Two important features of the meeting were the conferences of county deputies and lecturers. These conferences brought out many helpful and practical suggestions, and ample time should be given for these special meetings at every annual session. It was proposed to have the county deputies meet at some central place in March of each year to consider plans for increasing the efficiency of their work in the various counties, while a lecturers' conference will be held in each county, where possible, for a like purpose. Both National Master Bacheider and National Lecturer Gaunt were present at the lecturers' conference. They also addressed the main session of the state grange.

Among the pleasant social features was the presentation of a gold watch to the retiring master, E. B. Norris, and a beautiful pin to Mrs. B. B. Lord, one of the oldest and most active members of the Order in the state, but who has since gone to reside in Olympia Wash., with her son. The sixth degree was conferred on a class of 429 persons, the largest class for that degree on record in the state.

Picnic Suggestion.
The grange picnic or field meeting can be a most useful adjunct to grange work if rightly conducted. The aims and purposes of the grange should always be presented briefly with a view to informing the many farmers who do not know as to what the grange is endeavoring to do for their interests.

THE GRANGE RECOGNIZED.

It Was the Leader in Promoting Legislation For Denatured Alcohol.

The grange has the credit for the successful agitation by the state granges and many subordinate granges of the question of the removal of the internal revenue tax from alcohol for industrial purposes. National Master Bacheider says with regard to it "that while influence was exerted through other agencies, not for a moment has it been denied in any quarter that the grange has been the leader in promoting this legislation, and credit is due each of the 80,000 members in the United States who has interested himself or herself in this very important matter. Especial credit is due the masters of the various state granges for particularly energetic work. The result in this matter demonstrates the great influence of the grange when its members are united upon a worthy object of legislation and go vigorously and energetically about securing it.

That the grange is entitled to credit for leadership in securing this legislation is indicated by the following resolution adopted by the National Association of Plano Manufacturers in session in Washington, being one of a series of resolutions unanimously adopted favoring the passage of the free alcohol bill:

Resolved, That we extend the sincere thanks of this association to the national grange, Patrons of Husbandry, to whose intelligent and far reaching campaign of education the present favorable status of this subject in congress is very largely due.

J. T. Allman.
J. T. Allman is the efficient secretary of the Pennsylvania state grange. His boyhood was spent on the farm, and in 1874 he entered the sophomore class at Princeton university and graduated in 1877. He taught in Texas for the following year, then returned home to take charge of the academy at Port Royal, Pa., where he remained for two years; then he spent three years in New Mexico and returned to the Pennsylvania homestead in 1883.

He purchased a farm, on which he has since resided, in 1888, having joined the grange in 1884. In 1900 he was chosen state lecturer, which position he held for four years, and in 1904 he was elected secretary of the state grange and has been re-elected every two years since that time. He is an industrious, painstaking worker, with a single purpose to do well whatever work there is for him to do.
