If it is true that ligions of dangerous bacteria lurk in men's whiskers the Emperor William must have incurred great risks when he kissed King George three times on his cheek. But as the German are distinguished for their scientific knowledge perhaps the emperor has been made immune.

Landlord Hassen of the Bernard House has nothing lacking in his ability to establish an up-to-date hostelry in every respect. Lastly he has installed a new bar fixture of fine design with an ice keg vault in the cellar which keeps the draught goods in good condition. John Hileman Jr. of Dushore installed the new apparatus.

It is not at all likely there will be any betting over the Mexican presidential election which takes place this month. There is no question as to re-election of President Diaz, who evidently has a life job. This, among other things, spares the Mexicans the sight of seeing men pay foolish election bets by going about with one side only of the face shaved, or trundling other men through the streets in wheelbarrows.

Aerial navigation is making rapid strides of late. The memorable flight of Paulhan in England, and the no less remarkable voyage of Curtiss from Albany to New York indicate the great possibilities of this mode of travel. Probably the risks from weather and the difficulties of overcoming the law of gravitation may prevent it from ever being commercial and popular. But for military, scientific and other purposes aerial navigation has, apparently, a great future before it.

He is feeling much better at last reports.

Our Mailing lists will soon be fully corrected. If you are one year in arrears and wish to have the News Item enter your home for the ensuing year now is the proper time to pay up. There are still a few who have neglected this small but important matter and as we are compelled to cut them off the list we hope those in arrears will take this as a final request and drop us the seventy-five.

The man who makes two blades of grass grow where formerly there was but one is rightly said to be a public benefactor. So too, is the man who continually speaks well of his town, who points out its advantages, and who breathes spirit of hopefulness in all his utterances. Such a man helps the business of his town, gets other people to talk about it in the same strain, and he has the satisfaction of seeing the town grow as the result of his boosting and that of others. Local patriotism counts and it is as much needed and as much to be commended in its place as national patriotism.

Engineer Finds Gold.

Williamsport News.
While walking over the mountain in the wilds of Sullivan county recently, Alfred Lovelace, an engineer in the Sweet's steel plant made a startling discovery. In one of the mountains many miles from any settlement, in one of the wildest spots in the state's center, Mr. Lovelace ran across a black stone in the side of a hill. Picking it up and thinking that the stone might possibly contain some mineral, Mr. Lovelace took the stone home with him.

When he reached the house he placed the stone on a shelf in the parlor. Next to the stone was a small battery. No sooner had the stone been placed on the shelf than the battery attached the stone to it. Amazed at what had taken place Mr. Lovelace returned to the spot where he had procured the little black stone and gathered a small quantity of them.

Returning home he sent samples to Colorado and New York. In less than a week Mr. Lovelace received an answer from Colorado.

A specialist had examined the stones and stated that they were highly impregnated with magnetic iron and seven other valuable minerals of which traces of gold were prominent. The owner of the land lives in Virginia and efforts are being taken by Mr. Lovelace to purchase the land.
