The Political Demagogue.

Webster defines a demagogue as "one who attempts to control the multitude by specious and deceitful arts." In this campaign the people of Pennsylvania are hearing the voice of the demagogue. It is that of the office hungry candidate, the most familiar type of demagogue known in this country. By a campaign of misrepresentation the political demagogue hopes to receive a sufficient number of voters to bring about his election. That sort of a campaign wins once in a great while and then the fact that they have been badly buncoed forcibly is brought home to the people.

The Republican Party in Pennsylvania does not stop for the office hungry demagogue. It is the party of action. It goes before the people with a record of what it has done and not with vague promises of what, possibly, it may do. It has moved with the people and has kept abreast of the times. It has administered the affairs of this State so admirably as to present other commonwealths an example of good government. It is the party of progress and performance. That is why an overwhelming majority of the people vote the Republican ticket.

The opponents of the Republican Party have received little encouragement this year. No other candidate for Governor within this generation has proven more popular than Representative John K. Tener. Wherever he goes he is enthusiastically received because he has the confidence of the people. His dignified attitude in the campaign has been commented upon approvingly. There is nothing of the demagogue about him. He does not attempt to deceive anybody. He tells his audiences that he intends to give the State a clean and business like administration and the people believe him. All of the indications point to a remarkable vote of confidence for Mr. Tener and his associates on the Republican ticket.

A Good Position.

can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa.

Seven Tickets in the Field.

A news dispatch from Harrisburg says: Seven full state tickets are now in nomination in Pennsylvania following the filing of papers by the Industrial party at the state department. George Anton, a Philadelphia printer, is the nominee for governor, while the men named for the offices next in importance include a miner, a carpenter and a machinist. In addition to the Industrial party, the other tickets in the field are: Republican, Democratic, Keystone, Prohibition, Socialist and Workingmen's League.

Oyster Supper and Dance.

There will be an Oyster Supper and Dance held at the Sonestown Hotel on Friday evening, Oct. 21. Everybody invited. Good music and good order always.

LABOR LINES UP FOR J. K. TENER

Prompt Repudiation of Scheme Worked by Keystone Party.

THE LEADERS ACT QUICKLY

Greenawalt's Personal Game Blocked When Exposed By Representative Union Men.

An attempt to work a scheme to influence organized labor in the present gubernatorial campaign has proven a boomerang for Berry and his party.

President Greenawalt, of the State Federation of Labor, is being denounced upon every hand for seeking to use the position which he fills temporarily to advance his own political interests and to promote the cause of a combination of politicians who are striving to use the Keystone Party to land themselves and their friends in public office.

Greenawalt's political campaigning for the Keystone Party is quite natural, as he is known as an ardent Democrat, but his efforts to use his position to influence the votes of the wage earners of the state are resented by the rank and file of organized labor in Pennsylvania as well as the influential leaders of various trade unions.

Tener a Friend of Labor.

Greenawalt's action, it is pointed out, is most reprehensible, on account of the fact that John K. Tener, the Republican nominee for governor, has for years been known as a staunch friend of the workmen throughout western Pennsylvania, where he grew up in an atmosphere which would naturally make him sympathize with the wage earners. He spent his boyhood days working in a steel mill in the great Pittsburg district, and in recent years he figured in the satisfactory settlement of labor disputes in his home community, being chosen to appear in consultation as the representative of the workmen. The only period in his career when he was a large employer of labor was when he was at the head of a glass manufacturing establishment, and he had none but union men employed about the plant.

Upon several occasions during his tour of the state Mr. Tener has taken occasion to refer to his advocacy of legislation in the interest of labor, and he has pointed out that through the agency of the Republican party many excellent labor laws have been passed, most of them at the suggestion and upon the request of union labor. The employers' liability bill passed at the last session of the Pennsylvania legislature was enacted by a Republican majority in the senate and the house and was signed by a Republican governor.

The fact that John Mitchell, one of the most respected and popular leaders in the crowd of labor in recent years, is a warm advocate of the election of Mr. Tener to the governorship, has been known to the labor leaders of the state from the very outset of the campaign.

Mitchell Indorses Tener Plan.

John Mitchell has heartily indorsed Mr. Tener's proposition for the appointment of a state commission to be composed of employers and wage earners, whose duty it shall be to investigate every phase of the question of employers' liability and kindred subjects and report to the coming session of the legislature such changes in existing laws as may be deemed advisable. Mr. Tener has given his word to do everything in his power to have satisfactory laws and amendments to laws enacted at once.

In order that workmen of Pennsylvania shall not be misled by the tactics of Greenawalt and others working with Berry, an address has been issued to wage earners over the signatures of Patrick Gilday, president of district No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, and Thomas Haggerty, member of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America.

They declare that Greenawalt is acting on his own responsibility, that there is no distinctive labor candidate in the field, that Greenawalt's appeal was not authorized by any convention or organized labor assembly, and they protest against any labor leader attempting to dictate to organized labor.

They say: "We can recall instances when organized labor asked for and received the assistance of prominent men in the Republican party who are now being vilified by some of the advocates of the Keystone Party."

Tag Your Dog.

Hunters taking their dogs into the woods during the coming season without having them tagged with a 1910 dog tax, will have them shot, according to advices received from Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Game Commission. The ruling of the game commission is that under the act of June 1, 1907, all dogs are required to wear a tag attached to their collar showing that the tax for that year on said dog has been paid, also the name and address of the owner in plain English. If the owner of the dogs do not comply with these requirements it is to be the right and privilege of all game protectors, or any constable, to kill these dogs when off the land owned or controlled by the owners of such dogs.
