IN PEACE THERE IS GLORY.

Fifty years have passed into history since the Civil War began and the causes leading thereto are now merely reminiscences in the minds of those who fought and matters of chronology to the younger generation. While the conflict raged, in spite of strong passions and prejudices, the men who fought on either side unhesitatingly recognized the bravery of the men against whom they fought. The following years of peace have not changed that feeling, but they nave seen the passion and prejudice so die down that at the present time in is universally acknowledged that the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the grey were alike animated by the conscientious sense of what they conceived to be their duty. It is men of this stamp that make a nation strong and secure.

They saw no glory in conflict; in the raising of arms against their fellow-men, but they do glory in ed from the inevitable rebellion.

They were not born to soldier life. Their country's summons called them from the plow, the forge, the bench, the loom, the mine, the store, the office, the college and the sanctuary. They did not fight for greed of gold, to find adventure nor to win renown. They loved the peace of quiet ways and yet they broke the clasp of clinging arms, turned from the glance of tender eyes, left good-bye kisses on tiny lips to look death in the face on desperace fields.'

But all this has come and gone. The heroes of fifty years ago are we are a nation of citizens, not of soldiers, and in keeping Decoration
Day we do not glorify war or seek damages sustained. to inflame the evil passions of men.

As we think of the thousands of heroes, human sacrifices to the cause of united peace; as we think of the aged and enfeebled veterans who survive and as we think of the tattered ensigns, pierced by shot and shell on many a field of battle, we would glorify peace, not war, we would glorify peace, not war, and union, not discord. And we can best show our respect for both dead and living heroes of the great strife, by burying all prejudices and animosities and by promoting good will and unity throughout the land.

VIEWPOINT

THE FLOWER GARDEN

By BYRON WILLIAMS

VERY woman should have a flower garden, not alone for the blossoms it yields nor for the added beauty to the land-scape, but because working in the soil, in the sunlight, in God's out of doors, is tonic to the nerves and peace to the worried mind.

But every woman does not know how properly to prepare a flower gar-den. It is true that one may grow some flowers merely by tickling the ground with a crooked stick, strewing the seeds broadcast and letting Nature do her best. This is not satisfactory; this is merely a makeshift for a posy bed. Growing flowers, like everything else worth doing, is worth doing well. If you will follow a few simple instructions you can become a real flow-er enthusiast, for the bed prepared will give big results and afford ample bouquets.

In the beginning remember that most flower seeds are tiny particles You would not plant a bean under a clod of dirt as large as your head and expect the bean to do much. Neither should you plant flower seeds in coarse, cloddy ground for the same

To begin at the beginning, spade into your soil a good fertilizer, being careful to turn over the ground and mix it well with the fertilizer. If you have some wood ashes strew them on the surface before starting to spade. Having spaded the bed, rake off all the stones, pulverize all the clods pack down with a board and then re-

It is plain to you that the richest and finest soil should be on the sur-face, that the tiny seeds may find a ready root bed. Having prepared the bed, do not scatter your seeds broadcast lest when the tiny shoots appear you cannot tell them from weeds.

Lay a board on the bed, stand on the board, make a very shallow drill, say a half inch deep, and drop your seeds at regular distances. When the drill is filled move the board over it and start another drill. By standing on the board you will press the dirt over the seeds just placed. Every time you move the board place two sticks in the edges of the bed to mark where the row is. It is a good plan to slip the flower package over the top of the stick to remind you later what each row contains. If you are me-thodical keep a register of how many rows are pansies, how many calen dulias, etc.

When the bed is finished do not rake lightly over the top of it. The weight of your body on the board will cover the seeds sufficiently. If you disagree with this sprinkle a bit of loose dirt over the rows, but remember that many a flower seed has failed to be a flower because it has been buried under too much soil.

It will be necessary with some flow-

is a mistake the amateur almost always makes. She thinks it a pity to disturb the tiny plantiets and leaves them to crowd and fight each other for supremacy. It is a great, crying fact which every flower lover should know that a few plants, well cared for and given plenty of room and cultivation will entirely surpass a lot of crowded, sparse slips trying to find room.

If you want fine flowers you must cultivate the soil. Many a flower bed has been ruined by too much water and too little cultivation. Don't be afraid to scratch among your flowers. One of the little hand scratchers is convenient, and how it does open the soil for the tonic Nature has ready for her little friends, the flower roots!

Never water flowers during the heat of the day. Watch for suckers and slugs. The aphis may be killed with almost any spray, even cold water being effective, but tobacco liquid gives the best results. You can buy the nicotine mixtures at any dealer's

Some pests must be smothered; others must be strangled or poisoned. Whale oil soap will answer in cases where a coating over the insect is de-sired, but it is bad smelling stuff, and I have had much better success with bordeaux mixture or nicotine.

Keep your perennials and your annuals in separate parts of the garden. Perennials are always satisfactory be-cause they need so little attention after they are once planted. Some of these will not bloom the first year, but will last a long time after once becom-ing firmly established.

 QUALITY

When people realize that it is not the quantity for the money, so much as the quality that counts, then they will patronize the store which does business in good pure goods. Cut prices often mean cut qualities. Our prices are as low as good goods wil allow. Our goods are not of the cheap mail-order variety. When comparing prices do not forget to compare qualities. If you find the prices lower than ours, then you will find the qualities inferior—generally "bargain house" job lots.
