WARNING TO SUPERVISORS.

On last Wednesday night or very early Thursday morning, says the Orbisonia Dispatch, as a son or employe of John C. Goss, whose home is in Clearfield county, but at the present time is doing some contract work in the vicinity of Grafton, Huntingdon county, was driving in a carriage near Grafton, his horse plunged over a steep bank by the roadside and was killed. The driver himself was uninjured. Mr. Goss was informed of the loss of his horse and the manner in which it occurred. He at once informed the supervisor that he would make a claim of $125. Rather than have a suit over the matter the supervisor and some of the leading citizens of the township where the accident occurred, thought that it would be best to settle the affair at once, for they realized that the law strictly and definitely provides that all public highways shall be made safe to proper precaution had not been taken by them. They, without much deliberation, decided to pay the damage claimed by Mr. Goss and on Saturday morning Anthony Forshey, the supervisor paid over to him $125 for the loss of his horse. This case is rather unique in the rapidity with which the adjustment of the claim was made, equaling the proverbial quickness of Jersey justice.

Crops. Prosperity, and Wall Street.

The August crop report of the Government was less favorable than the July report as regards the volume of the wheat crop, first time they fail. They are the figures being reduced from 720,000,000 to 650,000,000. This, however, is a bountiful vield, and with them until we get the reone to be thankful for,—the high sults. orices being very satisfactory to Western farmers. The August estimate for corn, on the other hand, was better than had been expected, and the corn crop will, after all, probably fall short of that of 1902 by only 10 per cent. or thereabouts. Taking into account the other cereals, the hay crop and the pasturage, the fruit crop, and the potatoes and the lesser products of garden and farm, the season will have averaged a very good one indeed for the American tillers of the soil. The past year has been decidedly the greatest in our manufacuring history, and for the first time the total volume of our domestic exports has exceeded that of Great Britain or any other nation. It is only in Wall Street that the times have been bad. The stock-market slump of July continued well into August, al though after the middle of the month a better condition set in, of a sort that made it seem that the worst was over. The Wall Street promoters and speculators had simply been the victims of their own excesses. Many of them had borrowed large sums of money for the sake of holding shares of stock that they expected to sell to the public at a profit. Not being able to do this, they were obliged to liquidate quickly, and thus they made sacrifice of their holdings. The average market price, which had been too high, was depressed until it became much too low. Then the should be provisions by which a conservative investing public began to come in quietly to steady the situation. It is the opinion of most wise men that this rather drastic experience has been a good thing for Wall Street itself, and an especially fortunate thing in the column of party names for the legitimate business of the country at large.-From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Re- Saturday till Monday with her viers for Ser tember.

The Ballot We Vote This Fall.

An exchange says the samples of the new ballot which goes into use for the first time at the coming election show it to be still far from perfection, yet a vast improvement over the old form. In the first place it is smaller and, therefore, more convenient than the large sheet formerly used, while we get a step nearer to the real Australian ballot by the abandonment of the party columns and substituting therefore the names of candidates in groups under the title of the offices for which they have been nominated. No candidates name is printed more than once no matter how many parties he may be nomi-

Under the old form a single name could appear in any number of columns, and politicians took advantage of this provision to confuse and mislead unwary voters by a multiplication of the columns. This will no longer be possible, but there is still likely to be some confusion by having two ways to mark the ballot.

The ballot reformers desired one system of marking, justly contending that where there was but one way the chance of blundering would be reduced to a minimum; but the Legislature refused to carry the reform to that extent, and yielded to the demand of those who insisted that there straight ticket of any party could be voted by a single mark. In the old ballots this was done by making a cross in the circle at the top of the party column; in the new ballot it is provided for down the left side of the sheet.

Because of his kindness in taking care of a supposed pauper named Kellar for four years, John Kelly, a hostler in a livery stable at Omaha, Neb., was notified that a draft for $100,000 in eash was enroute to him from Rock Island.

Although drawing slender wages himself, Kelly found means to care for Kellar, who was aged. without thought of reward.
