EMERY AIDING BRYAN MEN FOR CONGRESS

Roosevelt Republicans Are Targets In His Governorial Campaign.

HOW DEMOCRATS ARE PROFITING

They Hope to Fulfill Pledge to Nebraska Leader to Gain Congressmen In Pennsylvania.

When William J. Bryan landed in New York he was given a great reception. Pennsylvania Democrats were represented on the occasion by the very same Democratic leaders who had just made Lewis Emery their nominee for governor.

"We congratulate the country upon the fact," so the resolutions inscribed on silver read, "that the only prominence which the present Republican national administration has attained has been achieved by feeble and pretended application of principles enunciated by the Hon. William Jennings Bryan, the Great Democratic Commoner, who is now regarded as the certain successor of Theodore Roosevelt to the Presidency."

John M. Garman, former chairman of the Democratic state committee, had prepared a careful speech of presentation. "Pennsylvania Democrats have joined in an unselfish patriotic fusion with Independent Republicans," the speech ran. And he added:

"We are not unmindful of the importance of the election of Democrats to congress, and there is every reason to believe that we shall gain from six to eight representatives in the lower house who will co-operate with their fellow Democrats of other states to administer the policies which you have so consistently and ably championed."

Emery Helping Bryanites.

That was no idle boast that Garman made. There are several districts so close that, with even a partial fusion between the Democrats and the so-called Lincolnites (an organization owned wholly by Emery) eight or ten Democratic representatives may easily be sent to Washington to support the principles of Bryan and Hearst and oppose the policies of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Emery is doing his level best to elect those Bryan-Hearst Democrats to congress.

We present a few facts: In his speech at Punxsutawney, on the night of September 22, he said: "I would sooner have a decent Democrat down there than a stinking, rotten Republican who is against the president of the United States."

He went on to declare that but for the aid of the Democrats the railroad rate bill would never have been passed. But it so happens that with the single exception of Mr. Sibley, who is not a candidate for re-election, there was not one Republican vote in the Pennsylvania delegation against the president—not one. And yet Mr. Emery is engaged in a conspiracy with his Democratic friends to try to defeat several of these supporters of Roosevelt and send Bryanites and Hearstites in their places.

A Glance Over the District.

In the district composed of Erie and Crawford counties there is no open fusion between the Democrats and Lincolnites, but the Democrats have nominated A. J. Palm for congress against Arthur L. Bates, Republican and present member. Palm was one of the principal speakers with Emery when the latter opened his campaign at Erie on the night of Monday, September 10. The Emery men there make no secret of their intention to support the Bryanites.

In the district comprising Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties the Emery Lincolnites and the Democrats have fused and nominated Robert K. Aiken, a lawyer of New Castle, Lawrence county, against Ernest F. Acheson, Republican and present member, and a man of independent action always. Aiken accompanied Emery on his tour of the district and spoke from the same platform with him at Beaver Falls on September 11, and at Washington, Pa., on September 15.

In the Montgomery-Bucks district Walter F. Leedom, of Bristol, has been selected as the candidate of the Emery Lincolnites and Emery Democrats against Irving P. Wanger, Republican and present member, and will speak with Emery from the same platform when the candidate for governor of the Bryanite party gets into that locality.

In the district composed of Cumberland, Dauphin and Lebanon counties the Emery Lincolnites have endorsed John Lindner, of Carlisle, the Democratic candidate against Marlin E. Olmstead, Republican and present member, but to the credit of the Cumberland county Lincoln conferees the latter have refused to enter into the deal. Cumberland county presents one bright spot at least.

Lincolnites as Assistant Democrats.

In the Lycoming-Potter-Clinton district the Lincolnites have nominated a straight-out candidate against Elias Demmer, Republican and present member. In this district the Lincolnites, it is seen, are not willing to go the full length of opposing a Republican who has served long and well, but are occupying the position of Assistant Democrats.

Somerset, Fayette and Green counties compose a congressional district of which Allen F. Cooper is the Republican representative. The Lincolnites have united with the Democrats in presenting E. O. Kooser, Bryanite. On the night of September 28 Kooser and Emery spoke to the same audience, and Kooser arraigned the Republican party in the most scathing language—the party of President Roosevelt. Emery is committed to Kooser's candidacy.

In all of these districts where present members are being opposed by Lincolnite or fusion candidates the members so opposed have been staunch supporters of Roosevelt and his policies. All of them voted for the rate bill. Bates is secretary of the Pennsylvania Republican delegation in Congress. Olmstead is one of Speaker Cannon's right-hand men, and frequently presides over the house when in committee of the whole. Acheson is one of the strongest men in the delegation. Wanger is able and faithful in the performance of his duties.

Side Show in "Shoe-string" District.

A vigorous attempt was made by the Emeryites and Democrats to knock out Representative Butler in the Chester-Delaware district, and the most annoying, contemptible and underhand methods were employed in the effort to produce such a result, but it failed.

In the "shoe-string" district, made up of Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder and Union counties, Benjamin F. Focht has been nominated by the Republicans. The Lincolnites have not dared to endorse the Democratic candidate, William Alexander, out right, but have put up a side-show candidate in the person of Edward Hummel. There is not the slightest show for the election of Hummel, but so long as the Emery people can aid the Bryan candidate they are content.

In Luzerne county the Lincolnites have put up Cora in the hope of smashing the Republican lines and sending a Democrat to congress.

The 27th district comprises Armstrong, Clarion, Indiana and Jefferson counties, and W. O. Smith has represented it. He is not the candidate this time and in his place is Major Joseph G. Beale, a veteran of the civil war. Emery is committed to the Democratic candidate. Indeed, it was in this district that Emery, speaking at Punxsutawney on the night of September 22, already referred to, made his declaration that he would "sooner have a decent Democrat down there (Washington) than a stinking, rotten Republican."

And this in a district where a veteran whose name and character carry weight throughout all of the counties composing it, Major Beale, is the Republican candidate!

These are facts that no one can get away from. They show conclusively that when the Pennsylvania Democrats promised Bryan to send six or eight extra Democrats to congress they were not talking vainly. They had had their understanding, with their gubernatorial candidate, Emery, and Emery is standing gallantly by the agreement to smash the Republican party at every possible point, even to the extent of advocating Bryan-Hearst candidates for congress—Philadelphia Inquirer.
