A Harvest Home service was held in the Baptist church Sunday evening. The pulpit was well filled with the seasons harvest, well attested for the soil and thrift at Laporte. County Fair Exhibits were far surpassed in garden produce display. The services were greatly enjoyed and a nice collection was raised.

The M. E. Church at this place has been receiving some very convenient and handsome improvements the past few days. Double sash doors have been placed in the petition opposite the outside doors and the long hall formerly in front has been made into two cloak rooms. There is now less room in the hall for some of the young people to congregate and interrupt services.

Judge Parker has spoken and said nothing. He would not speak before the convention because he was a member of the judiciary, and now that he has spoken he fails to say a word that can be used by the party as a basis for advocating his election.—Springfield Union.

Voters Won't Consent.
The Democrats want to bring back the shoddy reign which prevailed under their last administration, but the voters will not again consent to undergo another such infliction of idleness, want, low wages and shoddy.—Philadelphia Press.

The Democrats Forget.
They are fond of calling Parker their political Moses, forgetting that the great Hebrew lawgiver never reached the promised land.—Grayling (Mich.) Avalanche.

Worthy Master Bill of Pennsylvania Favors It.

(Special Correspondence.)
The grange came into existence to meet the wants of rural people. It continues to exist because it has been meeting the wants of the farmers. Should it fail to meet the wants of the farmers and their families the grange would either vanish entirely or give way to a different organization that would meet existing needs. Changing conditions of civilization are constantly bringing forward new wants. The luxuries of even ten years ago are now wanted—not always as luxuries, more frequently as necessities.

Less than ten years ago free rural delivery of mail was enjoyed as a luxury by the few. Today it is enjoyed by over 12,500,000 people in rural districts as a necessary factor to make farm life more satisfying. In which class shall we place life insurance?

Business rules and custom are fast making life insurance another of the necessities of our age. Policies are now treated as negotiable paper in the business world, and they represent a definite form of property. If they were all put together it is estimated that policies now in force would represent nearly $18,000,000,000. Policies in the old line companies number 18,000,000, while 5,000,000 members of fraternal orders have the balance. I presume that 55,000,000 of our population have an interest in this property, as shown in the policies carried by one or more members of the family. Talk about co-operation! Here it is developed to the greatest success and having more money and people connected with it than any other private enterprise that I know anything about.

Life insurance is increasing at a tremendous rate. I will not risk to give the number of millions of dollars' worth of it that are said to be taken out in new insurance each week. It makes the capitalization of the trusts look small. Thousands of farmers are now carrying insurance. Many more want to do so. They want insurance that will be within reach of their pocket-books, safe and suited to their conditions. The grange has a chance to provide the medium for life insurance of such of its members as want to take it just as it has so successfully provided fire insurance for them. Then it will no longer be necessary for farmers to join other orders or to go outside of the grange to get either form of insurance.

But, like any commercial enterprise, this must be established on a sound basis, have a simple, safe working plan and be intelligently directed locally to insure its supremacy. The national grange in 1902 provided for a committee to take this subject up, but it is probable that its work will be only of a suggestive character. It has not been the policy of the national grange to itself conduct an enterprise. It can, however, blaze the way so that members of the Order in different states and Pomona grange districts will be able to establish companies based upon such ideas and suggestions as are put out to the membership with the indorsement of the national grange.

Life Insurance

A FEW OF THE MANY REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD HAVE A POLICY

WITH THE NEW YORK LIFE

BECAUSE—Incontestable from the date of issue. Because—absolutely without restrictions. Because—non-forfeitable from date of issue. Because—cash loans are provided after second year, on demand at 5 per cent interest without fee or other charge. Because—if death does not occur an accumulative policy is a highly profitable investment for the policy-holder who lives.

Policies now maturing to living policy-holders prove this. In fact NEW YORK LIFE policies do not leak. Health and Accident Insurance also written. A postal card will bring an agent to you, or a personal interview can be had at the office Saturdays, regular office day.
