There is a whole sermon in the parlance of the day, "get busy"—that is, get to doing something; get to work; be a doer of the word and not a hearer only. A dozen synonyms will suggest themselves for the colloquialism, yet it has, perhaps, a pregnancy of meaning and a rugged force which none of them only duplicates, as is often the courte duplicates, as is often the courte duplicates. quite duplicates, as is often the case with the living speech of the people, as compared with the dead speech of

"Get busy" is the gospel of to-day. The man who does not get busy is distanced from the start. The stress of competition, the cager pursuit of wealth competition, ine cager parsa; and advancement, leave no chance for the man who idles his chances away. We have at something; even if it is the man who idles his clean if it is the busy at something; even if it is not quite what you like, do the best you not quite what you herer things. But not dute what you hee, do the best you can, and hope for better things. But while you are hoping, do not stop working. Get busy—keep busy.

Talmage Draws Lessons From Gambling Crazes Which Have Swept Over the World.

Integrity and Villainy in Wall Street-Money Is a Gold Brensted Bird With Silver Benk.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage arraigns the spirit of wild speculation and gives some account of the financial ruin of other days; Proverbs xxiii, 5, "Riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven."

Money is a gold breasted bird with

toward heaven."

Money is a gold breasted bird with silver beak. It alights on the office desk or in the counting room or on the parlor centre table. Men and women stand and admire it. They do not notice that it has wings larger than a raven's, larger than a flamingo's, larger than an eagle's. One wave of the hand of misfortune, and it spreads its beautiful plumage and is gone, "as an eagle toward heaven," my textbook says, though sometimes I think it goes in the other direction.

heaven, my textbook says, though sometimes I think it goes in the other direction.

What a verification we have had of the flying capacity of riches in Wall Street! And Wall Street is one of the longest streets in all the world. It does not begin at the foot of Trinity Church, New York, and end at the East River, as many suppose. It reaches through all our American cities and across the seas. Encouraged by the revival of trade and by the fact that Wall Street disasters of other years were so far back as to be forgotten, speculators run up the stocks from point to point until innocent people on the outside suppose that the stocks would always continue to ascend. They gather in from all parts of the country. Large sums of money are taken into Wall Street and small sums of money. The crash comes, thank God, in time to warn off a great many who were on their way thither, for the sadness of the thing is that a great many of the young men of our cities who save a little money for the purpose of starting themselves in business and who have $500 or $1000 or $2000 or $100,000 go into Wall Street and lose all. And if there was a time for the pulpit to speak out in regard to certain kinds of nefarious enterprises now is the time.

Stocks rose and fell, and now they

Stocks rose and fell, and now they begin to rise again, and they will fail again until thousands of young men will be ruined unless the printing press and the pulpit give emphatic utterance. My counsel is to countrymen, so far as they may hear of this discourse, if they have surplus, to invest it in first mortgages and in moneyed institutions which, though paying comparatively small interest, are sound and safe beyond dispute, and to stand clear of the Wall Street vortex, where so many have been swamped and swallowed. What a compliment it is to the healthy condition of our country that these recent disasters have in no wise depressed trade! I thank God that Wall Street's capacity to blast this country has gone forever.

Across the island of New York in 1685 a wall made of stone and earth and cannon mounted was built to keep off the savages. Along by that wall a street was laid out, and as the street followed the line of the wall it was appropriately called Wall Street. It is narrow, it is unique. Excepting Lombard street, London, it is the mightiest street on this planet. There the Government of the United States was born. There Washington held his levees. There Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Knox and other brilliant women of the Revolution displayed their charms. There Witherson and Jonathan Edwards and George Whitefield sometimes preached. There negroes were sold in the slave mart. There criminals were harnessed to wheelbarrows and, like beasts of burden, compelled to draw or were lashed through the streets belimd carts to which they were fastened. There fortunes have come to coronation or burial since the day when reckless speculators in powdered heir and silver shoe buckles dodged Dugan, the Governor-General of fils Majecty, clear down to vesterday at 3 o'clock. The history of Wall Street is to a certain extent the financial, commercial, agreultural, mining, literary, artistic moral for the silver were and the their level stone of value and the bankers would be sounded when have only a few hundred do sponses in all the land have come from Wall Street.

But, while that street is a type of tried integrity on one hand, it is also a type of unbounded swindle on the other. There are the spiders that wait for innocent flies; there are the crocodiles that crawl up through the alime to cranch the call; there are the anacondas, with lifted-loop, ready to crush the unwary; there are hanacial wreckers who stand on the beach praying for a Caribbean whirlwind to sweep over our commercial interests. Let me say it is no place for a man to go into business unless his moral principle is thoroughly settled. That is no place for a man to go into business who does not know when he is everpaid $5 by mistake whether he had better take it back or not; that is no place for a man to go who has large funds in trust and who is all the time tempted to speculate with them; that is no place for a man to go who does not quite know whether the laws of the State forbid usury or patronize it. Oh, how many men have risked themselves in the vortex and gone down for the simple reason their integrity had not been thoroughly established! Remember poor Ketcham—how soon the flying hoofs of his iron grays clattered with him to his destruction; remember poor Gev, at thirty years of age, astonishing the world with his fortunes and his foreveres: remember that innous man poor (sev, at thirty years of age, aston-ishing the world with his fortunes and his forgeries; remember that famous man whose steamboat and whose opera houses could not atone for his notorious rides through Central Park in the face of decent New York and whose behavior on Wall Street by its example has blasted tens of thousands of young men of this generation.

and did not allow the Hons to hurt niel, and He will not allow the "bears" hurt you. Remember, my friend,

Daniel, and He will not allow the "bears" to hurt you. Remember, my friend, that all these scenes of business will soon have passed away, and by the law of God's eternal right all the affairs of your business life will be adjudicated. Honesty pays best for both worlds.

Again, I have to remark that Wall Street is a type throughout the country of legitimate speculation on the one hand and of ruinous gambling on the other. Almost every merchant is to some extent a speculator. He depends not only upon the difference between the wholesale price at which he disposes of them; but also upon the fluctuation of the markets. If the markets greatly sink, he greatly losses. It is as honest to deal in stocks as to deal in iron or coal or hardware or dry goods. He who condemns all stock dealings as though they were iniquitous simply shows his own ignorance. Stop all legitimate aspeculation in this country, and you stop all banks, you stop all factories, you stop all stock his country.

Sedate England took its chance in 1720. That was the South Sea bubble. They proposed to transfer all the gold of Peru and Mexico and the islands of the sea to England. Five milhons' worth of shares were put on the market at £300 a share. The books open, in a few days it is all taken and twice the amount subscribed.

Excitement following excitement until

it is all taken and twice the amount subscribed.

Excitement following excitement until all kinds of gambling projects came forth under the wing of this South Sea enterprise. There was a large company formed with great capital for providing funerals for all parts of the land. Another company with large capital—£5,000,000 capital—to develop a wheel in perpetual motion; another company, with a capital of £4,000,000 to insure people against loss by servants; another company, with £2,500,000 capital, to transplant walnut trees from Virginia to England; then, to cap the climax, a company was formed for "a great undertaking—nobody to know what it is." And, lo, £600,000 in shares were offered at £100 a share; books were opened at 9 o'clock in the morning and closed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the first day it was all subscribed. "A great undertaking—nobody to know what it is!"

An old magazine of those days describes the scene (Hunt's Magazine). It says: "From morning until evening Change alley was full to overflowing with
one dense, moving mass of living beings,
composed of the most incongruous materials and in all things save the mad pursuit whereof they were employed utterity opposite in their principles and feelings and far assunder in their stations in life and the professions they follow.
Statesmen and clergymen deserted their high stations to enter upon this great theatre of speculation and gambling.
Churchmen and dissenters left their fierce disputes and forgot their wranglings
upon church government in the deep and hazardous game they were playing for worldly treasures and for riches, which,
if gained, were liable to disappear within an hour of their creation. Whigs and Tories buried their weapons of political warfare, discarded party animosities and mingled together in kind and friendly intercourse, each exulting as their stocks advanced in price and grumbling when fortune frowned upon them. Lawyers, physicians, merchants and traveling men
forsook their employment, neglected their business, disregarded their engagements
to whirl along in the stream, to be at last engulfed in the wild sea of bankruptcy. Females mixed with the crowd, forgetting the station and employment
which nature had fitted them to adorn,
and dealt boldly and extensively and, like
those by whom they were surrounded,
rose from poverty to wealth, and from
twhich nature had fitted them to adorn,

stances and character were swallowed up."

But it was left for our own country to surpass it all about thirty-seven years ago. We have the highest mountains and the greatest cataracts and the longest rivers, and of course we had to have the largest swindle. One would have thought that the nation had seen enough in that direction during the morous multicaulis excitement, when almost every man had a bunch of crawling silkworms in his house, out of which he expected to make a fortune. But all this excitement was as nothing compared with what took a fortune. But all this excitement was as nothing compared with what took place in 1864, when a man near Titusville, Penn., digging a well, struck oil. Twelve hundred oil companies call for a billion of stock. Prominent members of churches, as soon as a certain amount of stock was assigned them, saw it was their privilege to become presidents or sccretaries or members of the board of direction. Some of these companies never had a foot of ground, never expected to have. Their entire equipment was a map of a region where oil might be and two vials of grease, crude and clarified. People rushed down from all parts of the country by the first train and put their hard earnings in the gulf.

A young man came down from the oil region of Pennsylvania utterly demented, having sold his farm at a fabulous price because it was supposed there might be oil there—coming to a hotel in Philadelphia at the time I was living there, throwing a $5000 check to pay for his noonday meal and saying he did not care anything about the change! Them he stopped back to the gas burner to light his eigar with a thousand dollar note. Utterly insane!

The good Christian people said, "This stepped back to the gas burner to light his cigar with a thousand dollar note. Utterly insane!

The good Christian people said, "This company must be all right, because Elder So-and-so is president of it, and Elder So-and-so is secretary of it, and then there are three or four highly respected professing Christians in the board of directors." They did not know that when a professed Christian goes into stock gambling he lies like sin. But alse for the country! It became a tragedy, and a thousand million dollars were swamped. There are families to-day sitting in the shadow of destitution who but for that great national outrage would have had their cottages and their homesteads. I hold up before the young men these four great stock gambling schemes that they may see to what length men will go smitten of this passion, and I want to show them how all the best interests of society are against it and God is against it and will condemn it for time and condemn it for ternity. I do not dwell upon the frenzied speculations in Wall Street last month. You have enough remembrance of that financial horror. I only want you to know that it was in a procession of monetary frenzies, some of which have passed and others are to come.

And we begin housekeeping side by side, Oh, promise me wherever we may roam That I shall do the marketing for home. All that we eat I certainly must choose, And I insist we LION COFFEE use,

I want it for its perfect purity.

"Oh, Promise Me."

So promise me-oh, promise me! Oh, promise me that for our comfort's sake, Each morning LION COFFEE I can make. And when the luncheon hour is near at hand Again I'll need a cup of LION brand. At night when you come home, my dear, to dine A cup of LION COFFEE must be mine; No brand can healthier or better be-So promise me-oh, promise me!

You know that LION COFFEE is not glazed-In millions of good homes 'tis often praised; 'Tis in the bean-the package weighs a pound; Inside, a Premium List is always found. And I will save the lion heads outside To earn the useful presents they provide. This is one pledge I will exact of thee-So promise me-oh, promise me!

WOOLSON SPICE CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

In every package of LION COFFEE you will find a fully illustrated and descriptive list. No housekeeper, in fact, no woman, man, boy or girl will fail to find in the list some article which will contribute to their happiness, comfort and convenience, and which they may have by simply cutting out a certain number of Lion Heads from the wrappers of our one pound sealed packages (which is the only form in which this excellent coffee is sold).

How Are Your Bowels?

About the first thing the doctor says--

Then, "Let's see your tongue." Because bad tongue and bad bowels go together. Regulate the bowels, clean up the tongue. We all know that this is the way to keep and look well.

You can't keep the bowels healthy and regular with purges or bird-shot pills. They move you with awful gripes, then you're worse than ever. Now what you want is Cascarets. Go and get them today--Cascarets--in metal box with the long-tailed "C" on the lid-cost 10c. Be sure you get the genuine! Cascarets are never sold in bulk. Take one! Eat it like candy, and it will work gently-while you It cures, that means it strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, gives them new Then they act regularly and naturally. That's what you want. It's guaranteed to
