

As the Pagans Did.
 "There'll be big bargains at that fire sale to-day," remarked Mrs. Schoppen at breakfast. "I think I'll run down there."
 "The ideal!" exclaimed her husband.
 "How paganish!"
 "What's paganish?"
 "Why, participating in burnt sacrifices."

City Father's Advantage.
 "That there farm," said the driver, "on the off-side belongs to a fellow in town that runs it for his health."
 "How does he get along?" asked the drummer.
 "Oh, 'bout well," the rest of us; only he don't loze to buy no gold bricks to come out here, like we do."

WOMEN MUST SLEEP.

Avoid Nervous Prostration.

If you are dangerously sick what is the first duty of your physician? He quiets the nervous system, he deadens the pain, and you sleep well.
 Friends ask, "what is the cause?" and the answer comes in pitting tones, nervous prostration. It came upon you so quietly in the beginning, that you were not alarmed, and when sleep deserted you night after night until your eyes fairly burned in the darkness, then you tossed in nervous agony praying for sleep.

Mrs. A. Hartley.

You ought to have known that when you ceased to be regular in your courses, and you grew irritable without cause, that there was serious trouble somewhere.
 You ought to know that indigestion, a haemorrhoid, womb displacements, fainting, dizziness, headache, and backache send the nerves wild with affliction, and you cannot sleep.
 Mrs. Hartley, of 221 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill., whose portrait we publish, suffered all these agonies, and was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her case should be a warning to others, and her cure carry conviction to the minds of every suffering woman of the unfailing efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hard and Stony Land.
 She was on the witness stand in her own behalf, being also defendant in the action. She was a sturdy widow, hard-working, shrewd in a deal and garrulous. A landlord was suing for back rent on a little farm she had abandoned.
 "You say that the land was hard and sour and sterile?" suggested the attorney for the plaintiff.
 "That's what I said, only I wasn't so pessimistic about it, and I'll say more—just a moment, please. We want evidence, not opinions. Did you want anything on this land of ours?"
 "Land of ours!" with a sniff. "You never owned a thimbleful of it. Yes, I did raise things on it. It took two hills of corn to raise a bean and a whole row of corn to raise a nubbun. I raised a cabin, I raised a pigeon, and I tried to raise a goat, but it starved to death, poor thing. That ground wouldn't raise dog fennel or even Canada thistles."
 "Don't exaggerate, please. You say the soil was sour?"
 "I couldn't exaggerate about that ground, it was a lawyer. In the morning when she was coming off in the sunshine, you'd think you was livin' next door to a pickle factory. I kept my sugar in an air-tight jar."
 "Pshaw! That's ridiculous. I suppose the ground was so hard you couldn't blast."
 "Nuthin' of the kind. I'm here to tell the truth. But I'll tell you how tall that ground was. I had to crop my set onions out with a hatchet, and a big gander I bought broke his neck trying to pull a tuft of spear grass." The landlord did not recover.

Mother Always Won.
 They are not exactly bad boys, these two in a certain East Memphis family, but they are invariably quarreling and fighting with each other. Probably it was the fact of frequent parental intervention that caused a few pauses in hostilities. At any rate, they are rather famous in their neighborhood.
 One day not long since one of the neighbors, who was fond of contests of any kind, asked:
 "Edwin, when you and your brother fight so much, who generally whips?"
 Edwin gave a little wriggle as if in sympathy with memories of recent occurrences, and said, resignedly: "Mother."

The Hat-Planned Burglar.
 One of the most inspiring figures of the new century is that of the merry, merry maiden who tumbled a burglar to the floor, sat upon him for half an hour to hold him for the police, and made him tractable by jabbing him with a big hatpin whenever he squirmed. Within the hand of "plump and pretty blondes" the pin is mightier than the club.

New Use for Necktie.
 "While I was over in the Arkansas mountains last winter on a hunting trip my guide and I came across a sugar maple orchard where two men were collecting and boiling down the sap," said a Memphis man.
 "As we sat around with the natives awhile and ate maple sugar. When we started to leave one of the men, who had been regarding my tie very closely, asked the guide, in a low voice, why I wore that rag around my neck."
 "That's to keep his nose from bleeding," replied the guide, who was a man of some humor.
 "As we walked away I heard the natives telling each other how sorry they felt for me on account of my affliction."

What Did She Mean?
 "Well, good-night," said Mr. Boreen finally breaking away. "I've had a most enjoyable evening. Er—by the way, I expect to pass your house to-morrow evening and I thought I might—"
 "I'll be delighted," said she quickly.
 "Good-night."

The rose in the cheek of Christ—that of the Roman senate ascribed to Jesus—that rose had scattered its petals. Abstinence from food had thrown Him into emaciation.

A long abstinence from food recorded in profane history is that of the crew of the ship Juno. For twenty-three days they had nothing to eat but water and they had fasted a month and ten days before he broke fast. Hunger must have agonized every fiber of the body and gnawed on the redemption, but at that moment of your gladness you sank back again into the world and back again into sin. Today we come with the gospel searching for your soul. We are not of Christ first to see whether there is any life left in you, while all around the people are seeking to see whether the work will be done, but the angels of God bend down and witness, and, oh, if now we could see only one spark of love and hope and faith, we would send up a shout that would be heard on the battlements of heaven, and two worlds would keep jubilee because communication is open between Christ and the soul and your nature that has been smitten in sin is being lifted into the light and the joy of the gospel.

A Teacher's Predicament.
 A few weeks ago a noted minister went to one of the local railroad stations to meet a friend, says a Cleveland paper. Upon entering the station and looking around he saw an elegantly dressed woman, who apparently was about to board a train.

She was carrying a number of parcels in her arms, and besides had with her three or four children that with great diffidence she was trying to help along. The clergyman approached the lady and offered his assistance, which she accepted, afterward thanking him very graciously for the kindness. The train moved out of sight, and he went on his way thinking of the endless opportunities one has for doing good, when all at once he discovered that he was carrying a beautiful silk umbrella with pearl and gold trimmings. The reverend gentleman, now enduring distress of mind, found that the victim of his absent-mindedness may some day discover him in the pulpit.

I bless God that the same coat of mail that struck back the weapons of temptation from the head of Christ we may now all wear, for Jesus comes and says: "I have been tempted, and I know what it is to be tempted. Take this robe that I defended Me and wear it for yourselves. I shall see you through all trials, and I shall see Satan still farther to Jesus, 'come, and I will show you something worth looking at, and after a half day's journey we came to Jerusalem and to the top of the temple, that as one might go up in the tower Antwerp and look off upon Belgium, so Satan brought Christ to the top of the temple. Some people at a great height of temptation are in a state of great dizziness and a strange disposition to be dizzy and faint comes to Christ in that very crisis. Standing there at the top of the temple, they look off. Standing there at the top of the temple, they look off. A magnificent reach of country, Grandfields, vineyards, olive groves, forests and streams, cattle in the valley, flocks on the hills and villages and cities and now realms."
 "But," says Satan still farther to Jesus, "come, and I will show you something worth looking at, and after a half day's journey we came to Jerusalem and to the top of the temple, that as one might go up in the tower Antwerp and look off upon Belgium, so Satan brought Christ to the top of the temple. Some people at a great height of temptation are in a state of great dizziness and a strange disposition to be dizzy and faint comes to Christ in that very crisis. Standing there at the top of the temple, they look off. A magnificent reach of country, Grandfields, vineyards, olive groves, forests and streams, cattle in the valley, flocks on the hills and villages and cities and now realms."
