The Democratic Program.

In a public address a few days ago Champ Clark, Democratic leader of the House, presented a forecast of what the Democrats propose to do when they come into power. "First," he said, "they will reduce the tariff to a revenue basis." Mr. Clark can speak with authority respecting the plans of his party. If the Democrats control the House in the next Congress he undoubtedly will be elected speaker, and in that position will direct the enactment of legislation.

What the Democratic party really proposes to do is reduce the tariff, not to a revenue basis, but to a free trade basis. You readily will recall what happened the last time this party engaged in tariff reduction. In 1890 a Democratic House of Representatives in Congress was elected, and two years later the Presidency was secured by the Democrats.

With the whole power of legislation thus placed in the control of the Democrats, a panic ensued. It did not wait for the party to legislate. The Democrats assailed the Republican policy of protection as they do now and as they always have done. Their declared purpose was to reduce duties and to uproot the whole system. They then had the power.

The menace was enough to cause the greatest distress. Business was suspended, manufactories were closed up, failures were numerous and hundreds of thousands of working men were thrown out of employment. A period of suffering ensued which has hardly had its parallel in the history of the country. It can never be forgotten by any of the sufferers who passed through it.

Under such conditions of business and industrial depression the Democrats enacted their threatened tariff law. It not only did not help, it made matters worse. The Democratic tariff was neither a revenue measure nor a business act. The country continued to suffer until William McKinley, the author of the Republican tariff law which has been so viciously misrepresented, was elected President in 1896.

With a Republican President and a Republican Congress the country entered upon a period of prosperity which has been the wonder of all other lands. Business activity was resumed everywhere and in all lines of industry, and that activity has been continued under Republican tariff legislation which has never failed to provide protection both for the manufacturer and the wage earner.

Do you want hard times again? If you do, listen to the Democratic misrepresentations of the Payne tariff law, which President Taft says is the best tariff measure ever put on the statute books, and restore the Democratic party to power. That will revive the suffering experienced under the last Democratic administration.

A Card.

M. W. Reeser, Republican candidate for Representative in Assembly, was born in Cherre Township, Sullivan County, his grandparents being among the first settlers of the County. He has always lived in Sullivan County excepting a short time spent in business in Wyoming County. He has been actively engaged in farming and lumbering, having been foreman three years for Jennings Brothers at Lopez. He served 15 years as Justice of the Peace, being elected shortly after reaching his majority, and has also filled various township offices, serving at present his second term as Supervisor. He has a good business education and an extensive experience in business affairs. He is liberal and broad minded in public matters and has always been closely identified with any enterprise that has a tendency for the upbuilding of his neighborhood, and is always among the foremost to advance the cause of education and to assist in promoting a better manhood and a nobler womanhood in the community in which he lives. Should he be elected he will represent the whole people of Sullivan County and not any particular party or faction.

A Good Position.

can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa.

Be sure to attend.

The Big Fair.

The annual county fair held at Forksville this week was an excellent exhibition of the agricultural products of Sullivan County combined with enough clean up-to-date amusements to make it an interesting event to the large crowd in attendance from throughout this county and southern Bradford.

Among the exhibits worthy of much praise was the display of county school work. This is a feature in which Sullivan County excels and one of which she can be justly proud.

The live stock, fruit, vegetable, pastry and other displays were up to the standard for size and quality and spoke well for the breeders, agriculturists an house-wives.

In the line of amusements there were the merry-go-round, shows, and the other usual attractions. On Wednesday a track meet was held, students of the county schools competing for prizes and honors. Grant Carpenter of Laporte won the running races.

On Thursday a game of baseball was played between Estella and Shunk, the former winning by a score of 16 to 3.

The LeRoy band furnished music for the occasion.
