Mr. John Nesbit of Ayr township took his son Harvey to a hospital in Philadelphia on Wednesday morning. For some time Harvey has had a growth making its appearance in his left side, and his physician here advised that he be taken to the city for treatment.

Our young friend George M. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Robinson of this place graduates this spring at the Medical Department of the Columbian University, Washington, D. C. The class is having its Commencement exercises at the New National Theatre, in that city on Monday evening 29th inst.

Prof. M. A. Drum, a classmate of Prof. Ernest Gross and a member of the faculty of the Cumberland Valley State Normal School, delivered the address to the High School graduates Tuesday evening. Prof. Drum is a bright young man, and his address was very much appreciated, not only by the graduates, but by the large audience as well.

An Annoying Custom.

Last Thursday evening witnessed a repetition of those scenes for which McConnellsburg is gaining a reputation; namely, of a gang of children and half grown boys gathering at the home where a wedding is occurring, and behaving themselves in such an outrageous manner as would land every one of them in the lock-up in any other town in the State.

It is quite time for the custom to be discontinued. The mob that stormed Mrs. Trout's residence when Dr. Smith brought his wife to town, although nearly a month had elapsed since their marriage; or that which tormented the families with whom Geo. Sloan was spending the evening when he and his wife visited this place last fall, are fresh in the minds of the residents of Water Street.

Members of the gang do not hesitate to get on the porches, open the shutters, hoist the sash, destroy curtains and blinds, and use language that is by no means complimentary to the hostess or her guests.

There would be less objection to the custom, if the boys would go in a respectful way. They would then receive their treat, and they could go away. No one in that case would be annoyed; but now, demands are made impudently, and, it not infrequently—indeed, generally—happens, that after being generously treated they go away for a time, and then return with ten-fold more fury than before, and they must be bought off again and again.

The treat usually includes a box of cigars, and then there is a scramble as to which shall get the greatest number. Might it not be just as well for the children, if the cigars be omitted? They will learn to use tobacco soon enough.

Parents would do well to give this matter some thought; you may have a wedding at your house some day and then the mob business will not be funny, besides, we have some of the best girls in this town that ever swallowed a buckwheat cake. We do not have many young men, and what we have would rather go with one suspender button, undarned socks and die old bachelors than to have a wedding in McConnellsburg and undergo the ordeal of running up against that gang of small boys. And the stranger from afar who comes here and is attracted by the beauty, grace and accomplishments of our girls, just as he is about to propose, hears of the way the boys behave at weddings, and he "folds his tent and silently steals away."

Webster Mills.

Our miller, W. H. Duffey, has just completed a handsome paling fence around his front yard. The creamery is running every day now. Mrs. G. W. Skinner and daughter Miss Mary, spent a few days at Big Cove Tannery last week. Jacob Mellott of Jurgtown was in this place last Thursday. Rev. Wolf of McConnellsburg preached in the Lutheran church near this place last Thursday and Friday evenings.

A number of the progressive farmers of the Cove are using patent corn planters this season. Dr. Sappington has arrived with a fine Virginia saddle-horse. W. H. Duffy made a hurried trip to Chambersburg last week where he purchased a new corn crusher for his mill. While chopping corn several days ago, he threw some corn into the hopper, amongst which was a large iron burr which broke his old crusher.

Last Wednesday while some men were engaged in repairing the "Hunter Road" leading across the Cove Mountain, Elmer Daries, a colored boy, was digging earth away from an immense boulder partially imbedded in the bank on the upper side of the road. One of the other workers happening to glance in that direction, saw the stone moving, and warned the boy, just in time to save him from being crushed beneath its tremendous weight.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25 cent W. S. Dickson's drug store.

"A Danger Foreseen Is Half Averted."

If you are in business and don't advertise you are in danger.

This is a warning. See your mistake in time and avert it.

A poor publisher, the proprietor of a struggling magazine, sent a half inch advertisement to the New York Herald. The ad man made it a half page. The bill was bigger than the publisher's entire possessions. He thought he was ruined.

It was the turning point. The magazine sold. It was good and people liked it. Other half page ads followed. Result: fortune, fame, honor.

Advertising is just as potent a lever now as it was then.

This paper reaches the homes of this section.
