COAL STRIKE WORLD WIDE

Prussian Miners Follow Lead of English Workers.

MORE THAN 1,000,000 OUT

London County Council Curtails Service—750,000 Other Workers Idle—Number to Double—No Loans to Unions on Securities.

New York.—With more than 1,000,000 coal miners on strike in England the Prussian workers also decided to quit work.

In France there is much unrest. A shortage in supply is already feared, and the action of the English and the French miners.

German workers are likely to influence in this country preparations are being made to face a great walkout of anthracite workers, who threaten to quit on April 1. Coal owners are guarding their stockades in the Pennsylvania fields by barbed wire.

The men's demands have thus far been refused, and strenuous efforts are being made to accumulate sufficient reserves to meet the situation.

COAL STRIKE VOTED IN NORTH GERMANY.

150,000 Miners in Ruhr Region Meet at 80 Points and Declare War on the Owners.

Essen, Rhenish, Prussia.—A strike throughout the Ruhr region was overwhelmingly voted at a meeting of the delegates representing the three coal miners' organizations.

The Christian Unionists, who were not represented, have issued a protest, but it is said that they will approve the demand for increased wages, and it would not be surprising to see them eventually join the movement.

Eighty different meetings were held in the various mining districts and not less than 150,000 miners attended. Much enthusiasm was displayed and the men enthusiastically favored a fight to a finish with the employers.

All the meetings were orderly. The official notification of the proposed strike appeals to the miners to be law abiding and "strictly avoid liquor."

COAL SCARCE IN ENGLAND.

Conferences Planned, but Strike's End Is Not Yet in Sight.

London.—As the coal strike in England continues the fear increases that, unless it is settled soon, there will be a general coal famine. Already precautionary measures have been taken by the railways and the big industrial concerns.

The American Steamship Line has announced that all its sailings from Southampton have been suspended, owing to the coal strike.

Hundreds of factories closed down indefinitely, and until the strike is ended there will be no work for the employes. Figures received at the home office show that 750,000 men other than miners have been thrown out of work since the strike, and it is expected that the number will be doubled in a week.

Several of the big daily newspapers will be obliged to cut the size of their editions.

Meanwhile from every city comes the report of great suffering among the poor. In many places the authorities are commandeering coal and other fuel, and it is being parcelled out in small quantities to those who cannot buy it. Food supplies are running short and prices have advanced.

An important question has arisen as to strike finances. All the funds of the striking unions are invested in stocks and mortgages and amount to £2,500,000. On Lombard street a controversy has arisen as to whether the banks should make advances against these securities. This, it is argued, would amount practically to financing the strike and leading institutions have decided not to provide the money.

EVERY PATENT AN OCTOPUS

Chief Justice Predicts "Untold Evils" Will Follow Decision

IMPERILS ALL TRUST SUITS

Chief Justice Opposes It—Says It Means Extension of Monopoly and Affects Every Household in the United States.

Washington.—Officials of the Department of Justice and lawyers all over the country are exercised over the decision in the case of A. B. Dick & Co., handed down by a majority of the Supreme Court and which it is believed gives so new and far-reaching effect to the rights of a patentee that it is likely to seriously embarrass the government in several pending suits under the Sherman law. The suits that may be affected by it are those in which the alleged monopoly rests on patent rights, such as United Shoe Machinery and the bath tub trust case.

By officials of the Department of Justice the decision is regarded as the most important that has been handed down since the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust decisions.

It is by no means certain, however, that the decision will be permitted to stand. The vote in the court stood 4 to 3. The majority opinion was read by Justice Lurton and concurred in by Justices McKenna, Holmes and Van deranter. A vigorous dissenting opinion was read by Chief Justice White and concurred in by Justice Hughes and Lamar. Justice Day did not sit in the case. At the time the arguments were submitted he was at the bedside of his wife who was fatally ill.

Because of the far-reaching effect that this decision may have on pending anti-trust cases and on every household in the land the government, although not a party to the suit, will take steps to bring about a rehearing of the case before a full bench as soon as the nomination of Mahlon P. Pitney to fill the existing vacancy is confirmed.

The case arose in New York. The firm of A. B. Dick & Co. of Chicago, which owns a patent on a "rotary mimeograph," brought suit against Sidney Henry of New York for alleged contributory infringement. Dick & Co. sold a mimeograph to Christina B. Skou, of New York, and upon the machine was inscribed what purported to be a license under which the purchaser was entitled to use the machine. The conditions were that the purchaser should use only such stencils, paper, ink, and other supplies in the operation of the machine as were manufactured by A. B. Dick & Co. Miss Skou purchased ink from Sidney Henry that had not been manufactured by the Dick company and in violation of the license.

Justice Lurton and his associates held that the violation of the license constituted an infringement of the patentee's rights, and that the case was one which came within the jurisdiction of the Federal court. Their decision held in effect that the patentee had the right to prescribe the conditions under which the patent may be used or sold.

The chief justice pointed out that under his decision a patentee might sell a cook stove and prosecute a user for infringement if he cooked more than one kind of food on it.
