

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

A Peep Into the Dressing Room of the Up to Date Woman.

An up to date woman's dressing room is a very paradise. In one corner is her bath, a deep marble affair flush with the ground and covered when not in use with a chin-chilla rug. In the other corner stands her dressing table of plain white laquered wood, with its crowd of bottles, scents, hairbrushes and jars. The mirror is three sided, so that a perfect view of the lady's coiffure may be obtained. But it is in the order of the cupboards around that we see true art. One door opens up a vista of shelves, on which stand all the boots and shoes, beginning with the satin and silk toys and ending with the dapper little riding boots. On one big shelf repose the hats, each on its own peg, making the place like some fair garden of flowers. On raised shelves are placed the fans, spread out so that at one glance they can be recognized and chosen. The shelves for linen are lined with white satin, and each dainty article is tied with its own pretty pale ribbon. The dresses that hang in their own wardrobe are each incased in a sheath of soft white holland, while the furs are laid reverently in a cedar chest. The fair mistress of this domain has her private telephone at her elbow, her masseuse beside her and her manicure at her fingers' ends.

Portrait Dinner Service.

First empire styles in china are being brought up to date in an interesting way on modern dinner tables. The fancy for Sevres porcelain services ornamented with portraits has been revived from the Napoleonic epoch. But the fashion has been modernized and not merely resuscitated. It is not authentic porcelain sets of the first empire period which are being sought after so much as the original productions of the present day, lately turned out by the Sevres factory, in which the style in question is renovated. These modern portrait services of dining table china are ornamented with likenesses of living persons, well known women being usually chosen in preference to men. One of the most curious of these new dinner services is for twelve covers and has a portrait of a different feminine celebrity of the Parisian stage on each plate and dish.

The Latest Cushions.

New cushions are intended to represent big composite blossoms. A red one is made of dark red linen and silk, with a little green. In the center there is a cluster of poppies worked upon the plain crash. The edge of this center square or top of the cushion is cut into tabs, which give something the appearance of petals, and these are bound with green. Around the sides of the cushion, coming out from below these petals, are puffs of red silk, with loops of green ribbon here and there. Another cushion has the center of a violet linen worked solidly with violets in different shades. The square lined top is finished around the edge in the same way, and below puffings of the violet silk with dark green ribbons appear.

Wrong Use of Soda.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it. We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily and one which is fraught with danger. Moreover, the soda only gives temporary relief, and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

A Pretty Blotting Pad.

A pretty blotter shows a photograph of the owner's country home as a central decoration of a large gray panel, around which lines of white are drawn for a finish. Below this is printed in artistic letters in white ink the following couplet: 'E'en copious Drayden wanted or forgot The last and greatest art, the art to blot. The blotting pad is attached to the back, and a ribbon fastened to the top permits the panel to be hung at the side of the desk when not in use.
