

Belfast.

The people of our vicinity are making good use of the snow. George B. Mellott and family, accompanied by Miss Ella Mellott and Ed Wink spent a very pleasant evening last week at the home of Mr. David Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Ahimaaz Runyan spent last Friday evening at Mr. David Evans'. Mr. Noah Mellott was visiting his brother near Harrisonville last week. The spelling school held at Cedar Lane was quite a success. Services at Needmore last Sunday were well attended. For the weakness and prostration following gripe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly. Trout's drug store.

Appeal for Help.

DEAR FRIENDS—I wish to ask you for a little help at this time. I have been in your midst for quite a while and have never asked for any help yet, but now I wish all that love the true Gospel to help me a little. As is well known to many of you, I have tried to get a church to hold meetings in, but they have been refused, and now I would ask the people of Fulton county to help me by donating lumber and money so that I can build a place where you can hear the old time gospel preached with the power of God's help. I call on those whom the Lord has given to give to his cause. I would like about 10,000 feet of lumber or enough to make that, and $100 which is a very small price for a church building. I am a carpenter and shall oversee the building myself. Now take your stand by truth and right and help worthy cause. I would like to have any who feel disposed to give lumber or money to give me notice and I will call on you and then show you my plan of the building, and you can put down what you will give to a worthy cause. I wish to say that any one wish to see my papers of authority can call on me and I will gladly show them. Yours for the Bible line of Salvation,
REV. W. W. BLOSSOM,
Saluvia, Pa.

Reports show a greatly increased death rate from throat and lung troubles, due to the prevalence of croup, pneumonia and gripe. Don't be discouraged, farmers, if the valuation on your property has been raised out of sight this year. Horses and cattle have never brought such prices as within the past few weeks. After half an hour of exciting bidding, a Hereford cow was knocked down to Jesse Adams at a sale in Kansas the other day for $3,700; and on Tuesday evening of last week W. C. Whitney, bought a horse in New York for $60,000.

Some of the finest sugar mills in the world, costing $1,000,000 each, are found in Hawaii, and there are planters in the islands who produce $800 worth of sugar and $500 worth of rice to the acre.

A curious idea has just been put in operation in Berlin. Arrangements have been made whereby parents of the poorer classes in the city and country may temporarily exchange their children, in order that the city children may learn something of country life and profit physically by their outings, while the country children may secure the liberal education which town life affords. Thus far the scheme has worked smoothly.

SICKROOM SUGGESTIONS.

How to Care For Invalids—What to Do For Sudden Illness.

In sudden illness those who attend the sick are too much inclined to try stimulants, especially brandy. It is a principle of first aid to the injured that when there is bleeding, even when fainting has ensued, alcohol should never be given, for it causes increased heart action, with a consequent increased loss of blood. This is particularly important to remember in cases of bleeding from the lungs.

When a person faints, he should be laid flat on his back, and all articles of clothing that appear tight should be loosened. Fresh air should be admitted to the room, smelling salts or hartshorn should be applied to the nostrils and the face and head bathed with cold water. If neither salts nor hartshorn can be found, a smoldering rag will often revive the patient. When the person has regained consciousness, if the fainting was not accompanied by bleeding or the result of bleeding, then a small quantity of brandy or other alcoholic stimulant may be safely administered.

Many doctors still encourage the use of the old-fashioned mustard plasters or the flaxseed and bread and milk poultices of our grandmothers' time. When a mustard plaster or a hot poultice is removed, it is important to dry the parts quickly and cover with flannel or cotton wool. This is to prevent cold from exposure.

The sickroom should be a large and airy apartment. The windows must be opened as much as the room can be darkened when necessary. Often the glare of too much light in a large room is as depressing to a patient as the stuffiness of a small one. Once a day the patient should be well wrapped up and the room aired, no matter what the weather may be. Rugs are better than carpets and a good matting better than either. Bent wood or wicker furniture is preferable to that which is upholstered.

How to Make Soda Milk Biscuits.

One quart of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sour milk and sour cream mixed or not, one teaspoonful of soda, one tablespoonful of lard. Sift the flour, salt and soda twice, rub in lard; then mix with the sour milk and add cold water if not wet enough to mix rather soft. These are better if not kneaded, but spooned out.

How to Care For Windows.

If paint or putty discolors the margin of the glass of windows, dissolve some crude bicarbonate of potash in hot water and saturate the paint adhering to the glass. Allow it to remain on until it is nearly dry, then remove it with a wooden cloth. Having removed the grime from the glass, a mixture made from the following ingredients will give glazing results: One ounce each of olive oil, ammonia and water and two ounces of lime. This will make a paste. The paste is to be smeared over the glass and the window cleaned in the usual way with warm water and the customary clean clothes and leathers. When the labor of the paste is considered too great, dry whiting may be used with very satisfactory results.

How to Make Plain Biscuits.

Three cups of flour, one pinch of salt, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of lard; mix with milk. Bake 15 minutes in a quick oven. Sift flour, salt and baking powder.

How to Make Macaroons.

Blanch a quarter of a pound of almonds, cut them in thin shreds and lay them on a plate in the oven to dry. Put in a bowl half pound of castor sugar, make a hole in the center and drop in the white of one egg. Stir around till well mixed and quite smooth. Beat another white of egg till quite solid, stir this to the sugar, add the shreds of almonds and drop the mixture on to sheets of buttered or oiled paper in the shape of macaroons and bake in a moderate oven till a nice golden color.

How to Make Orange Cream Pie.

Beat thoroughly the yolks of two eggs with one-half cupful of sugar; add one heaping tablespoonful of flour; one even tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in milk. Pour into one pint of boiling milk and let it cook about three minutes. Let it cool, and flavor with orange extract and pour into a baked crust. Beat the whites of the eggs in a stiff froth, add two heaping tablespoonfuls of confectioner's sugar, spread on top, and brown it slightly.

How to Make Apple Pancake.

Make a plain, thin batter of eggs, flour and milk, and pour into a hot, buttered frying pan, hot enough to begin the baking at once. As soon as the batter spreads out cover with a layer of stewed apples, not too juicy, and dredge with powdered sugar and cinnamon. Put the pan into a hot oven and bake for eight or ten minutes, or until well done. Cut the cake into triangular pieces and serve hot.

How to Make French Toast.

When you are at your wits' end for a tempting luncheon dish, try French toast, which is a novelty in many homes. Beat one egg in shallow dish, add a teaspoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt and one cup of milk. Soak six slices of stale bread in this; drain and brown them on each side on a well buttered griddle. Spread them with jelly or marmalade, pile them lightly on a dish and serve at once.

How to Fry.

If the fat begins to froth when you are frying fish or croquettes, the temperature is too low. Finish cooking what is already in the pan and reheat the fat till a blue smoke rises from it before putting in any more.
