The ladies were Misses Annie, tle Cove. These ladies had come over to McConnellsburg, Tuesday to get some deutal work done return Tuesday evening. Their horse becoming sick, they stayed all night with Mr. and Mrs. Wm." Myers east of town, and started home Wednesday morning. When below the Hunter road the horse became unmanageable, and began greatly frightened but did the horse into the bank on the upper ide of the road; but pulling the wrong line, we suspect, the horse was drawn to the lower side, where stands a chesnut tree. Several years ago a sprout shot out from a root of this tree and grew to be a stout sapling six or eight inches in diameter and only a few inches from the parent tree. It happened that as the horse was drawn to the lower side of the road, he attempted to kick again and his neck was wedged down so They buy on the representation George Metzler's. tightly that the horse could not move, and was in this position with one of his hind feet up over the crossbar of the buggy when Mr. Waddell came upon the scene.
