LESSON THOUGHTS.

Cur prayers are not answered because of any merit of ours, but when in humility of spirit we plead the merit of Jesus Christ.

"Prayer is thought winged with devotion." Not elegance of expression makes a good prayer, but earnestness and sincerity of heart.

Prayer for blessings upon others, unselfish prayers, will bring blessed joy upon us. SELECTIONS.

O thou by whom we come to God, The Life, the Truth, the Way, The path of prayer thyself hast trod; Lord, teach us how to pray.

Pleading the promises is the sinew and muscle of prayer. As we bring promissory noies to those who have signed them, so shall we bring the promises of Holy Scripture before the Lord, and entreat him to make good his word. Let us continually cry to him—Do as thou hast said.

If I lowly fall, And thus in faith I call, "Through Christ, O Lord, I pray thee give to me

Not what I would, but what seems best to thee,
Of life, of health, of service, and of
strength! strength:
Until to thy full joy I come at length."
My prayer shall then avail,
The blessings shall not fail.

A Story of Madame Patti.

A striking story comes to us anent the groom as he was in the act of Madame Patti, the renowned prima donna, which is characteristic of her geniality and kindness of heart. The incomparable singer was walking one and gone through all the forms which day in the neighborhood of her castle in Wales, when a sudden thirst afflicted her, and she called at a cottage to get a glass of new milk. When she had partaken of this wholesome refreshtle clearer at the financial end before ment she opened her purse to pay the cost. But the peasant woman raised ing he began the delivery of coal earher hand in gentle remonstrance and ly. It was a good day for business and said: "There is nothing to pay for the he caught onto a few dimes extra. The milk, but will madame kindly sing to us one of her sweet songs?" entered the humble home, lifted her magnificent voice, and sang, in her most superb style, "Home, Sweet driving leisurely along East street Home!" The astonished and delighted cottagers listened in raptures, and ping along the sidewalk. She had tendered the distinguished visitor their warmest thanks. Then from an inner apartment, came a feeble voice, pleading, "Please sing that again; it was heavenly!" "That is my daughter, who is dying of consumption," explained Harvey had a dollar to spare, and his the cottager, adding: "She is so fond of singing." Patti visited the sick girl, maxim through life had been never to let a good chance go by. He asked sang the song again to her, and gave Hattle how much time she had to her a sympathetic word also, Then she left. The milk had been paid for by melody for which many an eager uld have forfelted a thousand her to go to Squire Watson's office and pounds.

There is more Catarris in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Chengé & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucons surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. WHY HE SUCCEEDS. A Difference That Sometimes Baffles Detectives. "It is often difficult to see any difference between the men who succeed and those who fail," says a critic. A man may try to console himself with the unction that lies in the belief that it is all luck; that one man was born to be successful and another to fail. The average man cannot even deceive himself to that extent. He knows, generally, where the trouble is, Observe two men who apparently begin with equal advantages, with equal capital. Unless close attention was paid to their respective careers, you might not perceive the difference in them. One puts a little more rush into his work; he is never satisfied with accomplishing only so much as is expected of him. He is a little more accommodating to his patrons or those of his employer; he manifests more devotion to details; he is more prompt, is not afraid of getting to the office too early or of staying there too late. He makes a study of ways to improve his mind and enlarge his capacity for service, whether to his own direct betterment or indirectly, through having benefited his employers. Right here it might be well to consider the problem one moment from the employer's point of view. "He is utterly lost to gratitude for good service; utterly selfish,' you say. Granted-but it is fortunate for you that he is selfish. That gives you a point of attack. When you become so necessary to him that he will be suffering a loss by the discontinuance of your service you are in a position to demand a better position of bigger salary-and his selfishness will not permit him to allow you to go. Observe a different instance: A young lawyer who has just been admitted to the bar will go into a town where several before him have failed, and by energy and manly, business-like methods soon succeed in establishing a lucrative practice. Instead of sitting around the office, like some of his predecessors, with his feet upon a table, telling stories and chewing tobacco while waiting for clients, he spends his spare time in studying his law books and adding to his general information. He goes into society, gets acquainted with the people, is always on the lookout to improve any opportunity that comes in his way, and finally makes his way to the top of the ladder. SANDOW ON EXERCISE.

Says Dumbbell Practice, if Not Overdone Is the Proper Thing.

"Dumbbell prastice gives strength to every sinew, from the finger tips to the elbow, from the top of the head to the sole of the foot," Sandow, the streng man, said in a recent interview. "The young can be kept in perfect health, and older people are beloed and improved even when suffering any ailment which appears to them to be quite hopeless, but, of course, great care must be taken not to overdo the practising, and it is wiser to increase the number of movements very gradually and not on any account to get overtired at first," he advised. But he does state most emphatically that dumbbell exercises, taken in moderation, give grace and suppleness to the figure and that perfect ease to the carriage that comes from having the muscles under control. He makes a strong point of an easy beginning, which does not expect too much at first, but gains strength by degrees. Such exercise sends the blood through the veing with new life, which gives pleasure and joy to every individual.

Why Changes Are Needed.

Change of scene, change of occupation and frequent changes in furnishings and diet are all important at this season, and the time of rest may be secured from these changes even when an expensive outing, or the usual summer vacation, has not been afforded. No woman who has ever tried it can conceive of the rest and pleasure resulting from a change of some sort. Make such changes as are possible by rearranging rooms in the matter of furniture, pictures, ornaments, etc. Do something, anything, to rest the eye and brain from dead-level monotony. It is said that marked cases of insomnia have been cured by changing from one sleeping-room to another. The wise woman will also change her family dietary as completely as possible as the seasons change.-Pittsburg Dispatch.
