Lack of ambition, inattention to customers and a general do-nothing policy will kill any business; it is only a question of time. Conversely, an obliging, courteous spirit, a quick response to the wants of customers and the true business quality that appreciates the value of generous and attractive advertising to acquaint the public with the stock carried and bargains offered, and business success is more than reasonably sure.

If a certain North Dakota instance is to be followed utter ignorance on the part of a man will be his best qualification for serving on a jury. Let a man be intelligent, educated, conversant with passing events, and able to form an opinion based on facts, and he will be rejected as unfit for jury service. But let him be so illiterate as to be unable to read, and so ignorant as not to know the name of the chief executive of his nation, and he is at once accepted by the lawyers on both sides. Logically carried out this would mean that the most ignorant man is best qualified to be foreman. Verily the time honored right of being tried by a jury of one's peers bids fair to become a humiliation and a burlesque.

Representative's Wife in L. V. R. R. Wreck.

Mrs. Lewis B. Zaner of Satterfield, wife of Representative Zaner was on the Lehigh Valley train at the time of the wreck at Stull. The lady was returning home from Philadelphia. Mr. Zaner who was awaiting her at the Satterfield station, was informed that his wife had been killed, and when the transfer train from Towanda went to the scene of the wreck the anxious husband boarded it.

Mrs. Zaner was but slightly injured and accompanied her husband home.

Progress Toward National Banks. Views of Guthrie Chase and Lincoln.

James Guthrie of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury in 1855 has the honor of hinting that unless the banking system of the different states was greatly reformed by the states themselves, it would be the duty of the National government to exercise its constitutional power of taxing them out of existence.

Salmon P. Chase, Secretary of the treasury in his report of December 1861 recommended the establishment of a national system that should give the general government complete control of the currency. The state bank circulation of $150,000,000, be regarded as "a loan without interest, from the people to the banks" and said: "It deserves consideration whether sound policy does not require that the advantages of this loan be transferred from the banks, representing the interest of stockholders, to the government, representing the aggregate interest of the whole people." Mr. Chase further said: "The central idea of the proposed measure is the establishment of one uniform circulation of equal value throughout the country upon the foundation of national credit combined with private capital, and that the stockholders of any existing banks can likewise organize under the act, and transfer by such degrees as may be found convenient, the capital of the old, to the use of the new association."

President Lincoln in his message to congress in December 1862 declared himself in favor of the organization of banking associations under a general law of congress, well guarded in its provisions.

A national bank bill was reported by the committee of ways and means, on the 12th of July 1862 and printed in the newspapers of the loyal states. Those interested in the old state banks were of course at first exceedingly hostile to it, but the measure was generally favored by the people. The object of the bill was to compel the retirement of the state banks circulation, and induce the banks themselves to reorganize under the national law, and further more, not only give the people a better currency, but create a ready market for not less than $300,000,000 of the United States five twenty, six per cent bonds. The bill passed the senate February 12th 1863 by the small majority of two votes, and was passed by the House of Representatives on the 20th of February following and was approved by the President on the 25th.

Memorial Day Services.

Memorial Day was fittingly observed in the M. E. Church by appropriate speeches and the singing of patriotic songs. The Memorial Address was delivered by Rev. C. H. Doupe. After the services all proceeded to the cemetery, led by the four remaining veterans, Wm. W. Loeb, A. J. Hackley, J. V. Finkle and Jack Phillips. There the graves of the soldiers were decorated by the flower girls with wreaths of laurel and cut flowers.

Sonestown Wins.

The Sonestown Base ball team won it's first game on Memorial Day by defeating Picture Rocks. The score was 7 to 6. The feature of the game was the excellent work of the battery, Starr in the box and Schanbacher behind the bat. The team played good ball considering its practice and it is prophesied by one of the fans that they will make some of the other teams go some before the season closes.

Rev. D. L. Dixon preached a very good Memorial sermon Sunday afternoon, which was enjoyed by a large congregation.

Ernest Botsford, Wood Superintendent for the Nordmont Chemical Co., accompanied by General Superintendent Holcomb, transacted business in the county seat Wednesday.

Mrs. J. L. Smyth left Tuesday night for Athens and Buffalo, where she will spend a week visiting friends.

A. L. Wieland and family of Sayre, arrived Wednesday and have moved into the residence of C. L. Wing.

Mrs. A. C. Parker of Philadelphia who has spent a number of summers with her family, at Laporte, will this year occupy the Crocker cottage on Main street.

Edward Ladley, Cashier of First National Bank of Laporte made a hasty visit to his old home in Kenneth Square last week. W. C. Mason officiated as cashier in his absence. Mr. Ladley was at his post again on Monday evening.
