NOT GROWING COLDER.

Earth's Climate Has Not Changed Within Historic Times.

During the last few years the supposition that the earth is growing colder has received a setback from the consideration of the consequences which result from the discovery of radium in the earth's rocks. If radium exists throughout the interior of the globe in the same quantities in which it appears in the surface rocks, then such is the volume of heat which it would render up that the earth ought to be growing hotter instead of colder.

If, furthermore, the earth were slightly increasing in temperature, the amount of rainfall precipitated from the atmosphere would become greater rather than less, and as, at the same time, the amount of water, shut up in the earth's rocks would also be forced out in greater quantities by increasing heat, it would not be possible to suppose that the earth's surface was becoming dryer.

Therefore the supposition that the earth has exhibited within historic time any general drying up or any tendency to revert with more and more suspicion, and the hypotheses have been substituted that either the apparent variations of climate are local, or else that they are the results of some seesaw of conditions, the causes of which remain to be discovered.

In short, whatever test be applied, it becomes extremely hard to show that the climate of any portion of the civilized world has appreciably changed within historic time.—London Post.

Shooting at Storms.

Another popular belief has been rudely shaken as the result of a scientific investigation. There has not been much heard of late about producing rain by the discharge of explosives, but the belief in the efficacy of cannon in breaking up hailstorms has been more persistent. In the vine-growing regions of France and Italy the injury done by hailstorms is a very serious matter, and the firing of a cannon has come into quite general use as a means of prevention. But now comes from United States Consul Sharp, of Lyons, a series of articles giving the conclusions arrived at by the French department of commissions of meteorology showing its disbelief in the efficacy of the practice. It does not find that the firing of cannon is at all beneficial for the purpose of dispersing hailstorms.

Why is This Thus?

The local papers in Sullivan and Wyoming counties are carrying advertising for Chicago mail order houses. There is no law against it, and we really do not blame the newspapers in question, but the merchants in the towns where said papers are printed ought to take all the advertising space they have for sale. These mail order houses are not in business for their health, at all, at all. If they advertise in local newspapers throughout the county it is simply and solely because it pays them to do so. They are not "interested in the town," and they don't pretend that they are "giving the poor devil a lift." It is a business proposition with them, and it pays them or they would not do it. Why then, should it not pay the local merchant? Every merchant in every town in Wyoming and Sullivan counties should make a contract for space in their local papers and take all the space there is for sale. The proprietors of the papers would be only too glad to favor them. The Sentinel has not been asked to carry an advertisement for a mail order house, and if we were we don't know where we could put it. The Canton merchants are very good to us.—Canton Sentinel.

Your sentiments are ours exactly Bro. Newell. Some merchants are slow to realize the benefit of newspaper advertising and drift along with a sluggish business, sometimes for years, with possibly the aid (?) of a few signs tacked to trees and fences,—at least they are tacked there for a few days or weeks—and which are read but few times by the passers-by. The mail-order concerns advertise where they know it pays them and their methods should be a lesson to the local merchants. We are willing to concede that there is not a printer in this section or any other who will not willingly give up the custom of the mail order house for an equal amount of advertising from the home merchant. The neglect to advertise consistently though judiciously is merely a neglect of the merchant to enlighten himself to the best and most economical method of reaching his patrons and those whom he desires to secure as future customers.

Slain Girl's Body Found in Woods.

The body of Marie Smith, the ten-year-old school girl, who disappeared last Wednesday after leaving the Bradley schoolhouse in Asbury Park, N. J., which she attended, was found in the woods of Wannamas, about 250 feet from the main road. The body was lying in a pool of blood.

There was a deep gash on the top of her head, evidently inflicted by an axe. Coroner Pudry ordered an autopsy and at once empaneled a jury. The autopsy revealed that the body had been maltreated after death.

There is great excitement in Asbury Park and a crowd assembled at the undertaking establishment where the body was removed.

Thomas Williams, a negro, employed by the girl's aunt, was arrested as a suspect.

Marie was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, of Whitesville. For three days searching parties have been out scouring the woods and dragging the lakes.

Brown, a former resident of Williamsport, died in the hospital at that place Monday morning at 11 o'clock from injuries sustained in an accident at a Grays Run lumber camp on Friday. While at work in the woods Mr. Brown's right foot was caught beneath a felled tree and before he could release himself a log rolled down the mountain side and passed over his body, terribly crushing him. He was taken to the Williamsport hospital, where an operation was performed in an effort to save him.

Mr. Brown was 47 years of age and is survived by two brothers and two sisters. The body was taken to Estella for interment.

Fire At Laporte Hotel.

A small fire, but one that might have resulted disastrously, occurred at Laporte Hotel, owned by R. W. Carpenter, on Wednesday evening, about 10:30 o'clock. A lamp in the sample room of the hotel came loose from its hangings and dropped to the floor. Oil was scattered about the room setting fire to the carpet. Ellery, a son of Mr. Carpenter, discovered the fire before it had gained much headway and quickly taking in the situation, he seized a carpet which had been purchased that day and left lying on the floor, with which he smothered the flames. No serious damage was done to the woodwork of the room.
