

I. CLINTON KLINE THE PEOPLES CANDI- DATE FOR CONGRESS

From Sunbury Daily Item

That I. Clinton Kline, attorney-at-law, is the people's candidate for Congress there is no doubt. Their faith was evinced by the majority they gave him at the nominating primaries. This majority was 1015, and was a big compliment. Sunbury, his home town, gave him 662, to 103 for his opponent.

Mr. Kline was born at Mt. Pleasant, Upper Augusta township, Northumberland county, and is a son of Herman G., and Mary B. Kline. His father was a school teacher and farmer, who died in his eighty-fourth year, honored and respected. His mother is in her ninety-second year and is in good health. She was a daughter of Luther Bassett, deceased, and was born in Rush township, Northumberland county.

Everybody knows the Kline family and all speak well of its members. They are descended from Herman Kline, who immigrated from his home country to America in the early part of the eighteenth century, and settled in New Jersey. In 1799 three of his sons came to Pennsylvania, two of them settling in the Fishing Creek valley, in Columbia county, and the other at the present site of Klimesgrove, Northumberland county, which bears his name to this day.

I. Clinton Kline, the People's candidate for Congress, spent his early years on his father's farm and learned to do all kinds of farm work. At the age of thirteen years he went to Catawissa, Columbia county, where he lived a year with his eldest brother, Dr. L. B. Kline, who is one of the most prominent medical practitioners in Central Pennsylvania. During his stay there he attended the public schools.

Returning to the farm he remained until he was seventeen years of age, when he entered Bloomsburg Normal School, remaining one year. During the next five years he taught in the public schools, spending several short terms at preparatory schools. The last year as a teacher he was principal of the First Ward Schools of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. He could have continued as a teacher in the schools of that big city, but decided that it would be to his advantage to enter college. Accordingly he declined the position.

Following his resolve not to again teach school, he entered Lafayette College, where he was afterward graduated, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and later, the degree of Master of Arts. This college course was not completed in direct succession as most college courses are. The reason is that Mr. Kline was taken seriously ill, and it was a long time before he could resume his studies.

In 1893 he was admitted to the bar of Northumberland county, having been a student of the Hon. J. B. Packer, now deceased. Everybody knows that Mr. Packer was a great lawyer, and to win a place at the bar under his training was a mark of merit. Since his admission Mr. Kline has continuously practiced law in Sunbury, and has been admitted to practice in the Superior and Supreme Courts of Pennsylvania.

His standing as a lawyer is very high. He is thorough in preparing his cases and always puts his best effort, in behalf of his client, into anything that he undertakes. His fellow-lawyers speak of him as a well-trained, brilliant and able man, and one of the really good attorneys practicing at the bar. When he takes a case it is known that it will be handled in a manner that shows ability and thoroughness.

A brilliant and polished orator, his services have always been in demand as a public speaker. He has answered many calls to speak memorial day, fourth of July and other occasions. He has also delivered many educational addresses, among them being commencement addresses at Central Pennsylvania College, Susquehanna University and Lafayette College.

In his home town of Sunbury, Mr. Kline is held in the highest esteem as a citizen, a lawyer and a man. His fellow citizens, who know him best, are proud to call him their friend. His word is as good as his bond and the people know it. I. Clinton Kline is that kind of a man which any town would be proud to have as a resident.

He is the peoples' candidate.

Hunters Born, Not Made.

A hunter is born, not made. Unless a man has the love of the chase bred in his blood he's not going to get any blue ribbons pinned on him for sportsmanship. Some men take to the trail as naturally as a duck beats it to the puddle after cracking the eggshell. Then there are others who never seem to learn the game—they think they like to hunt but when you get them into the tall and unnumbered, they prove to be misfits who are eternally doing the wrong thing at the inopportune time.—National Sportsman.

Where He Belonged.

At the dinner table on board an ocean liner one man was much annoyed by the vulgar manner in which his next neighbor fed. He tried to take no notice of the man, but after watching him pick a bone in an extremely primitive fashion, he could not control his feelings any longer, and turning to the offender, he said: "Don't you really think you would be more comfortable if you took that bone out on the mat?"—Youth's Companion.

Home Life of the Birds.

Unlike most birds, the grebes do not brood their eggs continually. It is only at night and on cloudy days that you will find them at home. As soon as the sun has risen and warmed the chilly morning air the old bird leaves her nest and, collecting decaying vegetation from the shore or bottom of the lake, she covers the eggs with a thick layer and leaves the sweltering mass of streaming muck to hatch them while she spends the day in idleness or play.

Aviator Has Close Call.

A Spanish aviator nearly lost his life by colliding with a swarm of locusts. He was flying at a height of sixty feet, when he ran into the swarm, which so blinded him that he lost control of the machine and fell to the ground. It was regarded as remarkable that he escaped without injuries.

House Plans Important.

The care of food in the home and all other forms of household work are greatly facilitated by right planning and then the use of suitable materials for the construction and furnishing of the home. An adequate and convenient water supply and other conveniences are essential, not only for comfort and for saving labor, but also from the standpoint of home hygiene.

Japan's National Drink.

Sake is the national alcoholic drink of Japan. It is brewed from rice, and according to the latest available figures the annual production is about 210,000,000 gallons. Beer is becoming popular, however, and there are several large breweries, the total annual output being over 7,000,000 gallons.

Filting With Fame.

"Why do you insist on nibbling around that hook?" said the wise fish. "You know the danger." "Yes," replied the little fellow; "but we all have a certain appetite for glory. I am willing to take a chance for the sake of being described to that man's friends as the big fish that got away."

Up-to-Date Burglars.

Burglars who forced an entrance into a jeweler's office in New York a few days ago carried with them an electrically driven drill for boring into the safe, which they proceeded to use successfully after connecting it with an electric light socket.

Was a Dandy Story.

"He invented a dandy story to tell his wife when he got home after midnight." "Good one, was it?" "A peach; it would satisfy any woman." "Did it satisfy her?" "It would 've, but he couldn't tell it."

Only a Burden.

"You have no magnificent ruins such as we have in Europe." "No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "I thought of putting up a few, but I gave it up. They're mighty artistic looking, but they're too hard to keep in repair."

Queues and Hair Supply.

Consul General Anderson, stationed at Hongkong, has recently taken pains to correct the widespread impression that the growing tendency on the part of Chinamen to dispense with their queues will have the effect of making false hair cheap. It appears that the queues when cut are never sold, but are always preserved for burial with the owner. Mr. Anderson says that this is an absolute rule throughout South China, as well as in all other parts of the country from which he has been able to secure information on the subject.

New Violins and Old.

A contest took place in Paris which seems to vindicate the contention that modern violins are as good in tone as those of ancient make. A number of violins were played in a dark room, and at the end a vote was taken from the musical audience present, with the result, says a Paris correspondent, that the finest violin was judged to be a Belgian instrument dated 1912; the second was a French 1911 violin, and not until the third came a Stradivarius, valued at more than £3,000.

The Heathen in His Blindness.

An Indian went hunting one day for deer. After tramping through the woods for some hours he came across a herd and managed to kill one. He shouldered it and started for market, which was some five miles away. Now of course, the longer he walked the heavier the deer got, and by the time he reached the deer market he was about all in. He hung the deer on the scales and stood looking at it with wonder. Finally he said to the man: "Ugh! Let him hang a while."
