Several of our town children during the past week have been afflicted with a strange illness, the symptoms being those of poisoning.

The Sullivan Gazette fired its first campaign gun last week. It was very much like the old army musket that always kicked harder than it could shoot. If the Gazette will only continue to thunder away with that rusty old shooting stick and with the same kind of ammunition that he used for the first charge, the fighting line of his enemy is absolutely safe.

The Hughesville Printing Co., Publishers of the Hughesville Independent has passed into the hands of a receiver and the paper suspended. From the beginning of its first issue five years ago the Independent held the well merited reputation of being the most modern and well edited weekly newspaper published in the State. This enterprise, under the management of able financiers, has but added further proof that a first-class newspaper in a second-class field of operation has as much chance for success as a blind man would have for setting type.

Following the funeral of Cassie Chadwick at Woodstock, Ont., her lawyers made public a will made in 1902, in which the once famous woman financier disposes to relatives, servants and educational and charitable institutions over $1,000,000. A novel feature is that the estate is divided by the will into four thirds. This will is superceded by a later one made two years ago at the Ohio penitentiary and Mrs. Chadwick left no property as far as known. If any is found it will be seized by her creditors.

The ticket which the Republican party presents to the voters of the county this fall is the untrammeled choice of the voters themselves, as it was selected under the uniform primary law. It also commends itself to the consideration of the people, as it is made up of men of business experience and good judgment.

If honesty were a partisan matter, then the Democratic effort to show that the only way to get rid of dishonesty in public affairs is to elect Democrats to office would have much force. But those who keep in touch with the world know that a Democrat is not more honest than a Republican. Every party has its demagogues and heelers, and no party which is strong enough to have any showing for success can boast of its freedom from them. Just now the Republican party in this State is making it decidedly interesting for some grafters, who before the courts are done with them, are likely to realize that the command "Thou shalt not steal is something more than a party slogan.

Lee Smith, a farmer living near Lairdsville, last week killed a large eagle near his home. He saw the eagle killing his chickens and went after it hoping to capture the bird alive. Instead of taking a weapon he attacked the bird with his hands trying to catch it by the neck, when a desperate fight ensued. The farmer had the flesh on both his hands torn and lacerated in the encounter. He held on to the bird, however, and when under his control he took it to his home. It is a fine specimen and well worth the capturing.

The following is taken from the Washington Post: Thoughtful Americans are beginning to agree in the conclusion that one of the conspicuous signs of the times, to those who are able to comprehend it, is the warning posted by nature that riotous extravagance in the United States has reached the limit of safety and that thrift and economy must supercede old methods. This warning sign is seen on every hand; more prominently, perhaps where ravaged forests and barren farms reveal the work of the slayer of economy, but evident in industrial conditions also. When Secretary Wilson pointed out that all the wheat land in the United States was under the plow, and that the yield would decrease unless the fruitfulness of the soil were carefully preserved, he signalized the turning point from youth to maturity in the material growth of this country.

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows is to have a new ritual for use in its subordinate lodges. This was decided upon in one of the secret sessions of the recent annual meeting of the sovereign grand lodge. Minor changes have been made by the sovereign body from time to time in the ritual now in use and finally a few years since a committee was appointed to incorporate these changes and prepare an entirely new ritual. The new work will be ready for distribution by May 1st of next year.

Towanda, Oct. 22.—The "unwritten law," that law of all laws, was given a test in Squire Meredith's emporium of justice yesterday afternoon and held good. Curtis Vanderpool, the man who slashed his notorious brother-in-law, "Monkey Jim," in the early part of September was discharged and exonerated from all blame, it being the opinion of the court that Curtis was justified in slicing his relative.

Cabbage in abundance
The people who take interest in crop conditions are trying to figure out at the present time whether the potato crop is decidedly short or whether it is almost the average crop of recent seasons, while many potato growers contend that the crop is just about up to the average. This variance of expression, however, probably makes little difference, since almost famine prices continue to prevail for the tubers.

Old witch young sprite,
On Halloween night,
Will join in revelry,
Some and engraft their mystic craft,
Upon Fates fruitless tree,
In Old fellow's Hall,
Come one come all,
Coffee and cake
And the pies that ma's make,
Sandwiches, too, will be sold:
By witch from far
Your future and star
By these wonderful beings are told.
In rags you must be
Or you can't get in tree;
A Poverty night
Do you see?
For the witches are bold
And may take the gold
Carelessly worn upon thee.
So lads bring a lass
And a pleasant time pass:
We're sure you'll find quite a Fair,
And girls if you knew
You wouldn't feel blue
For the "Lemon man's" to be there.
