This is a good story and one which in book form would cost more than a year's subscription to this paper. To keep on the safe side we would advise that you look up your subscription and see if it is paid far enough in advance to insure you the whole story.

Lightning Plays Queer Pranks.

An electric storm which visited the northern part of this county on Saturday afternoon created much havoc.

The home of Irvin Hottenstein at Overton was struck by a bolt of lightning which hit all four corners of the building at the same time and knocked the cellar wall from beneath it in several places. A cow in a nearby field was struck at about the same time and instantly killed.

At the home of George Cederborg about two miles from the Hottenstein place, three children were playing in the woodshed with a puppy. Between them lay an old dog asleep on the floor. Lightning struck the shed killing the dog and shocking the children rendering one unconscious.

At the home of Ezra Hunsinger at Dushore a bolt struck the house on the back side, went through the building and stunned a little girl who was on the front porch. None of the members of the family in the house were injured.

Two telephone polls in front of Lane's hotel in Dushore were demolished by a bolt.

In a field belonging to Harry Spencer in Burlington Township, Bradford Co., a wheat stack was struck by lightning and burned up.

What's Wrong With Laporte?

Under the above heading the Dushore Gazette prints this week our local item relating to the stationing of a detachment of state police at this place, with the following attached:

"Ed.—The people of Dushore and vicinity are law abiding citizens and no state police are needed to keep order. Constable Cott does police duty on special occasion but never sees any violations of the law."

In answer we would say that in our opinion there is not a thing wrong with Laporte. It is the prettiest town in the county, and the liveliest and best place for its size on the map, but at this season of the year, with excursions coming from all prominent places—and probably Dushore, which always have a certain number of reckless passengers aboard, we consider it advisable, pro bono publico to have sufficient protection in case of any elbow knocking. We are glad however, that Dushore is not sufficiently lively to require such precaution, and judging from the fact that our friend Cott is a frequent caller at the county bastille for the purpose of lodging a prisoner from that law abiding vicinity he is doing his duty thoroughly.

Mrs. Rosena Schock.

Mrs. Rosena Schock, wife of John Schock of Lopez, died at the Paeker hospital at Sayre 3 o'clock Monday morning, July 25, after an illness of some time with diabetes. E. Potter of Old Forge; Mrs. Doll of Lopez; J. J. of Philadelphia; Joseph of Sayre, and Geo. C. of Lopez. Mrs. Schock was taken to the hospital some few weeks ago suffering from gangrene and she was improving and was supposed to have been almost cured when diabetes returned and proved fatal. The remains were taken to the home of her daughter in Wyalusing on Monday and on Wednesday morning they were taken to the Lutheran church at Wilnot where the funeral was held at 11 o'clock. Interment was made in the cemetery at that place.

Mrs. J. L. Smyth entertained the following ladies at 5 o'clock tea Tuesday afternoon: Mrs. Wm. H. Rogers, Mrs. James Garland, Mrs. J. M. Strohl, Mrs. F. H. Ingham, Mrs. Louise Barrows and Misses Jessie Wrede, Ione Mason and Olive Barrows.

Hughesville Beaten.

In a game seven inning of base ball played Thursday afternoon on the home grounds, a pretty stiff aggregation from Hughesville was nicely though not easily beaten, the score being 3-2. We think it was the best game yet in every respect. This game gives Laporte a record of five out of six one game having been lost to Eagles Mere. Only one hit was allowed Hughesville. Five flies were batted to the out field and all were captured. Few errors were made and quick recovering was done. Carpenter struck out eight players and Armstrong of Hughesville, seven.

A Good Game.

An excellent game of base ball was played on the home grounds Saturday when Muncy and Laporte came together, and as usual the home team was the Johnson of the diamond, winning the nine round bout by a score of 3-1. In the first inning one score was run in for each side and thus it stood till the third when Laporte made two more trips around the bases. Following this nothing more was done in the score line throughout the rest of the game however the play was full of interest and kept the fans noisy until the end of the ninth chapter. Fine pitching was done by both pitchers, each having 14 strike outs to his credit.

Bernice Lady Injured.

While visiting at the home of Mrs. John Epley in South Towanda, Monday, Mrs. George Hatton of Bernice, fell down stairs fracturing both her arms and sustaining other severe injuries. She was so wedged in at the bottom of the stairs when help arrived that it required several neighbors to release her from her terrible position. She is in a critical condition but it is believed she will recover.

Oversensitive Consciences.
It is not worth the while to let our Imperfections disturb us always. The conscience really does not, and ought not to monopolize the whole of our lives, any more than the heart or the head. It is as liable to disease as any other part. I have seen some whose consciences, owing undoubtedly to former indulgence, had grown to be as irritable as spoiled children, and at length gave them no peace. They did not know when to swallow their cud, and their lives, of course yielded no milk.—Thoreau.

British Coin.
The English sovereign weighs 123.274 grains, .916 fine, and consequently it contains 113,001 grains of fine gold. The shilling weighs 87.27 grains, .925 fine, and thus contains 80,727 grains of fine silver. Bronze coins consist of a mixture of copper, tin and zinc. The penny weighs 145.83 grains. The standard of value is gold. Silver is legal tender up to 40 shillings, bronze up to 12 pence, but farthings only up to six pence. Bank of England notes are not legal tender.

HELL GATE OF THE LAKES.

Greatest Coffor Dam in the World Now Building There.

For more than a third of a century the United States government has been striving to provide a channel in the lower Detroit river that would prove equal to the constantly increasing demands of marine interests on the great lakes.

The conquest of the Lime Kiln Crossing some fourteen miles below Detroit, and the most troublesome spot on the inland seas, has kept government engineers busy for years, made contractors wealthy and furnished employment for hundreds of skilled drill and dredge men.

Were all the collisions, groundings and other accidents that have taken place in the vicinity of the Lime Kiln Crossing to be enumerated, the showing would be impressive. Now this most perplexing problem of removing this hindrance to further marine development is well along toward a solution that will, it is confidently predicted, eliminate trouble for all time.

The change is being brought about through one of the most remarkable engineering feats on record, which involves nothing less than the construction of the greatest coffer dam the world has ever known, the pumping out of an area more than a mile in length and approximately one-third of a mile in width, and cutting in the dry from the limestone rock forming the river bottom a course 300 feet in width and a mile in length that will, when completed, accommodate the largest vessels on the great lakes.

Overreached Himself.

"It's funny how afraid rich men are of being cheated," reflected Mr. Bates, "specially when they get out in the country. Now last fall one of the fur-lined overcoat kind came up here. He snipped off his words as if they'd been coupons, and though he's come up here for rest, he seemed to think somebody'd charge him extry for it if he mentioned the fact.

"Well, the Bassett place up on Birch Hill was for sale, and he took a fancy to it—looked just like the house where he was born, he said.

"But don't you let it out," he says to me. "They'll be asking some fancy price for it if they know I want it."

"Well, I drove him up there after he'd made up his mind, and we found Isaac Bassett out in the yard.

"I hear this place is for sale. How much?" says Mr. Millionaire.

"Isaac opened his mouth, but that was as far as he got.

"I'll give you nine hundred and fifty dollars for it; not a cent more," said Mr. Millionaire, slam-bang.

"I'll take it," says Isaac.

"I ain't mean," he says, after he'd made out a check and we'd started off, "nor clost, but I won't be done" says he 'jest because I've made my pile."

"I didn't tell him," chuckled Mr. Bates, "that he'd done himself."

"Had he?" questioned Mr. Bates's companion.

"Sure!" said Mr. Bates. "The farm was put up for sale for the taxes, and all they asked was six hundred and fifty dollars. And I've heard that Isaac had privately offered it for six hundred dollars."

Short Talks On Advertising
By Charles Austin Bates.

Farming is generally looked upon as a very simple occupation. A farmer is considered an independent individual, because his business is safe and pleasant. Probably the most enviable feature is its safety. Farmers are nearly sure of making something. They make more some years than others, but on the whole it is a safe business. Just the same, we hear of farmers failing and of the foreclosure of farm mortgages. This is because the farmer didn't attend to his business properly.

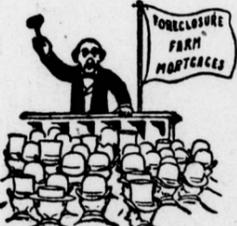

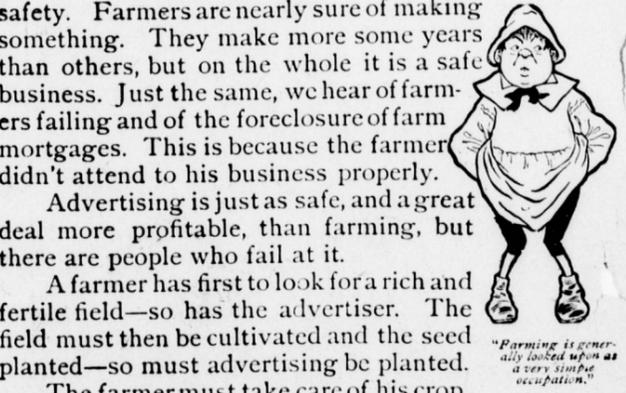

Advertising is just as safe, and a great deal more profitable, than farming, but there are people who fail at it.

A farmer has first to look for a rich and fertile field—so has the advertiser. The field must then be cultivated and the seed planted—so must advertising be planted.

The farmer must take care of his crop, keep the weeds down, keep the ground properly fertilized and irrigated, and the advertiser must perform corresponding offices for his advertisements.

If he plants an ad in a poor paper, where the soil is not good, he cannot expect to get much of a crop of returns. If he plants it in a good paper and allows it to run to seed he cannot expect very much.

If the farmer and the advertiser will both select good soil, put good seed into it, and take care of the sprouts, the harvest is sure to be satisfactory in both cases.

"Just the same, we hear of foreclosure of farm mortgages."
