An American-born Chinaman of Reading was recently granted full citizenship and admitted to the voting list. He still wore a queue but was willing to cut it off after being admitted to citizenship. He decided to be Democrat, and was the first Chinaman to vote in Reading.

Mrs. James Resh, wife of Rev. James Resh at one time pastor on the Muncy Valley Charge, has just recovered from an operation at the Koser sanitarium at Williamsport.

When the new high school building at Sonestown is completed, that village will be able to boast of one of the finest school buildings in the county.

The Tunkhannock Republican says: In the absence of Judge Terry at the Jamestown exposition this week we may remark that thus far in his judicial career thirteen of his decisions have been appealed from, but in all cases but one his judgment has been affirmed by the higher courts. In that particular instance he followed what appeared to be a precedent from the Supreme court, and taking it as a guide other Common Pleas judges have ruled the same in similar cases. That is a record of which no man need be ashamed.

Rev. Charles Bikle, a Lutheran minister of Williamsport, before election wrote a letter to each of the candidates for District Attorney of Lycoming county, asking them what they would do, if elected, to prevent street walking and corner loafing. He received answers to both letters and read them from the pulpit. Both candidates promised to do all in their power to suppress the obscene postcard evil, but in the matter of corner loafing and street walking they had no power to act. Other District Attorneys might do well to follow their example and try to put an end to the sale of postcards of such character that are unfit to be displayed or to pass through the mails.

Recent demands for heavy bounty payments in a number of counties have given rise to the suspicion that hunters have not entirely forgotten the practices that prevailed under the old bounty law of 1885. In a number of instances payments for suspicious heads have been refused by county commissioners.

It may be worth remembering that when a splinter is driven deep into the hand it can be extracted by steam. Nearly fill a wide mouthed bottle with very hot water, place the injured part over the mouth and press it slightly. The suction thus produced will draw the flesh down and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter and inflammation together.

The Womens Christian Temperance Union will hold the first of a series of Co. Institutes in the Wesleyan Methodist church at Millview Friday Nov. 15, 1907.

A meeting of the Co. Executive Committee will be held immediately after the close of the afternoon session. All of the Co. officers are requested to be present at this meeting.

This will be the order of services at the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday: Preaching 10:00 A. M. Sunday School 11:00 A. M. Epworth League, 7:45 P. M.

John Bloomer of Potter county, recently received a personal letter in which it was stated that there was a large quantity of the best grade of granulated sugar to be found at 2 1/2 cents per pound providing that the purchase was made in ton lots and also that payment be made in advance. The name signed to the offer was that of W. G. Wagner of Cumberland Md. Mr. Bloomer thought he had a rare opportunity to make money so he mailed a check for a ton shipment. In a week he had heard nothing of the order and he wrote to Mr. Wagner.

He received a letter in which the writer stated that he was surprised to learn that the sugar had not been delivered and that he would send a tracer after the lost car. He also stated that he still had one ton left, and if Mr. Bloomer wanted it he would ship it at once upon receipt of the necessary amount.

The farmer still believed in the offer, and sent the money for the second lot. Nothing has been heard of Wagner since.

Mistaking a bear for a coon, John Creveling of Columbia County climbed a tree Monday night with the full expectation of capturing his trophy, but changed his mind when he realized what he was up against. With several other young men Creveling went coon hunting along Kitchen's Creek. Seeing an animal which he took for a coon climbed up a tree, he volunteered to capture it and had almost placed his hand upon it when he realized his mistake. He quickly descended, followed by the bear, but managed to reach his gun and kill the animal. The bear was a young one and weighed about 125 pounds.

Isn't it queer how a whole nation can be the victim of a fad? Consider the craze for breakfast foods which held all the United States in its clutches not so very long ago. Was there a town, a hamlet in the most remote section of this country that didn't have the advantages of patent breakfast foods thrust upon it until in their bewilderment, in became added to the number of hypnotized places. Thousands of people seriously consumed enormous quantities of breakfast foods and considered themselves greatly improved in health, when probably they weren't getting one extra iota of nourishment, except with the milk or cream used with most varieties. Yet they would loudly extoll the remarkable points of their particular breakfast food and not know that they were affording a spectacle for sardonic amusement. You used a breakfast food because everybody else did, being suddenly convinced that it was what your system had craved for countless years. You didn't realize that clever advertising had created a false appetite for this type of food, and that you were an "easy mark." Count over the list of breakfast foods and consider how many have stood the test of time. Only the few that genuinely contained nourishment. All the rest simply put money into the pockets of some clever men. When you "woke up" their products disappeared from the counter, because the demand ceased. Fruit or some standard cereal, such as hominy, rice or oatmeal, is as good a breakfast foundation as can be found, without having recourse to stuff resembling sawdust or shavings. Don't rush headlong into fadish diets. Your stomach will stand a certain amount of hard usage, but it won't last forever so don't maltreat it.

Kentucky, following the example of her progressive sister states of the north, has organized a grange with the charter list composed largely of the faculty and students of its agricultural college at Lexington. The experiment station corps of experts is also represented in the charter list of seventy-five.

Grange visiting is very popular among granges that are of easy access one to another. The visiting grange goes prepared to furnish the literary programme, while the entertaining grange furnishes the refreshment features.

The most important person to promote and perfect grange organization is a thoroughly equipped and progressive deputy.

There is a possibility that the national grange will meet in Buffalo in 1908. But Ohio may claim the honor.

Problems For Which the Serious Mind Are Needed to Solve.
There is nothing that women cannot do, but the work must be planned with a thoroughness that precludes failure and done with a modesty which is the inherent charm of the superior sex, says the Woman's Home Companion.
As I said, every community has its own problem. Most of these originate outside of the home. Pure water, pure food, pure air, clean streets, sanitary schools and tenements, district nursing, the education of the ignorant in the care of babies, the question of paupers, the public baths and traveling libraries, the treatment of our women prisoners in prison and after, the lodging house problem—these are only a few of the civic puzzles crying for trained women to solve.

A woman does probably her greatest share of her duty as a citizen when she makes a home a safe and happy harbor of refuge from a stormy world, when she brings up her children into noble manhood and womanhood and when she does not destroy her husband and family by bad cooking and bad temper, but that same woman crowns her career as a citizen when she interests herself in and becomes a vital part of some problem of government. A woman successful in home life is desperately needed in civic life.
