NO FUSION FOR THEM

Republican Editors of Pennsylvania Lined Up Solidly For the Ticket.

ALL IGNORE DEMOCRATIC TRAP

Republican Clubmen Are Preparing For a Big State League Convention at Easton.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, July 25.

A very gratifying feature of the present political canvass in Pennsylvania is the sturdy manner in which the Republican editors of the state are supporting the nominees of their party and interesting themselves in the work of the preliminary canvass for the success of the ticket

They realize the importance of the present campaign and its bearing upon next year's contest when a governor a lieutenant governor an auditer general, a secretary of internal affairs, 32 members of congress and members of the state senate and the state house of representatives are to be elected.

They have all been loyally standing by the administration of President Roosevelt and they recognize the necessity of Pennsylvania Republicans giving rousing Republican majorities this fall, so that the president and his cabinet shall be assured that they have the backing of the Republican organization of the Keystone State in their great national undertakings. The intense Americanism of the Roosevelt administration has appealed to the Republican editors of Pennsylvania as it has to the voters of the state generally, and they believe that they can best uphold that administration by urging their readers to stand steadfastly by the Republican party in the state as well as in the nation.

Not Falling Into Fusion Trap.

Despite the efforts of Democrats and assistant Democrats or so-called insurgents or Republican party wreckers, who have been striving to divert the Republican newspapers of the state into supporting their schemes for fusion, the editors of Republican newspapers have not only not fallen into their trap, but they have exposed the game and the interest that would be advanced if it were consummated.

The Republican editors of Pennsylvania know how their subscribers stand. They know that the immense army of Republicans in this state are true and loyal to their party colors and that they will be found going to the polls on election day supporting the full Republican ticket.

"I am now getting practically every Republican newspaper in the state at the headquarters in Philadelphia," said Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, a few days ago, "and I am delighted with the splendid support that they are giving to the nominees of the Republican party. Our candidates are all men of high character and of exceptional ability. They are all admirably equipped for the positions for which they have been nominated. I believe that I can safely predict that J. Lee Plummer, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, and the four candidates for the judiciary will receive at the November election majorities which will exceed those given to any Republican candidates that have ever been elected in this state in an off year."

Chairman Andrews declines to discuss as unworthy of notice the many false and malicious reports that are being circulated from Democratic headquarters in the interest of the Democratic nominee for state treasurer, and proposes to continue to direct the Republican forces along the lines mapped out at the beginning of the canvass.

The policy of the Republicans in the present campaign will be to enlighten the voters of the state at all times on the real issues of the contest and to leave nothing undone toward perfecting the Republican organization in the several counties, with the view of getting out the largest possible vote on election day.

Among the many disappointments that have come to the Democrats and their insurgent allies who have been preaching fusion for the fall campaign, the complete collapse of the fusion schemes in Beaver county is the latest.

Beaver County In Line.

Here is a striking case in which the editor of a Republican newspaper was quick to see the trend of popular sentiment toward the Republican party and decide not to be swerved from the logical position of a Republican newspaper. There was a hot contest over a judicial nomination in Beaver county, and although the result was not entirely satisfactory to the Beaver Falls Tribune, the editor of that paper last week came out manfully in support of the full Republican ticket and placed at the top of his editorial page the complete list of the Republican candidates.

This instance is cited not because this is an extraordinary or unusual action, but because it had been heralded from one end of the state to the other that Beaver county Republicans were all torn up, that one of the leading Republican newspapers would support a fusion movement, and that the state as well as the local Republican candidates would be sacrificed at the polls.

"Beaver county will be in line for the entire Republican state ticket," writes Chairman Charles H. Stone, of the Republican county committee. "There need be no concern about fusion in our county, and I am sure that Mr. Plummer and the other nominees on the state ticket will be delighted with the majorities that will be rolled up in Beaver county this fall."

Beaver county presents a condition of affairs such as will be found in other counties where the Democrats have been banking upon alleged Republican dissensions.

The Republican lines are being formed throughout the state, there will be no comfort given the enemy anywhere, and there will be a magnificent showing for the cause of prosperity and progress when the election returns shall be received.

Clumben Are Active.

In every county in the state where there is a Republican club activity is now being shown among the members over the election of delegates to the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs, which is to be held in September next.

John R. Wiggins, president of the State League, in an address to the members, among other things, says:

"In compliance with the instructions of the executive committee of the league, given at its last meeting, held in Harrisburg on April 26, 1905, at which time it was decided to accept the invitation of the Republican clubs of Northampton county and hold the next annual convention in the city of Easton, your president conferred with the Hon. Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the state Republican committee, and the local committee of Easton, and agreed on Wednesday and Thursday, September 20 and 21, for the date of the convention, and you are hereby notified of that fact.

"The Republican clubs of Pennsylvania have never been found wanting in any great crisis. When the rallying cry of the party has been sounded the young men who have banded themselves into organizations throughout the state have gathered around the standard. It is not so much with them a matter of old men's quarrels as it is the maintenance of the very foundation of Republican supremacy—the influence of the Republican voter upon the party's affairs. In local contests the enmities of individuals sometimes blind them to the real questions at issue.

"Through the waves and spasms of local restlessness the broader principles of party organization should not be forgotten. Presidents, governors and mayors are to be elected and Republican progress and influence are to be preserved. Local differences will adjust themselves. Let the young men of the state gather together in this convention and show that they stand for principes above men and for party above ambition."

"Active work is already under way for the fall campaign," says the editor of the Scranton Tribune, "and the assistants of Republican State Chairman W. R. Andrews have entered upon an aggressive fight for the success of the whole ticket. Although Democracy is making desperate attempts to profit by the troubles that have recently attracted so much attention in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania's superb Republican organization will not be affected by the efforts of the enemy. The ticket presented this year is one of the strongest that has ever adorned the Republican banner, and there is no question that it will be recognized by the usual magnificent majority at the coming election."
