

Practical Education

Few people who have not visited a modern agricultural college realize how much equipment is required to give practical education; to provide actual, daily practice in the art of Butter making, Cheese making, Ice Cream making, Milk Testing, Preparation of Starters and the more scientific work of Testing, which the modern creameryman must do. The Dairy Husbandry Department of the Pennsylvania State College is buying the milk and cream from 2.5 farms, within hauling distance of the College. This material sold, in the various dairy products, for $70,000 this year which was paid to the farmers after deducting the necessary expense of manufacture. This large amount of milk and cream makes it possible at any time of the year to furnish material for class work, cream for practice with factory size churns; milk for separation with hand or factory size separators; cream for ice cream making, eight or ten ice cream freezers going at a time; milk for cheese making while the milk from a grade Guernsey herd owned by the College is bottled and retailed in the town.

Not only is there an adequate supply of material but the Collage laboratories contain all the latest machinery with which to practice and the instructors are men who, when the students are not in the laboratory, can take right hold and turn out a thousand pound churning of butter, a batch of ice cream or a vat of cheese.

Young men who are now earning a laborer's income with their hands and want to increase their earning power by training their heads to direct their hands in more skilled work may find a Winter Course at the Pennsylvania State College Dairy School, which opens December 4 and closes February 28, an easy way to add from five to ten dollars a month to their income the first year, and it may be the stepping stone to a position that would pay from $900 to $1500 a year, as he acquires experience and skill in his chosen work.

Any of our readers may secure complete information relative to this or the Farm Dairy Course, to be given at the same time, from Professor H. E. Van Norman, State College, Pa.

BREAKING AWAY FROM TRUTH

Two Opinions With Respect to a False Statement Minister Admits He Made.

A curiously interesting question of ethics has arisen over the failure of a minister to secure employment for an erring but repentant woman until she was a woman of good character. He had often been on the point of getting for her the work she needed in order to make an honest living and to regain the moral equilibrium which had been disturbed by her wrongdoing. But as soon as the minister, in his devotion to the strict letter of the truth, admitted that the woman had sinned, the doors of honest living were closed in her face, the "unco' good" people who were in a position to lend a helping hand refusing to run the risk of "contamination," unwilling to follow the example of Him who said to another erring woman: "Go and sin no more."

Now a rather lively local discussion has arisen as to whether the minister was justified under the circumstances or whether anybody is ever justified under any circumstances, in telling a lie. Perhaps few will deny that if this minister really lied at all he strained the truth in a good cause and that the imposition practiced upon those who refused to give to another the chance of reform which they themselves would have welcomed in their own cases was intended to serve a humane purpose. All who are inclined to take an ultra conservative view of the infallibility of truth might ponder the splendid words of Dickens when he wrote Tom Pinch and the lie that he did only good to another human being:

"There are some falsehoods, Tom, on which men mount, as on bright wings, to heaven. There are truths cold, bitter, taunting truths, that bind men down to earth. Who would not rather have to fan him in his dying hour the lightest feather of a falsehood such as thine, than all the quills plucked from the sharp porcupine's revengeful truth, since Time began?"—Kansas City Journal.

JUDGE STILL HAS THE $50

Condition Competitors Did Not Seem to Notice Went With Offer of Prize.

The walking craze of a few years ago gave a well-known sporting man an opportunity which he could not resist taking advantage of. He had hand bills widely distributed on which was stated:

"A Great Crosby gentleman will give $50 to the man, woman or child who first succeeds in doing the following task: To walk from the Pierhead (Liverpool) to Crosby village. There each competitor must buy a meat pie and walk around the Big Stone and eat it."

About a hundred entries were received, and the walk took place on Whit Monday. Much excitement prevailed and a great cheer rose as a local pedestrian was seen leading the rest of the crowd. His meat pie was soon eaten as he walked round the stone, and he went to the judge for the $50.

"Why," exclaimed the judge, "I didn't think you could have done it. The stone seemed too hard to eat."

"What's that go to do with it?" asked the ped.

"Everything to do with it," answered the judge, "and nobody gets the $50 till they do."—London Tit-Bits.

Mother Kangaroo's Bravery.

During a severe drought in a certain section of Australia, the owner of a country station was sitting one evening on the porch when he saw a kangaroo lingering about, alternately approaching and retreating from the house, as if half in doubt and fear what to do.

At length she approached the water pails, and, taking a young one from her pouch, held it to the water to drink.

While her baby was satisfying its thirst the mother was quivering all over with apprehension, for she was but a few feet from the porch where one of her foes was watching her.

The baby having finished drinking it was replaced in the pouch and the old kangaroo set off at a rapid pace. The spectator was so much impressed by the astonishing bravery of the affectionate mother that he made a vow—and kept it—never again to shoot a kangaroo.

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once-a-day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtides, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.

Diamonds in a Rat's Nest.

Seven years ago Mrs. Charles De-long lost trace of two diamond earrings valued at $200. Carpenters, remodeling the house, found the jewels in a partition where rats had a nest. Incidentally, an apology was made to a servant who had been indirectly accused of the theft.—Milwaukee Journal.

Real Cause of Quarrel.

The people we dislike and avoid are no more sinners than we are ourselves. Our quarrel is often with their manners, opinions, tempers, rather than with their actual deeds.—Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick.
