Japan is peculiarly well off in respect of good highways. The Tokaido. which runs from Kyoto to Tokyo, is over 300 miles in length and is admirably constructed. There is also the Nakasendo, which is even longer and passes through some of the finest scenery in the world. The reason of Japan's excellence in the matter of roads is that in the old days—not so very long ago-the daimios, or territorial nobles, had to journey to Tekyo once a year in order to pay their respects to the sovereign. They raveled by road, with great retinues, and if the highways were not in perfect con-cition feudal justice was meted out to Amendment Two—To Article Four, Section Twenty-one.

Section 3 Amend section twenty-one of article four, which reads as follows:—

"The term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall be four years: of the Auditor General three years; and of the State Treasurer two years. These officers shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the State at general elections. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms," so as to read:—

The term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Auditor General, and the shall serve for three years, and his successors shall be elected at the general election in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, shall serve for three years, and his successors shall be elected at the general election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and in every fourth year therafter. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms.

Amendment Tree—To Article Five, Section Eleven.

Section 4. Amend section eleven of article five, which reads as follows:—

"Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in each ward or district or borough shall elect more man without the consent of a majority of the qualified electors within such township, ward or district, so as to read:—

Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts borough shall elect more than the peace of aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts borough shall elect more than the peace of aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts, boroug of the Secretary of Internal of the Secretary of Internal (1987) of Internal (1987) of the Secretary of Internal (1987) of Internal (19

Section 12. That no inconvenience may arise from the changes in the Constitution of the Commonwealth, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared that—

In the case of officers elected by the people, all terms of office fixed by act of Assembly at an odd number of years shall each be lengthened one year, but the Legislature may change the length of the term, provided the terms for which such officers are elected shall always be for an even number of years.

The above extension of official terms shall not affect officers elected at the general election of one thousand nine hundred and eight; nor any city, ward, borough, township, or election division officers, whose terms of office, under existing law, end in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

In the year one thousand nine hundred and ten the municipal election shall be held on the third Tuesday of Pebruary, as heretofore; but all offleers chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and election shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thream of which is now four years, or is made four years by the operation of these amendments or this schedule, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and election, shall serve until the first Monday of December of the year.
