THE EMINENT DIVINE'S SUNPAY DISCOURSE.

Subject: Lay Hold of Christ-The Helpfulness of Religion in Fighting Life's Battle-Be Bold For the Right and Trust in the Son of God.

(Copyright, Louis Riopsch. 1820.) WASHINGTON, D. C.-Hu this discourse Dr. Washington, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage employs a very hold figure of the Bible to bring out the helpfulness of re-ligion for all those in any kind of struggie. The text is leadsh xxr., 11, "He shall spread forth his hands in the milest of them, as he that swimmeth spreadeth for the his hands." In the summer season multitudes of peo-ple wade into the ponds and lakes and rivers and seas to dive or float or swim. In a world the most of which is water all men and women should learn to swim. Some of you have learned the side stroke intro-duced by George Pewters in 1850, each stroke of that kind carrying the swimmer a distance of six feet, and some of you may use the overnand stroke invented by Gar-dener, the expert who by it won the 500 you'd championship in Manchester in 1852, the swimmer by that stroke carrying the and in the air for a more lengthened reach, and not served.

the swimmer by that stroke carrying his arm in the air for a more lengthened reach, and some of you may tread the water as though you had been made to walk the sea, but most of you usually take what is call-ed the breast stroke, placing the hands with the backs upward, about five inches under the water, the in-ide of the wrists touching the breast, then pushing the arms forward coincident with the stroke of the feel struck out to the greatest width possible, and you thus unconsolocally illua-trate the meaning of my text. "He shall appead forth his innuke in the midst of them, as no that swimmeth appeadeth forth his bands to swim." ands to swim."

bands to swim." The fisherman seeks out unfrequented nooks. You stand all day on the bank of a river in the broiling suit and fing out your line and eatch nothing, while an ex-pert angler breaks through the jungle and goes by the shadow of the solitary rock and, in a place where no fisherman has been for ten years, throws out his line and comes home at night, his face shining and his basket full. I do not know why we ministers of the gospel need always be fishing in the same stream and proaching from the same texts that other people Ishing in the same stream and proaching from the same texts that other people preach from, I cannot understand the policy of the minister who in Blackfriars, London, England, every week for thirty years preached from the Epistic to the Hebrews. It is an exhibitation to me when I come across a theme which I feel no one cise has treated, and my text is one of that kind. There are paths in God's word that are well beaten by Christian feet. When men want to quote Scripture, they quote the old passages that every one has heard. When they want a chapter read, they read a chapter that all the other people have been reading, so that the church to day is ignorant of three-fourths of the Bible. of the Bible

Schlieh O'day is ignorant of three-fourths of the Bible. You go into the Louvre at Paris. You confine yourself to one corridor of that opulent gallery of palatings. As you come out your friend says to you, "Did you see that Rembrandt?" "No." "Did you see that thembrandt?" "No." "Did you see that Titian?" "No." "Did you see that Raph-aei?" "No." "Weil," says your friend. "then you did not see the Louvre." Now, my friends. I think we are too much apt to confine ourselves to one of the great corri-dors of Scripture truth, and so much so that there is not one person out of a mil-

This text represents God as a strong swimmer, striking out to push down iniq-ulty and save the souls of men. "He shall spread forth his hands in the midst of spread forth his hands in the midst of them, as he that swimmeth spreadeth forth his hands to swim." The figure is bold and many sided. midet of them, as he that swimmath spreadeth forth his hands to swim."
If you have ever watchad a swimmer, you notice that his whole body is brought into play. The arms are floxed, the hands drive the water back, the knees are active, the head is thrown back to escape strangulation, the will be body is in propulsion. And when Christ surang into the deep to any us He threw His entire nature into it—all His godhead. His omnipotence, head, heart, eyes, hands, feet. We were far out on the sea and so deep down in the waves and so far out from the shore that nothing whort of an entire God could save us. Christ leaped out for our rescue, saving, "Lo, I come to do thy will," and all the surface of the surface of heaven foared. He would go down under the waves and instead of saving others would Himself perish; but, putting His breast to the foam and shaking the surf from His locks. He came on and on until He is now within the reach of every one heave, within the reach of every one there, eye anniholent, heart, infinite, arm ownipotent, mighty to save, would him and the surface of heaven and shaking the surf from His locks. He came on and on until He is now within the reach of every one here, eye anniholent, heart infinite, arm ownipotent, mighty to save, would him and the surface of the surface of heaven foared He would heaven and shaking the surf from His locks. He came on the surface of heaven be and on until He is now within the reach of a function. even unto the uttermost.

On, it was not half a God that trampled down bellowing Gennessnet; it was not a quarter of a God that mastered the de-mons of Gadara; it was not two-thirds of a God that lifted up Lazarus into the arms of his overjoyed sisters; it was not a frag-ment of a God who offered parion and penet to all the race. No. This mighty swimmer threw his grandeur, his glory, his might, his wisdom, his conupotence and his eternity into this one net. It took both hands of God to save us-both feet. How do I prove it? On the ernes were not both builds malled? On the cross were not both feet spiked? His online nature lavolved in our redemption! If you have lived much by the water, On, it was not half a God that trampled anture lavolved in our redemption! If you have lived much by the water, you notice also that if any one is going out to the rescue of the drowning he must be independent, self-reliant, able to go alone. There may be a time when he must spring out to save one, and he cannot get a life-boat, and if he goes out and has not strongth enough to bear himself up and bear another up he will sink, and instead of dragging one corpse out of the billows you will have two to drag out. When Christ sprang out into the sea to deliver us. He had no life buoy. His Father did not help Him. Alone in the wine press, alone on the magnith, alone in the sea! Oh, if He saves us He shall have all the credit, for "there mountain, alone in the seal Oh, if He saves us He shall have all the credit, for "there was none to help," no onr, no wing, no ladder! When Nathaniel Lyon fell in the battle charge in front of bis troops, he had a whole army to cheer him. When Marshal Ney sprang fato the contest and plunged in the spurs till the horse's flanks spurted blood, all France applauded him. But Jeaus alone! "Of the people there was none to help," "All forsook him and fied." Oh if was not a flotling that sailed down and heap. "All forsook him and hed." Oh, it was not a flotilla that sailed down and saved us. It was not a cluster of gondoias that came over the wave. It was one per-son, independent and alone, "spreading out His hands among us as a swimmer spreadeth forth his hands to swim."

Behold, then, the spectacle of a drown-ing soul and Christthe swimmert I belleve It was in 1848 when there were six English soldlers of the Fifth fusileers who were hanging to a capsized boat-as boat that had been upset by a squali three miles from shore. It was in the night, but one man swam mightly for the beach, guilded by the dark mountains that lifted their tops through the night. He came to the beach. He found a shoreman that concented to ro He found a shoreman that consented to go with him and save the other men, and they put out. It was some time before they could find the place where the men were, but after awhile they heard their ery, "Help, help!" and they bore down to them, and they saved them and brought them to shore. shore.

If you have been much by the water, you know very well that when one is in peril help must come very quickly, orit will be of no use. One minute may decide every-thing. Immediate help the man wants or no help at all. Now, that is just the kind of relief we want. The case is urgent, imminent, instantaneous. See that soul sinking! Son of God, lay hold of him. Be quick, be quick! Oh, I wish you all understood how urgent this gospel is. There was a man in the navy at sea who had been severely whilped for bad behavior, and he was maddened by it and leaped into the sea, and no sconer had he leaped into the sea than, quick as lightning, an albatross swooped upon him. The drowning man, brought to his senses, seized hold of the albatross and held on. The duttering of the bird kept him on the wave until relief could come. Would now that the dove of God's convicting, convert-ing and saving epirits might flash from the three upon your soul and that you, tak-If you have been much by the water, yo throne upon your soul and that you, tak-ing hold of its potent wing, might live and

Burgess Attempts Spielde.

Brooding over official difficulties, William E. Fought, Burgers of Carlible, attempted sulcide by swallowing a mixture of corrosive sublimate and spirits of turpentine. He entered the police station and swallowed about an ounce of the mixture. He then attempted to repeat the dose, but was prevented by Chief of Police Sheaffer, who wrested the Lottle from his hunds. Fought then became very ill from the effects of the polion, and for a time it was thought death would ensue. He still remains very ill. A short meeting of the Council was called, and the police force notified to make no future reports to the Burgess, but to have all hearings held before Justices of the Peace. Because of this he became despondent.

leaped from the deck of the Iussia, the Can-ard steamer, to save the life of a sailor who had failen overboard. No wonder the passengers subscribed for him a large re-ward and the Royal Humans Society of London decorated him with honors. A mighty swimmer was he, by the strength of his own arm and foot pushing through the waters from Blackwall pier to Graves-end pier, eighteen miles, and from Dover to Calais. 39 miles, where he crossed, yet he was drowned at last in our Magara's whiripool. But the strong swimmer of my text put out alons to swim a wrabiler sea and for vaster distance, even from world to world, to save us who were swamped in to world, to save us who were swamped in guilt and woe, and brought us to the shore of safety, although He at last wont down into the whirlpool of human and satanic rage. "He descended into hell!"

rage. "He descended into hell?" New modes have been invented for res-cuing a drowning body, but there has been no new invention for rescuing a drowning soul. In 1785 Lionei Lukia, a London coach builder, fitted up a Norway yawi as a lifeboat and called it the insubmergible, and that has been improved upon until from all the coasts of the round world per-lect lifeboats are ready to up out for the and that has been improved upon until from all the coasts of the round world per-fect lifeboats are ready to put out for the relief of marine disasters. In sixteen years the French Society For Saving Life From Supwreck saved 2129 lives. The Ger-man Association For the Rescue of Life From Shipwreek, the Royal Na-tion Lifeboat institution and our United States life saving service have done a work beyond the power of statistics to commemorate. What rocket lines and sling life buoys and taily boards and mortars and hammocks and cork mat-tresses and life saving stations filled with machinery for saving the bodies of the drowning! But let me here and now make it pian that there has been no new way in-vented for the moral and eternal rescue of a struggling soul. Five hundred attempts at such contrivance have been made, but all of them dead failures. Hear it! all of them dead failures. Hear it! "There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" than the name of Jesus.
