The Laporte Baptist Church is getting a new coat of paint. Miss Mollie Keeler, of New York City, donated the paint and T. J. Keeler and son Herbert are doing the work. This greatly improves the appearance of this pretty little edifice.

Polanders employed at Lopez, in the mills or otherwise, are purchasing land and everything else offered for sale in that section. They are hard workers, very saving, and seem to have so much confidence in the lumbering district of Sullivan county that they are investing their savings in real estate.

John Featherby, aged 17 years, the son of Reubin Featherby, of Eldredsville, died at the Sayre hospital Saturday night. Death was due to septic peritonitis and a ruptured appendix. The boy was taken to the hospital Wednesday and his condition was very serious. He was operated upon at once, but little hope of his recovery was held out.

Pennsylvania is in the position of being practically out of debt, the only state in the Union so situated. This was demonstrated at the meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission Tuesday, when it was shown that the net debt of the State is $2,684,614 and to pay this there is in the sinking fund $2,666,397, the net State debt being figured at $18,237. In the next few months there will be due the sinking fund $26,486, and that Found Indian Relic in River.

While Marcus Burgard was digging for gravel for concrete purposes in the river opposite Reagan streets, in Sunbury, at a distance about one hundred feet from the shore, he brought up from the depth of about three feet below the bottom of the river a remarkable and very interesting Indian relic, which had no doubt for hundreds of years been imbedded in the gravelly bottom of the river.
