Another Treat In Store.

The appreciation shown for the two splendid flower pictures given free to readers of the great Philadelphia Sunday "Press" this year has led the publishers to provide a third great picture, which will be given free with every copy of next Sunday's "Press" (June 3). This picture, which is quite as attractive as the famous "Yard of Roses" and "Easter Lilies" pictures, is called "A Basket of Blossoms." It is by the famous Paul De Longpre, and is one of his best works. It is 20 by 28 inches in size and is also noteworthy as being the first example of a new method of color printing, which is quite as wonderful as the picture itself. The publishers guarantee that every picture will be perfect. There is certain to be a great demand for next Sunday's "Press," hence it will be well for all who want this picture to order their copy in advance.

Weather nice and vegetables growing.

Decoration Day is the main topic of conversation now. A big day is expected at Antioch.

Our young sports who staid with their girls till morning, expecting the total eclipse would afford darkness to get home in, were badly fooled.

Misses Francie and Effamy Gordon visited Katie and Pleasant Gordon last Sunday.

LAUREL RIDGE.

Dry weather, dusty roads, and weather prophets have furnished plenty of talk for the professional gossip during the last week or so. But today, judging from the fleecy curtains hanging between earth and heaven, we have good promises of inclement weather soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Clouser and Mary Shives made a flying trip to McConnellsburg last Saturday.

This morning, as the forenoon advanced, some of our people became restless for fear it might be too cloudy to observe the eclipse of the Sun. But, after patiently waiting for some time the clouds cleared away enough to give an ordinary view of the eclipse. As a total eclipse of the sun does not often occur, a few remarks here might interest some one.

During this century, eight times only has this interesting phenomenon of the sun been visible on the North American continent though nearly nine times that number have taken place during the last hundred years. The eclipse of the sun or moon is generally spoken of as a shadow cast over their surface but such is not true in every case. The eclipse of the sun this morning was caused by the moon passing directly between the earth and the sun. A total eclipse of the sun can only occur about the time of the new moon, and then, the moon must be directly between the earth and the sun. While a total eclipse of the moon can only occur near the time of the full moon; and then, only when the sun is on the opposite side of the earth from the moon. Then the shadow of the earth is cast upon the face of the moon. How many persons, especially young folks, while looking at the eclipse this morning, knew, or took time to think, that the face of the king of heat and light was as clear as it ever shone since the beginning. And that they were looking against the moon which was between them and the sun. Perhaps not every one took as much interest in preparing to view the eclipse to day as the writer did, but the knowledge gained has doubly repaid for all trouble gone to.
