Detective in Car Captures Robber

Milton, Sept. 23.—In an effort to capture the persons responsible for numerous car robberies on the Shamokin division of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Shamokin and Milton, which have been occurring recently, James Schlegel, a railroad detective, was locked in a box car between this place and West Milton, Saturday. Early yesterday morning three men broke into the car, and the detective immediately gave chase to them, capturing one of the trio in a nearby corn field. He was turned over to the local police, who identified him as Charles Miller.

BOOK REST FOR THE TABLE

Useful to Prop Up Newspaper and Make its Reading Somewhat More Comfortable.

The propping up of a newspaper or book at breakfast time, with the hot water jug or some other article, is a very common habit but a rather unsatisfactory one, as it is a difficult matter to secure the book or paper in position, and often it slips down, or possibly, the article which is acting as support may be required, and this means an interruption which is not always agreeable, especially so when the time for reading is perhaps very limited.

For making the simple table book-rest shown in the accompanying sketch, no knowledge of carpentry is necessary, as it merely consists of three pieces of wood joined together with nails or screws and a loop of elastic fastened across the front under which the book or paper may be slipped and held in its place. About twelve inches in length and nine or ten inches in height, is a good size in which to carry it out, and this should be the measurement of the front piece of wood, and the side pieces must, of course, be cut to correspond.

When the woodwork has been constructed it is an easy matter to cover it with silk or cretonne or any remnant of material that may be handy, which should be stretched evenly across and fastened on at the back with tiny tacks or some strong adhesive.

FORECAST THE WINTER HAT

From the Outlook the Designs Are to Be Less Simple Than Those of the Present.

As the days get shorter, they get more and more sultry, in the absence of any clear sunshine, but the fall hat pursues its relentless course towards a winter ideal, writes a Paris correspondent. You really require courage to put your head out of doors in a smart French watering place, with a straw hat pinned to your hair. The French milliner utterly taboo even a Panama, and white felt, dark plush and such like cosy materials are forced upon her unwilling clients. But as the season advances, the hat grows less and less simple. One seen at the riding trials at Dinard this week was a round and close-fitting hat, in a kind of white panne, that was irregular enough in surface to take all manner of lights upon it. This had for trimming the plumage of two birds of Paradise in the gorgeous natural copper tint that we seldom see. As you may imagine, it was costly enough to be suitable at the smartest functions, and will probably be seen at Aix-les-Bains.

Fashion's Fancies

Soft felle silk and silk and wool collennas are returning to fashion.

Extremely smart little frocks for children are trimmed with cross stitch. A tendency toward the old-fashioned square cut, low necked gown is noticeable in many of the models.

For the seaside the ratine jacket is fashionable and serviceable. The reefers with white collar and cuffs are as popular as ever.

The Russian effect in blouses is quite new and becoming, and may be made in all over embroidery, combined with flet lace.

Soft rose, palest blue, and delicate lilacs are favorite blendings in panter frocks.

With white costumes, white boots or white pumps are worn, although the novelty pumps in combination of black and white are good.

Dainty scarfs are an absolute necessity. They are of changeable chiffon cloth in rainbow tones, and are two and a half yards long and a yard wide.

How to Be Graceful.

If you want to be graceful, don't look at your feet, but hold your head up in the air. Don't shuffle. A little thoughtfulness and practice in high stepping soon breaks you of this ugly habit. Don't bend your back at the waist under the impression that you are thereby working erect. It throws the stomach forward and is almost as inimical to grace as round shoulders. Finally, don't allow yourself to walk "pigeon-toed"—that is, with the toes turned in or straight. You can never be graceful in movements while you do.

Smart Coat and Skirt.

Even in plain coats and skirts there is a fancy for certain forms of trimming, or the introduction of another fabric of contrasting color to obtain the requisite variations. One very charming coat and skirt was composed of the fashionable lemon shade of crash linen, with revers of black and white galatea, which form a pointed cape collar at the back. A narrow strip of the galatea outlines the basque of the coat and appears as a panel let in to the skirt from the under-petticoat.

The Hungry Bullfrog.

"Did you ever know that the bullfrog was carnivorous, or, in other words, a cannibal?" said Nick Gilbert, one of the operators at the electrical bureau. "I never did until several years ago, when it was demonstrated almost before my very eyes. I have been interested in fish culture for years and have made a study of their habits. So that I could study them at closer range, I built a big aquarium in my yard, one that held 650 gallons, and along with a fine collection of fish I stocked it with seven fine big bullfrogs.

"The sparrows used to drink water from the edge of the aquarium and this day, while my wife was looking on, one of the frogs leaped up, caught the sparrow and took it beneath the water. I could hardly believe that a frog would attack and vanquish such a fighter as the English sparrow is known to be, so in the interest of science I emptied the aquarium, and sure enough, down in the bottom was the sparrow. The frog had taken him down below, but either could not swallow him or else did not have the time. Following that I began to miss some valuable Japanese fantails, and, after removing all the frogs but one, waited until I missed another fish, when I killed Mr. Frog and found that he was the robber. Before that I believed the fish had been stolen by cats. The bullfrog is aggressive and can take his own part any time."

Lopping Off the Ends.

Robert Henri, the noted artist, was talking at a dinner in New York about the over-finished and banal work of painters of the Bouguereau type.

"Leighton, the English Bouguereau, met Whistler," said Mr. Henri, "one day in Piccadilly. The two men sauntered through the Burlington Arcade talking art."

"But, my dear Whistler," said Leighton, "you leave your work so rough, so sketchy! My dear Whistler, why do you never finish?"

"Whistler screwed his glass into his eye and gave a fendish laugh. "My dear Leighton," he said, "why do you ever begin?"

These Times.

Ex-Governor Pennypacker, discussing the divorce evil in Philadelphia, said with a smile:

"In these times one never, as the saying goes, knows where one is at. An acquaintance of mine extended his hand to me at the Historical society the other day and cried:

"Congratulations! I am the happiest man alive!"

"I looked at him doubtfully. "Engaged, married or divorced?" I asked."

Time to Quit.

"The kentry is going plumb to pot." "See here, Peleg. If you don't stop going around with such a long face, the barber is going to charge you extra for shaving you."

Still Unexplored.

All the opportunities for adventure are not over, though the north and south poles have both been conquered. In Africa there are 20,000,000 square miles of land as yet unexplored. In Liberia a tract of 20,000 square miles which is unknown.

Honest good humor is the oil and wine of a merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather small and the laughter abundant.—Washington Irving.
