November Weather.

November is to be a month of torms and cold weather, varied ith occasional warm rains, acording to Rev. Irl R Hicks.

The first storm movements for the month will be central on the ard and 4th. On touching these days a rise in temperature, falling barometer, cloudiness and rain will pass eastwardly from western extremes to the Atlantic. The western and northern were not a useful sort of plaything sides of this and all storm areas at this season will most likely turn to snow, and as the high barometer pushes in from the northwest behind the storms, high, cold washtub, and you can get that easy weather will succeed. Actual storms of rain and snow, as well as the warm, fair weather before, and the cold, fair weather behind them, always pass, like great rail-the 7th to the 12th. This is a regular Vulcan period. As we enter well into this period a marked rain will move eastward from about the 9th to the 12th.

The anti-storm condition following the preceding period will shrine.-Musician. break down about the 15th and 16th, which are reactionary storm days. Touching the 15th and 16th ture and wide areas of renewed rain, turning to snow generally to northward, and will pass eastwardly from the far west over the country. Be on the watch, first stely quick. Cakes that have an adfor warmer, pleasant weather, then for cloudiness and rain, then for shifts of temptature and wind with snow, then for high barometer stiff northerly gales and cold clearing weather-not all at once but each in regular rotation.

One of the marked storm periods of the month falls in and near the center of a Mercury period. This Vulcan period covers the 19th to the 23rd. Be prepared at this time for all the progressive phenomena of a very active storm period. Low barometer and warmer will end in general rains, rains will lead to snow and sleet—look for sleet—snow and sleet will be attended and followed by a change amounting to come to its crisis about the 22nd around with the course a stiff mayand 23rd.

On and touching the 26th and 27th, the cloudy, unsettled weathor, resulting from the Mercury equinox, will grow into decided nutumnal storms of rain, wind and show. Let all outdoor work beingood shape for winter storms and weather before this time. Frosts and freezing will penetrate far luto the south, along with the high barometer behind these

How to Put the Attractive Glaze on Rolls and Loaves.

The glaze on Vienna rolls and bread is one of the reasons that this delicious breadstuff is so popular. A glaze on other breads also has frequently been desired. According to the statements of an authority on breadmaking, this glazed surface effect can only be produced by the admission of steam into the oven while baking. It is done this to give off sufficient steam to saturate the air in the oven. When the loaves are put in, they should be quite cool, and owing to their coolness a momentary condensation of steam is effected over the whole surface of the loaf. The steam coming in contact with the loaf renders soluble the starch on the outside surface, and as the water dries off leaves a soluble starch, a part of which has been converted into dextrin. This also serves the purpose of keeping the interior of the loaf moist by preventing the rapid evaporation.-Kitchen Magazine.

Practical Book Covers. I have discovered an easy way to prolong the life of paper bound vol-umes. With ordinary paste made from flour or starch paste a piece of calico or gingham to the paper cov-ers. The cloth should be in one piece just as the paper covering is. Dry under a weight to prevent curl-The paper covering is usually well glued to the back of the volume, but in use it soon breaks. The cloth prevents this. If the cloth used is in a plain color, it may be ornamented with a few stitches or strokes of the brush. This little discovery has given me much pleasure, because I need no longer be ashamed of the appearance presented by the cheap edition that I must often buy if I am to read a coveted book at all. And I can pass the book on to a friend without fearing that the first or last pages may be lost.—Good Housekeeping.

For the Amateur Laundress.

The woman who prefers to launder her own handkerchiefs and lace fixings rather than to trust to the vagaries of the average laundress or laundryman can now perform the task with appropriately sized machinery at least so far as the wringing of the dainty articles is concerned. A small wringer has just appeared, and at first glance it suggests a toy. A saleswoman when asked if the miniature contrivance replied indignantly: "No, indeed, madam. That is a wringer for handkerchiefs and any other little articles you like. How do you adjust it? Why, it will fit a little winds and freezing, clearing enough." This latest convenience for the amateur laundress costs a little over half a dollar.

Oven Temperature For Cake.

The correct temperature of the oven for various cake mixtures is low barometer, rising tempera- often a vexed question for the amateur cook. A cake which is made with butter needs a moderate oven; a cake made without butter wants a quick oven. For small cakes and cookies the oven should be modermixture of molasses burn more easily than others and should be watched closely. They require a moderate oven. If the cake browns quickly after going into the oven, there is too much heat. Remove a lid from the top of the stove or put into the oven a dish containing cold water.

If bouillon is not made a first course, it may be served jellied and with almon's as a salad course. It is particularly pretty when served in individual molds. The jelly is easily made from extract of beef, well seasoned, diluted with hot water and made into a delicate jelly with dissolved gelatin. A little is put in the bottom of the molds, and the almonds, blanched and cut into strips, are arranged in a pattern in the jelly before the molds are filled. When rendy to serve, turn out on a a cold wave. This period will bed of lettuce hearts and send
