Government Wants to Please Emperor William.

GERMANY FELT MUCH SLIGHTED.

Harsh Criticism in the German Press Which Expressed Indignation Because the European Squadron Had Been Ordered to Greet President Loubet at Marseilles After Declining a Number of Germany's Invitations.

Washington, D. C. (Special).-From the highest official quarters it is learned that the criticisms in a few German newspapers directed against a supposed declination of the Navy Department here to send an American naval squadron to Kiel this summer are based on a complete misunderstanding of the sitnation. The facts are explained as fol-

No set and formal invitation from the German government to send an American squadron to Kiel was ever re-

But through semiofficial channels intimations did reach Washington that the German Emperor would be pleased to have the North Atlantic Squadron stop at Kiel during the naval demonstration. Failing that, it was in the same informal way suggested that when Admiral Evans retired from his contmand in Asia and started to return to the United States on his battleship Kentucky the Emperor, who was well acquainted with him, would be glad to have him touch at some German sea-

Secretary Moody is extremely desirous of doing anything within reason to show the warmth of the friendship which he cherishes towards German and the President and Secretary Hay have the same disposition. They were resolved to miss no opportunity to re-ciprocate the many kindly expressions of regard for America that had come directly from Emperor William

But circumstances conspired to make it impossible to meet either of the hints thrown out from Germany. First, as to the North Atlantic Squadron, the general board here had planned an extensive scheme of maneuvers and drill work which had advanced so far towards execution that the results of failure to complete the work would been disastrons to discipline.

As to Admiral Evans' invitation, it was decided that the Kentucky having been in semitropical waters for a long time and having before her a voyage of nearly 18,000 miles returning to New York in the shortest line, would be in no condition when she arrived at Gibgoing westward to be diverted from her stright course to Northern Europe. She would certainly not have been an attractive ship to inspect at that stage.

But the United States Navy is not to be unrepresented at Kiel. Following warm the usual custom, when the warm weather begins in the Mediterranean, the European squadron will begin slow ly to work its way northward, and it is calculated that it will arrive at Kiel in time to take its proper place in the

This can be done and will be done without undue interference with the routine movements of the European squadron, and attention is directed to the fact that this is the same squadron which is under orders to be at Mar-seilles when President Loubet returns from Africa. While the Navy Department is desirous of showing the greatest courtesy towards President Loubet and the people he represents, it is only fair, in view of the German misconception on the subject, to point out that, being even now only a few hours' sail distant from Marseilles, a failure on the part of the American squadron to greet the returning President would have been little less than a gross discour-

FOILED BY A PLUCKY MAN. One of the Robbers and Was Himself Wounded in the Fight.

The dead man was one of the burglars, and he has not yet been identified. The wounded man was Henry Willoughby, a baker, who surprised the burglars while at work. His injuries are serious, Willoughby was passing the bank at an early hour on his way to work, when he was suddenly confronted by a man, who, at the point of a revolver, ordered him to throw up his hands and keep quiet. He did so, but in his right hand was a revolver, and a moment later both men fired at each other.

At the report of the revolvers two other men rushed from the bank and took a hand in the shooting.

The three-cornered revolver fight aroused some of the people in the vicinity of the bank, and they were soon at the scene of the battle, but before therarrival the burglars fled. While the mer had broken into the banking rooms they had not completed the drilling of the safe, and their attempt at robbery was

The body of one of the burglars was discovered on a vacant lot in the upper

As the bullet wound was near the heart, it is presumed that his companions had to drag or drive their dying companion from the bank to where he was found. While he was dressed in only an ordinary suit of clothes, he was not shabbily dressed, and on his body was found a gold watch and $44 in cash.

Willoughby was shot in both legs, and it is supposed he fired the shot that killed
