The entertainment given at the new school house hall on Monday evening was a splendid success in every respect. The music, tableaux, pantomimes, and readings were of a high order of excellence and were fully appreciated by an audiance that completely filled the hall. that completely filled the hall. Space prevents our making special mention of the individual perform-ers but all acquitted themselves most ers but all acquitted themselves most ers but all acquitted themselves most creditably. The hall is admirably adapted for entertainments of this kind. Financially the entertain-ment exceeded all expectations, the seceipts being over $60. This will pay the balance due on the piano and leave enough to properly fix up the stage. One pleasant feature of the occasion was a gift of $25 from the National Protective Association from a visit with her sister, Mrs. creditably.
