Financial Cripples.
They were taking the visitor from up-state around Manhattan, showing him the sights. The big automobile rolled past many wonderful buildings, all of which the host pointed out with some feelings of civic pride. At last they chanced to pass by the Municipal Lodging house.

"What's that place?" asked the rural visitor.
"Oh, that's one of New York's home for cripples," was the reply.
"What kind of cripples?" was asked.
"Financial," was the reply, as the car sped on.—New York Herald.

Severely Witty.
"Henry," remarked Mrs. Henry Peck, "we are going to have some company this evening, and I do wish you would brighten up and look less like an honorary pallbearer. Say something humorous."

The company came, and with a few preliminary coughs and winks, which were intended to announce to his wife that the witticism was about to be perpetrated, Henry said timidly:
"Mary."
"Yes, dear, what is it?" asked Mrs. Peck expectantly.
"Have you got all of your hair on this evening?"—Boston Globe.

NO WORDS WASTED
A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point and is convincing.
"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum.
"The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was.
"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in Pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

IMMENSE NEW IRON ORE FIELD

Deposits of 1,000,000,000 Tons of Best Kind of Mineral

IN THE BLUE RIDGE RANGE

Ayr Township, Fulton County, Place of Discovery That May Revolutionize Metal Industry of State—Limestone and Water Near.

Pittsburgh.—An immense deposit of the highest grade iron ore, conservatively estimated at more than one billion tons, has been found in the heart of Pennsylvania. The mother lode of red hematite ore, which scientists for many years have believed to be hidden somewhere in Southern Pennsylvania, has been located, almost at the door of the largest steel and iron industries in the world. It is claimed by geologists and engineers who have made an investigation that it is the most startling discovery since the finding of gold in 1849, and is destined to mark a new era in the steel and iron industry of this country.

The deposit is located in Ayr Township, Fulton County, in three spurs of the Blue Ridge Mountains, known as Meadow Ground Mountain, Lowry's Knob and Dickie Mountain, one hundred miles from Baltimore, two hundred miles from Philadelphia and two hundred and forty miles by rail from Pittsburgh. The most remarkable thing about it is the fact that there are three kinds of ore—red hematite, estimated at more than 250,000,000 tons; brown hematite in about the same quantity, and carbonate of iron to the extent of more than half a billion tons. Near by are immense deposits of the best limestone and an ample supply of water. Thus everything for the manufacture of iron is on the ground except coal, and that is only a few miles distant.

Not less interesting is the story of the discovery and how it was made. The accidental finding and the quiet way in which the ground was surveyed and tested rival the strangest fiction.

J. N. Crossland, of New Florence, Penn., a mining engineer and geologist of thirty years' experience, was led to enter Fulton County last fall in the hope that he might be able to find an extension of the Broad Top coal vein, and while prospecting he came across a strange geological formation in what is known as Meadow Mountain. Becoming interested, he began to investigate, and soon came upon nodules of ore, known to geologists as "iron ore float," and after careful investigation reached the conclusion that there were valuable deposits of iron ore in the mountain and vicinity. In summing up his findings the engineer says:

"It is not a disseminated body of ore, but an immense mass of iron ore, with the dross burned out. It consists of hundreds of millions of tons not excelled by any ore mined in the United States to-day in high percentage of metallic iron, and in its purity is a true Bessemer ore."

More than fifty assays have been made from samples taken from as many different places by eminent chemists, including the chemist of the University of Pittsburgh, showing an average of metallic iron ranging from 57 to 63 per cent. A number of leading geologists of the country, among them Henry C. Demming, State Geologist of Pennsylvania, have been on the ground, and several of them declare the find to be the greatest find of all time.

State Factory Inspector Suggests Exclusion of Bandits.

STUDY OF THE WAGE EARNERS

Male Employes of Industrial Establishments Last Year Numbered 716,332, Females Numbered 202,625—Many Minors Dismissed.

(Special Harrisburg Correspondence.)

Harrisburg.—John C. Delaney, Chief Factory Inspector, devotes a chapter of his report for 1911 to Governor Tener, to theatres and picture shows. Outside of cities of the first and second classes, over which his department does not have jurisdiction in the matter of places of amusement, 210 theatres and 526 moving picture shows were inspected. Fire-escapes were ordered erected on six places and 107 others were directed to furnish better means for egress and safeguards against fires. In referring to the accident through panic in the moving-picture show at Canonsburg, Chief Delaney says it was the result of a needless panic caused by someone shouting fire, when there was no fire. The law had been complied with in the matter of construction and fire-escapes. In discussing this subject Chief Delaney says: "The Legislature of 1911 very wisely put a Legislative ban on all theatrical and other public entertainments lascivious in their intent or calculated to arouse irreverence for things sacred. The next Legislature should place a ban on shows filled with murderous cowboys and impossible Indians, no admittance to shows of boys and girls under 14 years unless accompanied by adults, and the absolute exclusion of children in arms."

Army of Toilers.

The male employes in industrial establishments in the State last year numbered 716,332; female employes, 202,625; males between 14 and 16 years, 15,163; females between 14 and 16 years, 15,930; minors dismissed, 824; minors dismissed for want of proper affidavits as to age and education, 806; dismissed for illiteracy, 18. Total number of male employes in all industries inspected, 753,737; female employes, 242,067; number of buildings in which fire-escapes and other safeguards were supplied, by direction of this department, 395; machinery guards ordered installed in 2,794 places; boiler inspections, 19,921. During the year there were 11 prosecutions brought for infringement of the laws and 10 persons were convicted.

Decrease in Industry.

The returns for the year indicate a decrease in the industrial activities of establishments where iron and steel are the products. These show a decrease of 22,526 employes. Textile industries show an increase of 2285 employes. New places of this kind to the number of 270 were inspected. None of these are of the sweat-shop variety. Notwithstanding the increase in the number of establishments inspected the aggregate of employes was 7901 less than for the year 1910. This is accounted for by the great falling off of business.

A long chapter is devoted to the subject of compensation for accidents and the hope is expressed that the New Jersey plan for compensation for injuries, or something akin to that, will be adopted in this State.

For Protection of Fish.

A campaign of education with the object of securing the cooperation of the public in halting violations of the fish laws and the pollution of streams, will be inaugurated by State fish wardens, under the direction of Commissioner Nathan B. Butler. The commissioner held a conference with the wardens, and assigned to each one a district, impressing on them the fact that they were not only to maintain the laws, but to use every effort to bring manufacturers to a realization of their duty to the public to prevent pollution of the streams. In addition, the department has been promised the aid of the State police in preventing violations of the laws after the opening of the fishing season.

State Debt Nears End.

State bonds amounting to $7,500 were redeemed this week, and among them were $500 worth of the 3-1-2 per cent. bonds of the issue of 1882, leaving but $50 outstanding of the issue of $28,250. It is expected that all of the bonds upon which the State is paying interest, with the exception of $500,000 worth issued for State College some years ago, will be redeemed this year.

Predicts Wheat Crop Shortage.

After having visited a number of the counties in the southern and western sections of the State, Dr. H. A. Surface, the State economic zoologist, expressed the fear that the wheat crop will again fall far short of the average, owing to the severity of the winter and the absence of snow at the time of the remarkable drop in temperature during January.

Last year the wheat crop fell short, owing to the depredations of the Hessian fly, which was worse than known in a decade.

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfigurement, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

The dear little office-boy had been detected in a lie. It was not one of the ordinary prevarications of the everyday world, and, moreover, to make the crime more grievous, he had persisted in adhering to his original mendacious statement.
