Norton of Forksville, for Associate Judge; E. M. Letts of Fox, for Jury Commissioner. Nominations were not made for District Attorney nor Coroner.

Charles Wooster, proprietor of the Forksville coal mine, met with a serious accident last week; accidentally a spark of fire fell into an open vessel containing blasting powder. It flashed up setting Mr. Wooster's clothing on fire and burning his hands and face very badly. He began removing his clothing to put out the fire, thereby burning his hands seriously. Some of his finger nails came off and all of the inside skin of his hands. Mr. Wooster had no one with him at the time except his 13-year-old son, and he was obliged to come home before receiving any care. He walked home from the mines, a distance of between two and three miles in great agony. Dr. Woodhead was summoned and he is now improving as rapidly as can be expected.

The festivities have been in progress for twenty-four hours, and are giving the town a taste of "life in old Vienna."

Representatives from the central district of the state, embracing 26 counties, with a combined membership of 36,000, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, assembled recently at the Orphans' home they established three miles south of Sunbury, seven years ago, dedicated a church and broke ground for the erection of one of a group of new buildings which, when they are all constructed, will represent an outlay of $45,000.

Recently the association purchased an old Union church, occupying a half acre of ground, adjoining the 176 acres owned by the Odd Fellows. The church was remodeled and is one of the prettiest in one of the most picturesque portions of Upper Augusta township, Northumberland county.

When the new buildings are finished and the treasury warrants it, the original structure will be vacated by the orphans, who will enter the new building, while aged Fellows and wives will live in the old home.

The Semi-annual convention of the Laporte Boro and township Sunday Schools will be held at the Laporte Baptist church, Saturday August 4th. Afternoon session at 2 o'clock, evening session at 7:30. The Sunday Schools in this association are: Laporte Baptist, Laporte Methodist, Laporte Protestant Episcopal, Cherry Grove Methodist, Nordmont Evangelical.

The visiting delegates will be entertained by the people of Laporte, and visitors from Sunday Schools outside the township will likewise be most cordially welcome.

Conventions of this sort are most helpful in acquainting our Sunday School with the best methods of work and stimulating them to better efforts, hence it is very important that a large number from each Sunday School attend. A most instructive and helpful program has been arranged.
