Local Miscellany.

Man is always either kicking or being kicked.

It is better to be plucky than to be plucked.

The trials of life are a Godsend to the lawyers.

Hope is a good thing when backed up by hustle.

Things that make a woman cry make a man swear.

The more a man knows the less he blows about it.

It is an ill wind that blows your umbrella inside out.

Some people would spend money to advertise their troubles.

There is reason in all things, and a woman's is "because."

Many a man has got his eyes bugged up looking for trouble.

Every woman hates to scrub yet every woman does a lot of it.

The man with a poor memory should always stick to the truth.

Charity must be kept pretty busy covering the multitudes of sins.

The fellow who is his own worst enemy is bad company for himself.

Don't do a man a favor unless you are sure he has a good memory.

Nothing looks funnier nowadays than a man wearing "congress" shoes.

The things that come to him who waits are often not worth waiting for.

The man with the scrubby mustache generally keeps a stiff upper lip.

The hardest thing to acquire is also the easiest thing to lose—a reputation.

A man must think a mighty lot of a woman to stop and argue with her.

We are apt to reserve praise for ourselves and deal out flattery to others.

It is better to laugh in your sleeve than to weep in your pocket handkerchief.

The optimist looks forward to tomorrow, the pessimist sighs for yesterday.

An idle rumor gains currency which is more than can be said of an idle man.

The prestidigitator makes passes, but he can't ride on a rail road with them.

A man may be perfectly straight and at the same time be bent on doing good.

You can't always tell how much a man is worth by looking at his tax receipt.

When a short man gets sweet on a tall girl he immediately buys a high silk hat.

The man who is too lazy to work himself is generally trying to work someone else.

You couldn't get an idea into some men's heads even by fracturing their skulls.

The promoter of oil wells can't be blamed for running things into the ground.

Some people seem to think they are not being fairly treated unless the are being treated all the time.

Though Summer is the time for outtings it is then that the base ball players have their innings.

If we had our choice of the various forms of insanity most of us would choose to be ideptomaniacs.

Some people who think it is a snap to edit a newspaper, and please everybody, should try it just one day.

Some men look for a job with about the same eagerness that they would look for a needle in a haystack.

Even the fellow who is determined to make a fool of himself should remember that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

How an Old Gentleman's Self Conceit Was Crushed.

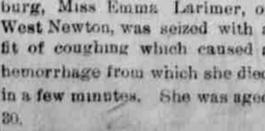

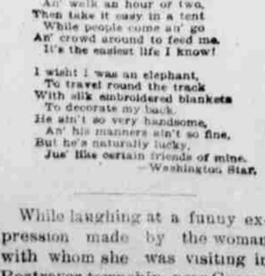

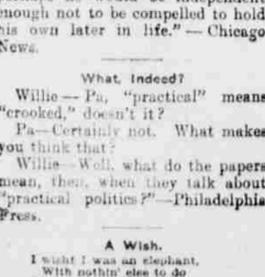

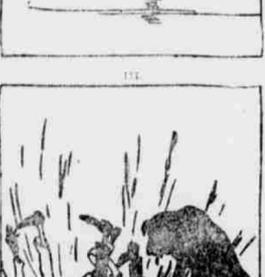

A handsome gentleman of sixty, who looks much younger and still retains an eye for the beautiful...

In a few moments the girls were gazing often at the old gentleman and chattering together in great glee.

"Well, what is it, my son?" "Why, one of those girls next to me said, 'What a funny looking thing that old man is over there!'"

That was the old man's last "dash."—New York Times.

The Fatal Colic.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Trick With a Bottle and Cork and a Lesson in Science.

Get an empty wine bottle and a cork that is, say, two sizes too small for it, so that if put in in the ordinary way it will fall clear down into the bottle.

Lay the bottle on its side and put the cork just within its mouth. Now ask the spectators, one at a time, to try to force the cork into the bottle by blowing on it.

It will amuse you to see the confidence with which the first person sets about the little task. He will step up with an air that says, "Why don't you ask me something hard?"

But the obstinate cork, as if reversing the regular order of things, will come flying out of the bottle instead of disappearing in it.

The second person will approach the task with confidence, too, thinking that the first didn't go about it in the right way exactly; that he blew either too hard or too softly.

So it will be with them all unless some one in the company knows the secret, and when you take a little quill or tube out of your pocket and blow through it right against the center of the cork, thereby driving it in at once, there will be a good laugh.

But still they will not understand, perhaps, why their blowing on it did not drive it in. The reason is that some of the air goes around the cork into the bottle, which has the effect of compressing the air already there, and the cork goes a little way in; but the compression ceases almost instantly and is followed by an expansion, which forces the cork out.

A Little Gentleman.

I know a well bred little boy who never says "I can't."

He never says "Don't want to" or "You've got to" or "You shouldn't."

He never says "I'll tell mamma" or calls his playmates "fools."

A lad more careful of his speech I'm sure was never seen!

He's never ungrammatical; he never mentions "ahnt."

A single word of slang from him would make his mother faint!

And now I'll tell you why it is, but this should seem absurd.

He's now exactly six months old and cannot speak a word! —St. Nicholas.

A Gallant Little Colprit.

Bobby was kept after school for some misdemeanor. It was at kindergarten and his first punishment.

The teacher inquired, "Aren't you sorry, Bobby, to have to stay after school when the others go?"

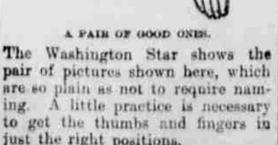

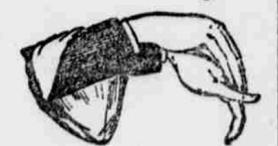

"Oh, no," replied Bobby, "It was just what I wanted, so as to have you all to myself." —Little Chronicle.

Sun and Moon.

A boy said that he didn't care so much for the sun as he did for the moon. "You see," said he, "the sun only comes at daylight when we could see just as well without it, but the moon's some use—it shines at night."

Silhouettes.

There is lots of fun in well made shadow pictures, and there is no end to the number that can be made with the hands and generally without the aid of fixings of any kind.

A FAIR OF GOOD ONES.

The Washington Star shows the pair of pictures shown here, which are so plain as not to require naming. A little practice is necessary to get the thumbs and fingers in just the right positions.

An exchange says: "No community can prosper unless its people are alive to the opportunities of the day. If you wish to see the town grow and prosper, cease your whining, take your hands out of your pockets, disregard your personal feelings and interest, join in any movements for the public good and stick to the town's welfare under all circumstances."

Your Column.

To show our appreciation of the way in which the Fulton County News is adopted into the homes of the people of this county, we have set apart this column for the FREE use of our subscribers for advertising purposes.

1. It is free only to those who are paid-up subscribers.

2. Only personal property can be advertised.

3. Notices must not exceed 30 words.

4. All "legal" notices excluded.

5. Not free to merchants, or any one to advertise goods sold under a mercantile license.

The primary object of this column is to afford farmers and folk who are not in public business, an opportunity to bring to public attention products or stocks they may have to sell, or may want to buy.

Now, this space is yours; if you want to buy a horse, if you want to sell a pig, a hog, a cow, a sheep, or if you want to advertise for a wife—this column is yours.

The News is read weekly by eight thousand people, and is the best advertising medium in the county.

FOR SALE.—Seven fine Berkshire pigs, six weeks old.

ESCAPED AN AWFUL FATE.

Mr. H. Haggins of Metbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by all druggists. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

PAVING CASH.

It would be a good thing if the families of a neighborhood would band together, pledging themselves to buy nothing on credit; to pay cash for every purchase, no matter how their "credit" stood, thus literally living within their means. Pecuniary indebtedness for current living is not desirable, and although voluntary indebtedness is well-nigh universal; it is yet one of the greatest evils extant. Very few people really have to go in debt for necessities. It is the purchase of the unnecessary which calls for credit. One's necessities are really very few, when closely pinned down, if every one would make up his or her mind to buy nothing without paying for it on the instant; it is really wonderful to what a small compass their wants would shrink. If everybody would adopt the cash system, there would be little cry of "hard times" for every one, knowing the exact state of the individual finances, would govern the purchase accordingly and the necessary would take precedence over the mere fancy. The credit system is responsible for an immense amount of unhappiness, loss and ill feeling between friends. The good the system may do is greatly overbalanced by the evil it has done, is doing and will continue to do, so long as it is allowed.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure.
