John Crioyski Met Death at Ringdale,

The body of John Crioyski, a Polander from Bernice, was found under the railroad bridge at Ringdale at an early hour Monday morning by the track walker. The body was taken to Bernice where Coroner C. D. Voorhees held an inhad fallen from the bridge while on his way to Laporte where he was employed by Mr. James McFarlane at haying. His head was badly bruised from the fall. A small sum sum of money was found in his pocket which was evident he had not been murdered.

One of the most inconsistent things we know of is the complaint that many farmers make against the present tariff, charging it with the high price of wire and other things that the farmer has to buy. One such farmer is a man whom he saw sell oats at 50 cents a bushel not long ago, another sold hogs at over 6 cts., eggs at twenty cents, butter at twenty-five cents, wheat at a dollar and so on nearly all along the line. now we do not know whether or not the Tariff is to blame for these high prices of farm produce; whether it does or not we never hear the farmers kicking on these high prices and charging them up to the Tariff. We half suspect that in kicking on the Tariff the farmer is unconsciously reechoing the complaints made by the City papers on the high prices, but while the city papers do not say so in just so many words the thing they are complaining about is the high price of flour, meat, potatoes and other farm produce. If the Tariff enables the farmer to get such prices for his produce the city people will soon have to get off the

Many good people in this country have from time to time been led into contributing of their hard earned money toward a fund with which smooth tongued lawyers are to secure to the heirs millions of money alleged to have been left by some almost forgotten ancestor. The Lawyer who is at the head of a scheme of this kind hunts up the name of a family which has connections, and then announces that he is in possession of facts which will lead to the distribution of a large sum of money to the heirs of some one long diseased, and many families swallow the bait hook and all.

To be one of the heirs to a vast for tune is an alluring situation to any person, and it is not difficult for the scheming lawyers to find a family willing to give up their good money in an effort to secure the mythicar wealth. These families might as well put their money into a combination which would promise to seek the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow, so far as their hopes of realizing anything but disappointment from the search for the spurious fortunes is concerned, for there are no such fortunes awaiting recovery.

The State department at Washington as long ago as 1881 exploded the theory that there are vast fortunes.

The new tariff bill will become a law next week and it will be found one of the most popular tariff measures ever passed by congress.

The new bill which the State Game The shipment comprised Commission will endeavor to have passed will make radical changes in regard to seasons and protection of game. The protection which has been extended to deer will be given to bear, and for the first time a limit will be placed, two deers being allowed to each hunter. Two wild turkeys will be allowed to each hunter. Two wild turkeys will be the limit on that game. The season for hare, quail and turkies with other small game, will begin with November instead of October. The woodcock, pheasant and squirrel seasons will be made 15 days later than hereto-for, and will start on October 15.
