The Rev. and Mrs. Eugene A. Heim of Baltimore, are rejoicing on account of the birth of a son. The mother and boy are doing well and it is needless to say the father is doing exceptionally well. The many parishioners are suggesting names for the boy among them being Zechariah, Noah, Buster Brown and Rip Van Winkle. But the parents are still undecided.

All of the hotels at Eagles Mere are now filled with guests. The Forest Inn has 500 guests, the largest number ever entertained at one time by any hotel at that place.

The entertainment given by Miss Frances Boice Tuesday evening in the Baptist Church, while not so largely attended was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Miss Boice stands at the very top of her profession and rarely, indeed, is her equal heard in Laporte.

The organized fire company of the Laporte Tannery was called out for duty Tuesday evening to extinguish a fire that broke out in the oil house but a few feet from the dry loft. The fire was soon under control by the quick and efficient work of the employees of the tannery and but little damage was done. The fire was started by an accident while the night watchman Mr. Michael McNellon was filling his lantern with oil. He himself was quite badly burned about the body before reaching the out side of the room.

The base ball Carnival held at Laporte on Aug. 15, was not very largely attended yet notwithstanding this fact the day was greatly enjoyed by those who attended. Two of the best games of ball ever played at the association grounds afforded the chief amusements. In the forenoon a game between Bernice and Hughesville resulted in a score of 9 to 4 in favor of Bernice. The afternoon game was played by the "all county team" and Eagles Mere picked nine. This was a very exciting game and resulted in a score of 6 to 7 in favor of the Sullivan County boys.

SCHOOL GARDEN RULES.
How a Massachusetts Institution is Managed by Women.
A school garden in Watertown, Mass., has adopted the following rules, says the Los Angeles Times:
Be regular and punctual in attendance.
Keep garden orderly. Keep record book correctly. Leave tools cleaned and put away before going home. Be courteous to all, and if absent or late furnish excuse from parent or teacher. If any one repeatedly breaks these rules his relation with the school will terminate. The classes meet twice a week—Wednesday after school and Saturday morning—one hour each period. They will work in the gardens through the summer vacation. If a pupil is absent, a substitute is sent. Badges or pins of green and white are worn, telling garden, number and time of class. Notebooks are kept, recording the temperature, attendance, date, time of planting, plan of garden and any other notes they care to record. When insects are found or birds heard, questions are asked and notice taken of their habits, etc. During the summer children will be taken in small groups on short walks to hear the voices of nature. The children already give advice to parents, telling them the best methods for planting cucumbers and beans and setting out tomato plants. The parents and friends take much interest, visiting the garden while the children work, helping to keep their notes correctly and the garden in good order. The Woman's club pays the expenses and has the business management of the garden. They have taken up the work in a most satisfactory and helpful way.

THE TERROR'S DINNER

"Rattlesnakes on Toast" Was the Cowboy's Order.

BUT HE MET WITH HIS MATCH

The Promptness With Which the Tough Waiter Served the Dish Took the Terror's Nerve Away—The Repeat and the Final Request.

Away back in 1876 a man named Turpin established a restaurant in Yuma, and among Turpin's original employees was a waiter named Job Straight, who could shoot with great precision, play draw poker with unvarying success and pack eighteen plates of miscellaneous grub upon one bare arm at one time. He could execute all the prevailing melodies either on piano or guitar, and he possessed the most tremendous baritone voice ever heard in Arizona. Why, men sometimes went to Turpin's just to hear Joe deliver gastronomic orders. No perfect description can be given of that voice, however, except to say that at times it really did make things clatter.

Once a fresh young cowboy from near Gila Bend entered Turpin's for a Christmas dinner who took a startling concoction as an appetizer and then dropped thud-like at a table and roughly shouted to Straight:

"Say, there, Baldy! Bring me some grub!"

Job was at first appalled; but, recovering his reserve limit of equanimity, he brushed an imaginary breadcrumb from the frescoed tablecloth and whisked a bill of fare from the variegated castor and placed it before the new young terror of the Bend.

"Take it away!" cried the latter in tones that could give Straight's ordinary, everyday baritone a castle and checkmate in five moves. "I don't want to read your darned old tract. I don't care a darn who came into the world to save sinners. Bring me some grub—grub! Grub! Grub! Grub!"

"What do you want?"

"Rattlesnakes on toast! And I want you to hump yourself!"

"What's that?"

"I've given my order, you baldheaded old cigar store sign, and I want you to get a move on yourself, p. d. q. Rattlesnakes on toast!"

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" tried Job to the cook in accents that would have paralyzed Carl Formes had that old basso profundo been living and heard them.

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" was the reverberating response from the cook upon receiving the order.

There were a dozen or more people in the restaurant, and their eyes were at once turned on the young person from the Bend and the infuriated waiter.

In the meantime the cook had taken a big catfish and cut it into four strips and rolled these strips in batter, so that they much resembled the viand ordered, and after placing them in the frying pan he stuck his head out of the kitchen and shouted to Job:

"You want them rattlers rare or well done?"

The waiter repeated the interrogatory in a cyclonic way, and the terror replied in as violent a tone and manner as he could command. "Well done, with plenty of gravy and chili Colorado."

And then Job thundered to the cook: "Well done, with plenty of chili Colorado, hot as —, and moccasin gravy on the side and brochettes of sand crane livers and Gila monster lights!"

There was an instantaneous dead silence in that restaurant, and all eyes were again cast upon the terror and the waiter. The former turned ashen pale and began to weaken perceptibly, while Job gazed at his victim.

"Maybe you don't think we can serve all the market affords," muttered Job. "Maybe you don't like moccasin gravy or brochettes a la mode. Maybe you ain't hungry!"

"Say! You've got me—I ain't hungry, so help me. I couldn't eat a single hard boiled egg. Countermand that durned order, old man, and I'll pay all expenses and set 'em up as long as anybody can drink. Beg pardon, gentlemen, all. My first attempt to be a terror—pardon me, gentlemen. It's my last!"

And then he handed his revolver to Job and added:

"Take that pistol, old man, as a present and promise me that the next time any durned fool comes in here and calls for rattlesnakes on toast you'll shoot him dead!"
