LIFE'S FOREST TREES.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

The day grows brief: the afternoon is slanting Down to the west; there is no time to waste. If you have any seed of good for planting, You must, you must make haste.

Not as of old do you enjoy earth's pleasures.

The only joys that last are those w give;

Across the grave you cannot take gains, treasures, But good and kind deeds live.

I would not wait for any great achiev-

ment, You may not live to reach that faroff goal,

Speak soothing words to some heart in bereavement,

Aid some up-struggling soul.

Teach some weak life to surive for independence,

Reach out a hand to some one in sore need:

Though it seem idle, yet in their descendents

May blossom this chance seed.

On each life-path, like costly flowers faded

And cast away, are pleasures that are dead.

Good deeds, like trees, whereunder, fed and shaded. Souls yet unborn may tread.

A GERMAN SATIRE ON AMERI-CAN CHARACTER.

Under the title, "A Self-Made Man: A Story for Good Little Boys," appears in the St. Petersburger Zeitung (a German paper a satirical little sketch written ostensibly "for the American school reader," and hitting off American character as seen at that distance. The sketch runs in the main as follows:

"There was once a little boy and his name was Freddie. He did much for the entertainment of the neighborhood by tishing in other people's private ponds and picking other people's fruits.-When he was scolded for it, he would proudly say: "I am a free citizen of a free country." The neighbors wanted his father to whip him, but the father said he would not thus degrade a future President of the United States. Such things could be done only in enslaved Europe. And Freddie grew and prospered. He always attacked boys who were weaker than himself, beat them, and took away their pennies in the name of civilization and humanity. For in Freddie's veins ran strong and pure the undiluted blood of the noble Anglo-Saxon.

One day Freddie's father was told that his son had swindled a friend of the family with a bogus dollar, and had gotten 85 cents change. And the father was deeply moved, and said: "I always knew Freddie would some turned Freddie's pockets in-Freddie was placed with a wive

THE BICYCLE.

Do not wear tight clothing; the to godliness, therefore a virtue worthy of practice.

Do not eat too much. Each person can best determine for himself when that amount is reached. Dio Lewis says, "After all, it is not so much the quality as the quantity." Do not eat hot food, especially bread, and do not eat late at night.

Eat something within an hour after rising, if obliged to labor or study, or exposed to malaria or contagion. If possible eat in pure air and not too fast. Nothing is gained by bolting food, and China. much harm may follow.

Drink at close of meals, not too strong nor too hot; never a full glass of very hot or cold liquid to wash down food, as the saliva is wasted and stomach flooded.

Keep the body scrupulously clean; change clothing often worn next the skin, and do not economize in wash bills. Never sleep in clothing worn during the day.

Ventilation cannot be accomplished by simply letting the pure air in; the bad must be let out. If rooms, especially sleeping rooms, are not constructed on this plan, a little contriving will find a way.
