the track, but aside from this the cars remained on the track. In the passenger coach were Conductor J. C. Starr, Charles Brink and John Simmons, the last named a brother of the unfortunate engineer. The news of the wreck was at once sent to Hughesville, and a special train carrying officials of the road and several physicians was hurried to the scene. The engine which was a new one and one of the best on the road, was a complete wreck. Nothing could be found that would give any clue to the cause.

Both of the men were married and leave families. Mr. Simmons was 28 years of age and leaves a widow and a little daughter about four years of age. Mr. Darling was 34 years of age and leaves a widow and four small children. He was a brother to Ed Darling who was killed in a wreck near Laporte, a year ago.

Both funerals took place on Sunday, the services being held at the Evangelical Church, and were conducted by the Rev. J. O. Biggs. Mr. Darling was buried in the forenoon and Mr. Mr. Simmons in the afternoon. The funerals were very largely attended. A special train was run from Hughesville to Sonestown for the benefit of those who wished to attend the funerals of the young men.
