CURRENT NEWS OF THE WEEK AND EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE IN WHICH PENNSYLVANIA FIGURES.

Special to the News Item. Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill "To provide employment in the Depart-persons sixty-five years of age and upward, and prescribe the duties and fix the pay of same, and for of cases like that of the Los Anof the existing laws.

The debate on the Democratic wool bill has been brought to a close and in the consideration of this important subject of legislation the delegation from Pennsylvania have taken a prominent part in the debates. The venerable Sereno Payne, author of the Payne-Aldrich tarriff bill, has been in charge of the Republican side of the debate, and his great knowledge of the subject of the tariff has been the means of strengthening his party position before the country. Of course it has been a foregone conclusion that the action of the Democratic caucus would settle the fate of the bill in the House, as this latter great body has simply been the echo of the caucus agreement since the beginning of the special session. No one seriously believes that the bill will pass the Senate, and it is even doubtful whether it will be considered in that branch of Congress.

There is an apparent determination to investigate anything, If Appelby had been rich, and had everything and exerybody, and to hired world famous lawyers to dedo it right away ! The Democratic probers have been picking out the items that appear in the record of the State Department, comodate all who do not desire to and by insinuation have sought to remain until the excursion train cast discredit upon Secretary Knox and other officials. Of course, Washington understands all this, and pays no attention to this last attempt to make political capital, but in the country itself the necessity of expenditures of this character are not so well understood, A "school of smiling" for girls and it is a part of the "peaunut politics' that are being played in they don't teach the 57 varieties the Capital to attempt to create an impression that a great branch of the federal government has been Representative Field of Kentucky must be disappointed in view of the fact that a resolution introduced by him two or three weeks ago asking information as to against the American Tobacco Company and other institutions affected by the recent decisions of the Supreme Court, has got no further than the pigeon hole of a Committe. Some of the Republican members have suggested to the gentleman from Kentucky that it might be well for him to read the newspapers.

The Appelby Case.

That justice sometimes miscarries no one can deny, but it is not always when a rich criminal is in the dock. The Appelby murder case in Tioga county, is a glaring case in point. Appelby killed his young wife, deliberately, while drunk. A jury of his peers adjudged him guilty of murder in the second degree, and the judge sentenced him to an indeterminate sentence of from five to twenty years. If he behaves fairly well he will be out again in five years. A couple years ago another man in Tioga county murdered a horse and was given seventeen years. It would thus appear that a horse is worth about three and a half times a woman in Tioga county. What we wanted to call particular attention to was the fact that it was not money that saved Appelby. He had none to amount to anything. It was simply the sympathy of the jury with a drunkard. not so in this case. Appelby sat trial, and to all questions replied : "I don't remember; I was drunk."
