An Encouraging Trade Outlook. It was in the morning hours of "bake day" in the little out-of-the-way village. The mingled odors of fresh bread, pics, and cookies floated out of the open kitchen windows.

From one of the smaller cottages at the end of the street came a barefooted child in a colorless calico dress and slat sunbonnet. With the important air of a heavy buyer she entered the village store, and handed across the counter a blue teacup. The proprietor took the cup, and said, in brisk tones:

Well, Emmy, what does your want today? Please, sir, ma wants an egg's worth of molasses," and she carefully placed a large white egg on the counter.

From a stone jug a little molasses was poured, and the cup set before the cus-

And the buyer walked with dignity out the store door and up the village street to her home.—Harper's Magazine.

When He Was Twenty-One

There is a young criminal lawyer in the city who, on the occasion of his becoming of age, began the celebration of his birthday in a way that caused his household a great deal of consternation. On the eve on the fete, shortly after midnight, the young man's family were suddenly startled from their slumbers by a loud voice in the house calling. "There's a man in the house! There's man in the house! a man in the house!"

The valiant paterfamilias rushed from his room, bearing in his hands a heavy billet of fire wood, to learn the cause of the disturbance and to capture the intruder. His son was standing in the hall, shouting at the top of his voice. "Where's the man?" exclaimed the old gentleman. "Here, sir; here!" proudly replied the bung man. "This is he. At last I'm young man.

A Scandinavian woman from one of the range towns was undergoing examination as to her mental condition. Her husband, a wearened, inferior looking fellow, had told the story of his wife's condition, and she took in every word he said.

She was then interrogated and answered all the questions about herself and her children in a vague, rambling manner. Finally she protested that there was nothing the matter with her.

Dr. Talmage Says New Year Will Be One of the Greatest of All Time.

The World's Normal Condition Will Be Reformed.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this, Dr. Talmage's first discourse for the new year he speaks words of encouragement to all the timid and doubting. The text is Exodus xii, 2, "This month shall be unto you the beginning of months; it shall be the first month of the year to you."

The last month of the old year has passed out of sight, and the first month of the new years has arrived. The midnight gate last Wednesday opened and January entered. She deserves a better name, for she is called after Janus, the heathen deity who, they supposed, presided overdoors, and so might be expected to preside at the opening of the year. This month was of old called the wolf marth because, through the severity of its weather, the hungry wolves came down seeking food and devouring human life. In the missals of the middle ages January was represented as attired in white, suggestive of the snow, and blowing the fingers, as though suffering from the cold, and having a bundle of wood under the arm, suggestive of the warmt that must be kindled.

Yes, January is the open door of the year, and through that door will come what long processions, some of them bearing paim leaves and some myrtle, others with garlands of wheat and others with cypress and mistletoe. They are coming, and nothing can keep them back—the events of a twelvemonth. It will, I think, be one of the greatest years of all time. It will abound with blessing and disaster. National and international controversies of momentous import will be settled. Year of coronation and dethronement, year that will settle Cuban and Porto Rican and Philippine and South African and Chinese destinies. The tamest year for many a decade past has dug its millions of graves and reared its millions of marriage altars. We can expect greater events in this year than ever before, for the world's population has so vastly increased there are so many more than in any other year to laugh and weep and triumph and perish. The mightiver whee's of mechanism have such wider sweep. The fires are kindled in furnaces no

The front door of a stupendous year has The front door of a stupendous year has opened. Before many of you there will be twelve months of opportunity for making the world better or worse, happier or more miserable. Let us pray that it may be a year that will indicate the speedy redemption of the hemisphere. Would te God that this might be the year in which the three great instruments now chiefly used for secular purposes might be put to their mightiest use in the world's evangelization—the telegraph, the telephone, the phonograph. Electricity has such potent tongue, such strong arm, such swift wing, such lightning foot, that it occurs to me that it may be the angel that St. John saw and heard in apocalyptic vision when he started back and cried out, "I saw another angel flying in the midst of heaven having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth and to every nation and kindred and tongue and people."

They were tongues of fire that sat on the heads of the disciples at the Pentecost, and why not the world called to God by tongue of electric fire? Prepare your batteries and make ready to put upon the wires the world wide message of "whoso-ever will."

Furthermore, this month of January has the greatest height and depth of cold. The rivers are bound in crystal chains. The fountains that made highest leap in The rivers are bound in crystal chains. The fountains that made highest leap in the summer parks now toss not one jet, for every drop would be a frozen tear. The sleds craunch through the hard snow. Warmest attire the wardrobe can afford is put on that we may defend ourselves against the fury of the elements. Hardest of all the months for the poor, let it be the season of greatest generosity on the part of the prosperous. How much a scuttle of coal or a pair of shoes or a coat or a shawl may do in assuagement of suffering between the 1st of January and the 1st of February God only knows. Seated by our warm registers or wrapped in furs which make us independent of the cutting January blast, let us not forget the fireless hearth and the thin garments and the hacking cough and the rheumatic twinge of those who through destitution find life in winter an agony. Suppose each one of us take under charge one poverty-stricken household or one disabled man or one invalided woman. On our way home from such a charity, though the wind may be howling and the night tempestuous, I should not wonder if we could hear a voice that was heard on Galilee and at the gates of Nain and by the pool of Bethesda saying, "Inasmuch as ye did it to them, ye did it to Me."

Oh, the might of the cold! The arctic and antarctic invading the temperate zone!

Oh, the might of the cold! The arctic and antarctic invading the temperate zone! The victories of the frost—as when the Thames in 1205 became firm as any bridge and the inhabitants crossed and recrossed on the ice and hooths and places of temporary amusement were built on the hardened surface; as when many years ago New York Harbor was paved with ice so that the people passed on foot to the adjoining islands. But the full story of the cold will never be known. The lips which would have told it were frozen and the fingers that would have written it were benumbed. Only here and there a fact appears. In 1691 the cold was so terrife that the wolves entered Vienns. In 1668 it was so cold that wine was cut with hatchets and distributed among the soldiers. In 1234 a whole forest was killed by the cold at Ravenna. In 763 the Black Sea was frozen over. As we go further back the frosts are mightier, but as we come further down the frosts lessen.

The worst severities have been halted, and the snows have lost their depths, and the thermometers announce less terrific falls of temperature, and the time will come when the year will be one long summer of foliage and bloom. While the world's normal condition will be reformed, the worst climates will be corrected. You could not have a millennium with a January blast possible.

Do not go out and ask the trees hung with icicles by January storm whether they will ever again blossom in May and leaf in June. We are moving toward the world's redemption. The frozen tears will melt, the river of gladness will resume its flow, the crocus will come up at the edge of the snowbank, the morning star will open the door for the day, and the armies of the world are demption. The frozen tears will melt, the river of gladness will resume its flow, the crocus will come up at the edge of the snowbank, the morning star will open the door for the day, and the armies of the world are demption. the forces of God and the forces of Satan are now in combat, the heavens as well as the earth in stringle as to who shall win this world for blessedness or woe, and, as the armies of God are mightier than the armies diabolic, we know who will triumph, and we have a right to shout the victory through our Lord Jeaus Christ.

The King of Kings, the Lord of Hosts, the God of Joshua and Havelock, leads in the conflict. I have no fear about the tremendous issue. My only fear is that we will not be found in the ranks and fully armed to do our part in this campaign of the eternities.

armed to do our part in the eternities. Again, I remark that the month of Jan-Again, I remark that the most stupen-Again, I remark that the month of January has seen many of the most stupendous events in the world's history and a rocking of cradles and the digging of cradles and the digging of craves that have affected nations. In this month American Independence was declared, followed by Lexington and Bunker Hill and Monmouth and Valley Forge and Yorktown. January saw the proclamation that abolished American slavery. Though at the time there were two mighty opinions and they were exactly opposed—those who liked the document and those who disliked it—there is but one opinion now, and if it were put to vote in all the States of the South, "Shall slavery be reinstated?" there would be an overwhelming vote of "No!" The pen with which the document was signed and the inkstand that contained the ink are relies as sacred and valuable as the original Declaration of Independence, with all its crasures and interincations. The institution which for seventy or eighty years kept the nation in apery controversy has disconcered and incations. The institution which for seventy or eighty years kept the nation in angry controversy has disappeared, and nothing is left to fight about. The North and the South to-day are in as complete accord as ever were flute and cornet in the

and the south to-day are in a complete accord as ever were flute and cornet in the same orchestra.

The North has built its factories on the banks of the Chattahoochee and the Roanoke, and the South has sent many of its ables attorneys into our northern courthouses, its most skilful physicians into our sick rooms, its wisest bankers into our exchanges, its most consecrated ministers into our pulpits—all this the result of the proclamation of January I, 1863.

Furthermore, I notice that January has been honored with the nativity of some of the greatest among the nations. Edmund Burke was born this month, the marvel and glory of the legal world; Fenelon of the religious world, Benjamin Franklin of the philosophic world, William H. Prescott of the historic world, Sir John Moore of the military world, Robert Burns of the poetic world, Polycarp of the martyr world, Peter the Great of the kingly world. Daniel Webster of the statesman world.

But I cannot read the entirable of one out or the poetic world, Polycarp of the martyr world, Peter the Great of the kingly world, Daniel Webster of the statesman world.

But I cannot read the epitaphs of one out of a hundred illustrious graves in this first month of the year. Many of those well known gained half their renown and did half their work through the help of those of whom we known little or nothing. Lord Herschel is known all the world over and will be known through all time, but little is said of her who was born this first month of the year, and without whose help he never could have been what he was—his sister, Capoline Lucretia Augus-r. She helped him hunt the worlds. the repaired and adjusted his telescopes. She ciphered out his astronomical problems. She was his amanuensis. She planned for him his work. She discovered seven comets and made "A Catalogue of Nebulae and Star Clusters." The month of January introduced her to the observatories, but she has never been properly introduced to the world.

Cultivate faith in God and the feeling that He will do for you that which is best, and you will be ready for either sunshine or shadow. The other eleven months of the year 1902 will not all be made up of gladness or of grief. The cup that is all made up of sweetness is insipid.

Between these just opened gates of the year and the closing of those gates there will be many times when you will want God. You will have questions to decide which will need supernatural impulse. There may be illnesses of the body or perplexities of mind or spiritual exhaustions to be healed and comforted and strengthened. During the remaining twenty-six days of this month lay in a supply of faith and hope and courage for all the days of the eleven months. Start right, and you will be apt to keep right.

Before the ship captain gets out of the New York Narrows he makes up his mind what sea route he will take. While you are in the narrows of this month make up your mind which way you will sail and unroll your chart and set your compass and have the lifehoats well placed

Rev. Solomon Spaulding was for some time in poor health, and to while away the time he wrote a preposterous religious romance. One Joseph Smith somehow got hold of that book before it was printed and published it as a revelation of heaven, calling it the "Book of Mormon," and from that publication came Mormonism, the monster abomination of the earth.

and published it as a revelation of heaven, calling it the "Book of Mormon," and from that publication came Mormonism, the monster abomination of the earth. Rev. Solomon Spaulding might have been hetter engaged than writing that book of falsehoods. However much time we have, we never have time to do wrong. Harness January for usefulness, and it will take the following months in its train. Oh, how much you may do for God between now and the 31st of next December!

The beautiful "weeping willow" tree was introduced by Alexander Pope into England from a twig which the poet found in a Turkish basket of figs. He planted that twig, and from it came all the weeping willows of England and America, and your smallest planting of good many under God become an influence continental and international.

Now that the train of months has started, let it pass, January followed by February, with longer days, and March, with its fierce winds; and April, with its sudden showers; and May, with its lobssoming orchards; and July, with its havests; and August, with its sweltering leaves; and Getober, with its frosts; and November, with its Thanksgiving scenes; and December, with its Thanksgiving scenes; and December, with its frosts; and November, with its Thanksgiving scenes; and December, with its frosts; and have emptied into the ocean of eternity, but none of all of the host ought to render higher thanks to God or take larger comfort or make more magnificent resolve than this the first month of the new year.

But what fleet foot hath the months and years! People lightly talk about how they kill time. Alsa, it dies soon enough witheut killing. And the longer we live the swifter it goes. William C. Bryant said an old friend of his declared that the going of time is like the drumming of the partridge or muffled grouse in the woods, falling slow and distinct at first and then following each other more and more rapidity till they end at last in a whirring sound. But Dr. Young, speaking of the value of time, startlingly exclaimed, "Ask

1. "Day of Pentecost." The meaning of Pentecost is fiftieth. It occurred fifty days after the Passover, and was the second of the three great yearly leasts held by the Jews. "Was fully come." The disciples knew they were to receive a great blessing, but they did not know how or when, thus they did not know how or when, thus they were led to seek the Lord with all their bearts, trusting Him for the fulfilment of the promise. "All." The 120 spoken of in Chapter 1: 15. "With one accord." There was no person uninterested, unconcerned, or lukewarm; all were in earnest, and the Spirit of God came down to meet their united faith and prayer. "In one place." The apper room. Acts 1: 13. It is God's plan that His people should meet together in His mame (Heb. 10: 25: Matt. 18: 10, 20 and those who absent themselves from the company of the saints will suffer spiritual loss.

company of the saints will suffer spiritual loss.

2. "Suddenly." Unexpectedly, in a moment, not gradually, as winds generally rise. "A sound." The suddenness, strength and diffusiveness of the sound strike with deepest awe the whole company, and thus complete their preparation for the heavenly gift. Wind was a familiar emblem of the Spirit. Ezek. 37: 9; John 3: 9: 20: 22. But this was not a rush of actual wind. It was only a sound, "as of" it. "It filled all the house." The sound was heard by all. To an upper room the Spirit came, a plain unfurnished room, where there was no ritual, no priest, no burnt offerings, no swiell of incense.

3. "There anneared." After the audible sign immediately follows the visible, "Cloven tongues." The tongues of fire parted themselves off like streams from one source, or like branches and branches, like in the like and branches and burns up evil. 5. All the comfort, warmth, cheer, life, joy, blessing, which the Holy Spirit could impart. "It sat." There were as many flames as there were persons, and they sat upon them for some time to show the constant residence of the Holy Spirit on life, in the like stream from "Suddenly." Unexpectedly, in

5. "Develing." Both residents and visitors. "Devout." Truly religious. "Every nation." "The Jews at that time were scattered into almost all nations, and in all places had synagogues."

6. "When this sound was heard" (R. V.) The sound that came from the upner room. "Confounded." Perplexed, failing to understand what it all meant. See v. 12. "Own language." Or dialect; they heard even the different dialects. See v. 8.

9. "Parthians." For an explanation of the names in this and the following verses see dictionary.

10. "Proselvtes." Heathen who had accepted the Jewish religion.

11. "Wonderful works." Concerning Jesus, His death, resurrection and ascension, and His power to save men from sin.

12. "Amaxed." In great perplexity. "What meaneth this?" They could not understand what they saw.

13. "Others mocking." The word rendered mocking means to cavil, to deride. There has seldom been a remarkable manifestation of the power of the Holy Spirit that has not given occasion for profane mockery and merriment. The Saviour Himself was mocked, and the efforts of Christians to save others have been the subject of derision. "New wine." Sweet wine.

about to be spoken.

15. "Not drunken." We have not even been taking sweet wine. "Third hour." It is only 9 o'clock in the morning, too early to be affected with strong drink. This was also the hour of morning worship, and devout Jews were not accustomed to take food or drink before that time; even drunkards did not usually become drunk in the daytime.

16. "This is that." This is a fulfilment of the predictions of one of your own prophets. "Joel." See Joel 2: 28-32. Peter gives the sense, but does not quote the exact words.

17. "The last days." This expression always denotes in the New Testament the age of the Messiah, which the Scriptures reoresent as the world's last great moral epoch. The Christian dispensation. "Pour out." Not in drops as under the old covenant, but in streams which He shed on us abundantly. "All flesh." All races, ranks and classes. "Prophesy." This word denotes in general, to speak under a divine influence, whether in foretelling future events, in celebrating the uraises of God, or in instructing others in the duties of religion. See Paul's definition in 1 Cor. 14: 3. "Visions—dreams." These were some of the ways God chose to reveal Himself, more especially under the old covenant.

Sitting on the wide veranda to receive us we beheld the entire family. On the right of the door was the lady of the house in a white cotton gown, smoking a cigar; below her were the daughter and hand maidens, also smoking. On the other side of the door was the ranchero or master himself, with his sons and men servants, says Fortnightly Review. Every one was employed in rolling the tobacco leaf into cigars, and every one was smoking, including a little boy not quite three years old, who had a full-sized eigar in his baby mouth. which he puffed at most professionally while in his left hand he held a ba-nana from which he took bites between the puffs, occasionally stopping to play with a small puppy dog. "Does he often smoke?" I asked in amaze-ment. "Si, senor, he smokes three or four cigars a day; all our children have done so at that age." Adaptability of temperament to climate!

ANOTHER REMARKABLE CASE Which the Doctors Falled to Care or Un-

A medical man, as a rule, dislikes to a knowledge the value of a proprietary medicine. In fact, professional etiquette de-bars him from doing so. Yet there are many eminent physicians, those most ad-vanced in their professions, who give full credit to the great curative properties of Vogeler's Curative Compound from the fact that it is manufactured by an old and reliable company, proprietors of St. Jacobs Oil, from the formula of a brother physician, who to-day stands in the front ranks of the most eminent medical men in London, and on account of its intrinsic merit it is largely prescribed by the medical profession, but in the case which we are about to relate the attending physician called it "rubbish," but as it turned out Mrs. Nettleton tells the doctor that "rubbish or not, it saved her life."

Mrs. Nettleton graphically relates the particulars of her own case, which will doubtless be of interest to many of our lady readers:

"I had been an intense sufferer for many years from dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, when a little pamphlet was placed in my hands, and, although at that time I had been bedridden for more than six months, I determined, after reading some of the wonderful testimonials therein of cases similar to mine, which had been completely cured by the timely use of Vogeler's Curative Compound, to try some, especially as my doctors failed to even benefit me, and I had almost given up all hope of ever being well again. It is most interesting and, in fact, marvelous to relate, that the very first dose of fifteen drops relieved me. It was not long before I was able to get up and about; three months from taking the first dose I was enjoying better health than I had been for fourteen years. I continued well until a few months back, when I was taken ill again, my troubles being dyspepsia and constipa tion. I had a doctor attending me for month, but continued to grow worse, un-til I again found myself bedridden, when I bethought myself of my old medicine, Vogeler's Curative Compound, which immediately sent for and took in place of the doctor's medicine; at that time I had not had a movement of the bowels for five days, but Vogeler's Curative Compound soon put me on my feet again; in fact completely cured me a second time, but, of course, this attack was not as bad as the first, yet I fully believe I should not have been alive to-day had it not been for Vogeler's Curative Compound. If had only thought to have taken it when my last illness took place I should not only have been saved much suffering, but $75 doctor's bill." Mrs. Nettleton said: "I have recom mended Vogeler's Curative Compound for indigestion and eczema, and in every case it has proved a cure, beyond doubt. Mr. Swinbank, our chemist, has sent me the names of no end of people who have been cured by Vogeler's Curative Compound. By the way, the proprietors have so much confidence in this great London physician's discovery, that they will send a sample free to any person sending name and address, naming this paper." Mrs. Nettleton is a confectioner in the Brighton Road, where she has been established many years, and is honoured and respected by all classes. Her statements as regards Vogeler's Curative Compound may, herefore, be regarded as reliable evidence of its great value.

Makes an Important Statement of Interest to All Women.

DEAR MRS. PINKRAM: -The b est, intelligent physician is above the 'School.' Whatever is best in each case should be used, no matter to what school a physician belongs. I, as matter of conscience, can only pre-

DR WANATA, of Lansing, Mich.
scribe the best, and as I know and have proven that there is nothing in Materia Medica which equals Lydla E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female disorders, I unhesitatingly prescribe it, and have never yet been sorry. I know of nothing better for ovarian troubles and for falling of the womb or ulcerations; it absolutely restores the affected parts to their normal condition quicker and better than anything else. I have known it to cure barrenness in women, who to-day are happy mothers of children, and while the medical profession looks down upon 'patents,' I have learned, instead, to look-up to the healing potion, by whatever name it be known. If my fellow physicians dared tell the truth, hundreds of them would voice my sentiments."— Da. DR. WANATA, of Lansing, Mich. would voice my sentiments." - Da. WANATA, Lansing, Mich.

The record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cannot be equalled. Accept no substitute.
