If You Want to Be Believed.

Don't contradict yourself. Once it you say you are right.

Don't be impudent toward the person whose favor you most wish to win.

Don't advertise anything for sale you don't possess it.

Don't believe that everybody in the world is against you.

Don't neglect that you have never had an opportunity in life.

Don't believe all the evil you hear.

Don't repeat gossip, even if it does interest a friend.

Don't go on credit on the plan that everybody knows you.

Don't be rude to your inferiors in social position.

Don't contradict or quibble.

Don't jest at anybody's personal affairs.

Don't laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine.

Learn to attend to your own business—first important point.

Don't try to be anything else but a gentleman, and that means one who has consideration for the whole world and whose life is governed by the golden rule. "Do unto others as you would be done by."

Investing in Lottery Tickets.

Daniel Doyle of Otterville, Iowa, writes, "I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures in the market and have received treatment from physicians in New York and other cities, but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without it in my home. I sincerely recommend it to all." All dealers.

Man, Woman and Love.

In his latest book Max O'Rell, the witty Frenchman, gives the following advice:

"If you are told seven times that you're a woman, value that you hear it only once. Never put your self in a false position. Never let your wife see you entirely alone on the left side of your house. A man's best character must be like a bicycle without a bell.

"Never let her see you sew buttons on your clothes—no, not even
