THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION.

Stands With His Party on the Question of Tariff Revision.
President Roosevelt's views on the tariff are those which are held in general by the Republican leaders—namely, that when business men as a body want a revision of the tariff that revision will be made by the friends of protection; that if New England wants free hides the west is ready, provided New England will give free shoes; that hides were put on the dutiable list because it was necessary to protect western interests in order to get any tariff bill through congress, as was skillfully effected under the leadership of the gentleman whose name the present tariff bears. The free raw material fad was embodied in the Wilson-Gorman law, and it ruined many American interests and depressed the shoe business in New England. If Governor Douglas would like free shoes and the consequent decline in American wages in the shoe industry, and if shoe manufacturers in general are ready for that programme, there is no trouble in securing the support of the west. But woe be to those who forget the depression in the shoe industry under free hides, and woe be to the wage earners who stand in with the free hides and free raw material heresies of those Democratic leaders who deceived the country grievously twelve or thirteen years ago!—Lawiston Journal.

Rippers Will Have to Show.
The general declaration that tariff changes must be made because of loss of foreign trade, realized or expected, fails to convince, for the reason that there is nothing in the assertion on which the plea is based. In the speech of the street, the tariff-rippers will have to show the people before there will be any chance for revision on a large or small scale.—Buffalo News.

The Only Safe Plan.
A radical change in the tariff for the benefit of one section of the country is certain to be followed by a demand for revision in another. It is essential, then, that the matter of revision should be entrusted to the party friendly to the bottom principle of our tariff system.—Fall River Herald.

Populism Swept Away.
Whatever remnant of Populism may have been left in Mr. Bryan's state was swept away in the Republican cyclone which prevailed in that part of the country last election.—Charlotte Observer.

The Party of Business.
The Republican party for a good many years has stood as the party of business interests. By its advocacy of sound money and a protective tariff and by its efforts to increase the influence and thereby extend the markets of the United States abroad it has given business men a really a direct interest in the tariff. And so far this interest has been legitimate and warrants being taken into account in voting the Republican ticket. It is contributing money to the support of expenses, which are heavy.—Fall River Herald.

Railroad Tariff.
Discussions of the tariff are full of the tariff-rippers and other who have been in the country for many years. One of the latter says: "The tariff-ripper is the product of the present tariff. He is responsible with the tariff-ripper for the consolidation of railroads. He is the movement for the tariff-ripper. He is the foundation for the tariff-ripper."

One of the first effects that constant drinking has on the individual is a weakening of the will power. Though he may at times awaken to the thought that his indulgence in alcoholic stimulation is getting the best of him, and he makes a sincere resolution to stop drinking, he discovers when he endeavors to put his resolution into practice that the alcoholic craving, which is the root of the trouble, has grown too strong for him to conquer. When a man reaches this stage it is time for him to call a halt and seek a means to destroy the craving before he is hopelessly entangled in the web of drink.

A prominent business man of New York, a member of the chamber of commerce, known among his friends as a man of Napoleonic will, stimulated freely in order to work incessantly during months when, owing to a panic, the investments of nearly 40,000 people were imperiled, and he felt responsible for their protection. When the strain was over he decided to stop the stimulant and was amazed to find himself in hopeless bondage. In a private interview he had sought he said: "Doctor, I never had my will baffled before, but in this I am as helpless as a baby. I have struggled in vain and in my extremity have called upon my God for help. To strengthen my will I have on my knees recited a solemn oath to my God I would never touch whisky again, but I have perjured myself to my God. I do not believe I have a spark of manhood left. Do you think there is any hope for me?" At an age that should have marked the prime of his life that man went to his death through alcoholism.

The Oppenheimer Treatment is the only one that cures the craving for the cure of this.

PROPOSED ASSASSINATION.

He's here in double trust—
First, as I am his kinsman and his subject,
Strong both against the deed; then, as his host,
Who should against his murderer slant the door,
Not bear the knife myself. Besides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been
So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead like angels, trumpet-tongued, against
The deep damnation of his taking off.

NOT TO BE CHANGED.
Tariff is a Safeguard of the American Standard of Living.
When American production is so enormous that after supplying domestic needs there still remain manufactures to the value of half a billion dollars for export to the markets of the rest of the world, it must be conceded that even out and out free trade would not gain for the consumer any material reduction in the cost of the products he purchases. All that a general tariff reduction could accomplish would be the replacing of American labor with cheap foreign labor.
No longer can the idea of a sweeping horizontal reduction of the tariff be seriously entertained. In a broad sense the tariff is simply an equalizer of labor costs and the safeguard of the American standard of living. As such it has been taken entirely out of the realm of discussion by the ever increasing volume of our exports of surplus manufactured products.—Providence News.
For Importers Only.
The tariff revisers who demand that the change in the tariff law, whenever it shall begin, must not be on the lines of keeping the American wage earner in his job, but must be on the lines of getting articles offered in our market
