It is hotter in Washington just now than the mercury indicates, particularly in both ends of the capitol building and at the White House.

It is indeed gratifying to know that there is enough self-respect and dignity remaining among the members of our National law-makers to resent the insinuations of corrupt practices freely indulged in by many of the most prominent members. It is most fortunate for the nation that it has a Roosevelt for a ruler. The President was altogether too plain spoken in his message for the dignity of the House, and the veiled inferences seem to have cut deep, but the general public, with memories of the Standard Oil correspondence, with Senators and Representatives on trial for fraud, to say nothing of this latest exposure regarding Sentor Tillman, will not seriously resent the Presidents seeming disrespect and caustic attack. Legislative bodies have only themselves to blame for this common feeling among the people at large.
